BUNK CANNOT WIN: AL SMITH

DARROW OPENS MASSIE MURDER DEFENSE TODAY

"Inside" of Slaying to Be Revealed.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

HONOLULU, April 13.—After three months of silence, mystery and guessing, the story of just what happened in the Honolulu bungalow of Mrs. Granville Fortescue, American society woman, on the morning of Jan. 8 when, according to proof already before the court, Joseph Kahahawai, young Hawaiian athlete, was killed by one of four persons after a plot to kidnap him had been carried out, will begin to be unfolded tomorrow.

Prosecutor John E. Kelley, after the third day of testimony, which has built a mountain of physical and circumstantial evidence against Mrs Fortescue and her three codefendants Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, her son-in-law, and Albert O. Jones and E. J Lord, naval enlisted men, in which the finger of suspicion as to the actual killing has pointed now to one and now to another of the quartet, announced today that he would conclude his case in fifteen minutes tomorrow morning.

Darrow Says He's Ready.

"We will be ready," said Clarence Darrow, leader of the defense, in response to a query by Judge Charles S. Davis.

The stage is thus set for one of the most dramatic courtroom plays ever enacted, with the possibility of scene after scene of surpassing interest from the point of view of human psychology, motive, and suggestions of emotional insanity, as in the Harry K. Thaw case.

Every one is wondering whether Mrs. Thalia Massie, wife of the naval officer, whose rape has shaken a government, will tell her story here and whether her husband, her mother, or one of the loyal sailors of the United States navy will confess to firing the fatal shot.

What Will Defense Be?

And above all there is a mystery as to what new and special justification will be revealed here. For Honolulu is still not sure that Kahahawai deserved his death, with his guilt of the rape of Mrs. Massie unproved to the public.

Forty-two exhibits were piled up on the clerk's desk as the prosecution's case neared its close. Ropes with the telltale purple thread of the navy, buttons with the telltale blue thread of Kahahawai's underclothes, guns, bullets, blood stained sheets, towels, and clothing are among the weird assortment of mute materials presented by the prosecution.

Each day produces more mad-hatter situations and actions until one would think a brainstorm had struck all these four at the same time. For instance, today there was the testimony of the gun merchant who sold a gun to Jones, one of the defendants, last Dec. 17 and another to Mrs. Fortescue herself on the day before.

Find Shell on Sailor.

These were not the guns with which Kahahawai were killed, but in the watch pocket of Jones when he was searched at the police station was found a shell of an exploded cartridge which, according to the expert, was the same kind from which came the bullet dug out of Kahahawai's body.

Why he did not toss it away in the bushes as he left the house is one of the unexplained incidents of the case and is one of many of similar neglect, carelessness or something else. Some one did away with the gun with which the killing was done, but left a dozen other clews loosely around.

The prosecution offered testimony that seemed to hint that possibly it was Mrs Massie who had done away with the murder gun. This development came when a detective on the witness stand said Mrs. Massie had left the Fortescue house after the slaying was discovered carrying an overnight bag. Prosecutor Kelley asked if it was big enough to hold a ".32 Colt."

Hint Slaying Was Premeditated.

On the day before the killing, according to witnesses today, Mrs. Fortescue told her little Japanese maid not to come the next day as no one would be home. A Japanese matron who lives to the rear of the flower covered Fortescue garage, said she saw a woman whom she identified in court as Mrs. Fortescue, pulling down the window shade of the "box car" automobile on the morning of Jan. 8.

Mrs. Fortescue was described at the police station after her arrest as showing a calm manner, reading the story

GETTING HARDER AND HARDER TO EXPLAIN

6 GIRLS MISSING ON PICNIC JAUNT IN FOREST TRACT

Six girls, none older than 14 years, were reported lost in the forest preserves last night. Search for them was started by city and county highway police along the wooded tracts bordering the Des Plaines river.

The children, classmates at St. Hilary's parochial school, Bryn Mawr and North California avenues, started out at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, carrying blankets and light camping equipment. When they had not returned at 11 p. m. Richard Mosher, 5507 North Artesian avenue, father of Dorothy Mosher, 14, one of the lost girls, notified Summerdale police. He is a city fireman.

From a classmate of his daughter Mosher learned that the girls planned to hike west on Lawrence avenue to the Des Plaines river and thence northward. Police considered the girls' presence in the preserves at night dangerous because of casuals who frequent the tracts.

BOOTLEG LIQUOR IS CALLED MAIN AMNESIA CAUSE

The Rev. Dr. John R. Oliver, widely known psychiatrist of Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, Md., yesterday told the students of Western Theological seminary, Evanston, that bootleg liquor is a primary cause of amnesia or loss of memory. The rise of this psychic condition, he stated, is among the most unfortunate by-products of the prohibition amendment.

Dr. Oliver, who is a clergyman as well as psychiatric physician, is the author of several books bearing on psychology and religion. He has been the psychiatrist for Baltimore courts for fifteen years. Dr. Oliver is giving a special course of lectures to theological students. He stated yesterday that the basis of the depression is fear and that the world is mentally sick.

Poor Pharaohs! Poland Classes Them as Dried Fish

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GDYNIA, Poland, April 13.—The Egyptian Pharaohs will probably turn over in their tombs if by any chance they become acquainted with the action of Polish customs officials in applying a duty on mummies. The arrival at Gdynia of an Egyptian mummy ordered by Warsaw university caused consternation among customs officers, who were unable to discover such an item listed in the tariff regulations. Following a general inspectors' conference, the mummy was charged the same duty as is charged dried fish.

Judge Needs Defendant's Aid to Jail Him

The war of the two special grand juries, born of campaign charges, was brightened yesterday with an interlude of opera-bouffe. Criminal Court Clerk George Seif played the unwilling lead in the legal burlesque, which brought forth two judicial paradoxes.

The hostilities were resumed soberly enough after the primary truce when Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg, who was defeated for the Republican nomination for state's attorney by State's Attorney Swanson, reconvened his special jury.

Orders Seif to Jail.

Judge Feinberg has proclaimed himself a judge of the Criminal court in order to conduct his special grand jury inquiry into campaign charges. When his jury met yesterday Judge Feinberg fined Clerk Seif $1,000 and ordered him committed to the county jail indefinitely for failure to send a deputy Criminal court clerk to him when his jury was impaneled. The judge said the sentence will run until such time as Seif decides to send a deputy to the court. However, the judge postponed issuance of a formal order until the afternoon session of his court.

When Clerk Seif was apprised of the impending sentence he went into a conference with attachés of the office. Then he went to the office of State's Attorney Swanson and demanded that the state's attorney represent him under the statute which provides that the prosecutor act as lawyer for county officials.

Mr. Swanson appointed Assistant State's Attorneys Euclid Taylor and Charles E. Lounsbury to look after Mr. Seif's defense, although he pointed out the anomalous position of his office in having two of his assistants defending the court clerk while Special Assistant State's Attorney Louis E. Hart, also nominally attached to the prosecutor's office, was prosecuting him.

Find They Need Defendant's Aid.

The second paradox was presented when Judge Feinberg opened the afternoon session to enter his formal order. Before he took the bench, shortly after 2 p. m., the judge was closeted with Attorney Hart.

"Your honor," Attorney Hart began, "since I was instructed to prepare the order I have learned that we cannot get a mittimus without the coöperation of the defendant, Mr. Seif. As clerk of the Criminal court he is custodian of the court seal, without which orders are not valid.

"The defendant refuses to affix the seal to a mittimus which would send him to jail. Therefore, I suggest that the matter be continued until I can amend the order. I have no doubt of the legality of the order, but wish to have it drawn to surmount possible attack."

The judge continued the case until April 25. Attorneys pointed out that if Judge Feinberg were sitting in his regular branch of the Circuit court and had the matter pending properly before him, he might sentence the clerk without encountering the difficulty of the Criminal court seal.

Immediately after the continuance was granted Judge Feinberg adjourned court. Attorney Hart went to the grand jury. He announced that the jury would adjourn for a week while plans of action were being formulated. No witnesses were heard.

Judge Feinberg was asked if the continuance meant the end of the jury, inasmuch as the primary campaign had ended.

"It does not," he declared. "I was charged with creating the grand jury merely to further my campaign. Now, I am no longer a candidate. The grand jury will proceed."

JAPANESE BEAT BEVERIDGE, SON OF LATE SENATOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, April 14.—[Thursday.]—Albert J. Beveridge, son of the late Senator Beveridge of Indiana, was beaten in Yokohama last night by two rowdies. He was semi-conscious for some time, but he managed to get to the business section of the city and obtain assistance.

Beveridge said he was "hit on the head with a bottle for no reason at all except the fact that I am an American and apparently my antagonists thought I had money."

SIMPSON BEATS CHINDBLOM IN CONGRESS RACE

Horner Victory Grows

Belated returns yesterday boosted Judge Horner's plurality well towards the 150,000 mark for the Democratic nomination for governor. At the same time Len Small's plurality on the Republican ticket was cut down to about 90,000. Details on Page 3.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A neck and neck race in which James Simpson Jr. beat Congressman Carl R. Chindblom and Ralph E. Church on the face of the police returns gave a galloping finish last night to the Republican primary contest for congress in the 10th, or Evanston, district. Simpson crossed the wire some 300 votes ahead of Church, with the veteran Chindblom running third.

The congressional fights brought several upsets and queer wet and dry vote mixtures. In three other districts sitting congressmen were defeated for renomination. They are Congressmen W. E. [Ed] Hull of Peoria, a Republican, and James T. Igoe and Stanley Kunz, wet Chicago Democrats.

Stirring Contest in 10th.

The contest in the 10th district—which stretches from North avenue to the Wisconsin boundary and embraces the north shore suburbs, including Evanston, home of the national W. C. T. U., and the whole of Lake county—from the start was the liveliest in the state.

Mr. Simpson, 27 years old, son of James Simpson, head of Marshall Field & Co. and chairman of the Chicago plan commission, got into the field last summer as an avowed liberal.

Chindblom and Church are former drys, Church being one of the five Cook county assemblymen who voted against repeal of the state search and seizure act last year. Six weeks before election they hit the sawdust trail simultaneously. Church issued a modification plank, while at the same hour in Washington Mr. Chindblom voted for the Beck-Linthicum resolution and announced himself in favor of the 4 per cent beer bill.

Simpson Ahead in Two Counts.

As the police count neared its finish yesterday, victory swung alternately between Church and Simpson. Last night the City News bureau figures for Cook county complete, plus the Lake county returns assembled at Waukegan, gave Simpson 301 plurality over Church. Soon afterwards the Church managers gave out the tabulation they had made on the Cook county precincts. It varied considerably from the City News bureau figures, but oddly enough when combined with the Lake county figures it gave Simpson a plurality of 309. The tabulations are:

	Cook Co. [Bureau figures.]	Lake Co.	Total.
Simpson	21,863	6,162	28,025
Church	23,080	4,644	27,724
Chindblom	15,101	7,319	22,420

Simpson's plurality—301.

	Cook Co. [Church figures.]	Lake Co.	Total.
Simpson	26,948	6,162	33,110
Church	28,157	4,644	32,801
Chindblom	24,139	7,319	31,458

Simpson's plurality—309.

Glenn Increases Lead.

In the contest for the Republican nomination for United States senator, Senator Otis F. Glenn increased his lead over Newton Jenkins to an indicated 160,000. Returns from 5,725 precincts out of 7,229 in Illinois gave Glenn, 462,297; Jenkins, 306,342; Wright, 67,777. Glenn carried Chicago, a dozen precincts missing, by 95,192. In Cook county 3,524 precincts out of 3,544 gave Glenn, 280,158; Jenkins, 148,273; Wright, 37,432.

William H. Dieterich of Beardstown had 301,951 votes as against 96,507 for Scott W. Lucas of Havana in 5,311 precincts out of 7,229 in Illinois, in the Democratic race for the senatorship. In Cook county 3,523 precincts out of 3,544 gave Dieterich 266,309; Lucas, 50,266.

On congressman at large, two of whom are elected, the returns were far from complete. Richard Yates, present congressman, Anti-Saloon league Republican, and Julius Klein, dripping wet, were in the lead in reports from 5,001 precincts out of 7,229 in Illinois. Returns from these precincts gave: Yates, 243,659; Klein, 151,372; Tyrrell Richardson, 85,661.

Grain Corp. Calls on Hyde to Close Pit

A long smoldering feud between the Chicago Board of Trade and the federally subsidized Farmers' National Grain corporation broke into the open yesterday.

SECRETARY HYDE.

The head of the grain corporation, C. E. Huff of Salina, Kas., opened hostilities. Mr. Huff sent a petition to Washington asking Secretary of Agriculture Hyde to initiate steps "to revoke the designation of the Board of Trade as a contract market," which would mean abolition of the board.

Reveals Denial of Membership.

Explaining Mr. Huff's action, the corporation's publicity bureau issued a statement revealing for the first time that the grain corporation had recently applied for and been denied a membership in the board of trade clearing corporation and revealing also that the Updike Grain company, a subsidiary owned entirely by the corporation, had been cited before the directors of the board of trade for violation of the rules of trade and was up for expulsion.

"These actions of the board of trade," Mr. Huff was quoted as saying, "constitute a violation of the federal grain futures act and threaten irreparable injury to agricultural producers who market their grain coöperatively."

Board President Replies.

Peter B. Carey, the new president of the Board of Trade, issued a rejoinder bristling with sarcasm and defiance. He denounced Mr. Huff's action as a piece of "bureaucratic insincerity," and questioned the patriotism of Huff and his associates.

"Wheat prices have been rising and giving farmers some encouragement of late," said Mr. Carey. "Therefore, judging from past blunders, we might expect some disquieting statement of this character from the farm board or the high salaried officers of its subsidiary.

"They know there is not the slightest basis for the issuance of such an inflammatory statement, and they must know it is extremely dangerous to the financial situation at this time, and reflects a low degree of patriotism.

"Mr. Huff and his associates know full well that the Chicago Board of Trade could not be closed without the subsequent closing of innumerable banks in the grain belt."

In his petition, Mr. Huff calls upon Secretary Hyde to convoke a commission composed of Mr. Hyde, the secretary of commerce, and the attorney general, as provided by the grain futures act, to inquire into Mr. Huff's charge that the board of trade violated the statute in denying the grain corporation a membership.

Corporations Are Barred.

In denying the corporation's application, the governor's of the board explained that they acted pursuant to rule 313 of their organization, which was passed in April, 1929, and which thereafter barred all corporations from membership on the theory that in the event of a failure the liability of the officers and stockholders would be limited, whereas in a simple partnership all partners would be fully liable.

In the petition, Mr. Huff cites section 5 of the grain futures act, which declares that "all coöperatives are entitled to all privileges on contract markets, including the right to clear their own trades, regardless of their corporate form."

Not a Coöp, Board Holds.

Mr. Carey attacked this contention "The section cited may well assure farm coöperatives unrestricted trading privileges," he said. "We contend

ASSAILS THOSE WHO PIT CLASS AGAINST CLASS

Aim of Fiery Speech Is Roosevelt.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 13.—Utterances by Alfred E. Smith, titular leader of the Democratic party, at the Jefferson day dinner here tonight furnished a sensational climax to a series of gatherings today which had the purpose of mobilizing Democratic victory in the presidential election next November.

ALFRED E. SMITH.

After proposing the postponement of payment of the war debts for twenty years and cancellation of 25 cents of debt for every dollar's worth of American goods the debtors buy and after outlining his conception of the platform his party should adopt, Mr. Smith barked out a denunciation of demagoguery containing a hint that he may soon launch an open fight against the candidacy of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, leading contender for the Democratic nomination for President.

Ready to Fight Roosevelt.

"I have recently stated," said Mr. Smith, "that while I would accept a nomination for the presidency if it were tendered me by the convention, that until the convention assembled I would not be for or against any candidate. I announce tonight an exception to that statement. I will take off my coat and fight to the end against a candidate who persists in any demagogic appeal to the masses of the working people of this country to destroy themselves by setting class against class and rich against poor."

At this, amid applause by Smith admirers, the nearly 1,000 guests at the dinner, including Democratic leaders of all factions from all parts of the country, pricked up their ears and exchanged significant glances. It was recognized at once that this was veiled allusion to the recent speech of Gov. Roosevelt characterizing Hoover policies for depression relief as designed to benefit the rich but not the poor. The Roosevelt utterance has been widely commented on as an appeal to radicalism.

Roosevelt to Ignore It.

In the light of his significant utterance the whole speech of the Democratic candidate of 1928 took on a new aspect for his listeners. Some viewed it as a declaration of principles on which Mr. Smith now intends to prosecute a vigorous fight for renomination. Others regarded it merely as a warning to Roosevelt to adopt a more conservative attitude or suffer the consequences.

James Farley, Roosevelt campaign manager, immediately got the New York governor on the telephone and repeated to him the passage from Mr. Smith's speech. He brought back word that Gov. Roosevelt will ignore the Smith attack. Roosevelt partisans, who were present in large numbers at the dinner, received Smith coldly, whooped it up for Roosevelt frequently throughout the evening and went home loudly asserting that the Smith assault on their hero would prove a boomerang and turn the tide of sentiment more strongly than ever in his favor.

Byrd Urges Vote on Liquor.

Another outstanding incident of the dinner celebrating the 189th anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson was the declaration of former Gov. Harry Byrd of dry Virginia in favor of resubmission of prohibition to the people. Prolonged cheers greeted his assertions that "no law is stronger than the public sentiment to sustain it." He rejected the Raskob home rule plan and proposed a constitutional amendment enabling congress to submit the repeal or amendment of the 18th amendment to the states for ratification by popular vote.

"I am glad to hear from Virginia," said Mr. Smith amid laughter.

Mr. Smith never was in deadlier earnest than in the portion of his speech in which he paid his respects to demagogues in general and to Gov. Roosevelt in particular. His normally florid features were flushed with an even deeper hue, his raucous voice rasped like a buzz saw striking a knot, his eyes blazed and his fists flailed the circumambient air.

preface to his shot at Roosevelt he said:

"This is no time for demagogues. At a time like this, when millions of men, and women, and children are starving throughout the land, there is always the temptation to some men to stir up class prejudice, to stir up the bitterness of the rich against the poor, and of the poor against the rich.

Protests Fooling Poor.

"Against that effort, I set myself uncompromisingly. I protest against the endeavor to delude the poor people of this country to their ruin by trying to make them believe that they can get employment before the people who would ordinarily employ them are also again restored to conditions of normal prosperity. A factory worker cannot get his job back until business conditions enable the factory owner to open up again, and to promise the great masses of working people that they can secure renewed employment by class legislation is treachery to those working people, to the principles of the Democratic party and to this United States itself."

Seated with Mr. Smith at the speakers' table were Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Toastmaster James M. Cox, Democratic candidate for President in 1920; John W. Davis of New York, the 1924 candidate, and numerous potential candidates for the 1932 nomination, including Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker of Ohio, Gov. George White of Ohio, and former Gov. Harry Byrd of Virginia.

Roosevelt Stays Away.

Others were Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee, Jouett Shouse, chairman of the executive committee; Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, minority leader of the senate; Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, majority leader of the house, and Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, who will be the temporary chairman and keynoter of the national convention.

Conspicuous for his absence was Gov. Roosevelt, who had accepted at first, but later had withdrawn his acceptance for reasons not wholly clear, particularly as he is billed to address a Jefferson day dinner at St. Paul next week. Gossip had it that Mr. Roosevelt, sensing the probable domination of the occasion tonight by Mr. Smith, had decided to avoid an atmosphere unhealthful for his candidacy. Other absentees who figure in presidential reckonings were Gov. Alfalfa Bill Murray of Oklahoma, Owen D Young of New York, and Melvin Traylor of Chicago.

Explains War Debt Plan.

Of equal interest to his significant reference to Roosevelt was Mr. Smith's world war debt settlement proposal, which his audience immediately construed to be a proffered plank for the Democratic platform.

"As a result of the world war," said Mr. Smith, "the leading nations of Europe are heavily indebted to the United States. We have devised in the past all kinds of schemes for meeting the situation. We have declared a moratorium for one year which is nearing its end. But when all is said and done one fact stands out far beyond the power of anybody to dispute it, and that is that the nations who owe us money have not got it. You can't get from anybody what he doesn't have any more than you can get blood out of a stone. And, because of these foreign debts and because of our tariff wall, American exports have fallen off in the last year more than fifty per cent.

United States Needs Foreign Market.

"We are a great creditor nation. We are producing on our farms and in our factories millions of dollars of products which cannot be sold to our own people and which we must sell in foreign commerce. But our foreign customers cannot buy because they are already heavily our debtors.

"They cannot even pay us what they owe, much less buy additional merchandise from us, and we have stood idly by, strangling the trade of the world and our own trade with foreign nations by holding these debts over their heads, by raising a tariff wall which shuts out their products and makes it impossible for them to pay us in goods. Our wheat is rotting on our farms while other nations starve for bread. Our warehouses are piled high with merchandise, while other nations go unclothed and in want.

"In order to restore the buying power of the American people we have not only to stimulate business within our own borders but we must sell American products to the other nations of the world. If there is any chance of collecting the money due the United States from the foreign governments there exists the necessity for our selling to them the products of our farms and our factories. Why not cut through all the red tape and get away from all the involved economic ideas that are connected with it and deal with the problem on a pure business basis?

Pay Us by Buying Goods.

"Let us say to the nations of Europe who owe us money that we will forget all about it for twenty years, and not only will we do that but we will write off as paid each year 25 per cent of the gross value of American products which they buy from us. This, in effect, is to say to any nation which owes us money if it purchases $100,000,000 of our cotton we will forget $25,000,000 of its indebtedness. If it will buy $100,000,000 of our wheat, our fruit, our tobacco or any of our manufactured products we will forget $25,000,000 of its indebtedness. Figures here used are arbitrary and are intended only to express the principle.

"This will help the farmer and the laborer; it will help the mill owner; it will help the manufacturer; it will help the railroads and the transportation industries, and in turn help all the various lines of activities that are dependent upon the railroads, and help solve the problem of unemployment generally.

Remove Menace to Business.

"I assert that this is a far better way to restore trade than the present method of sitting idly by, clamoring for the payment of debts which we know cannot be paid and thereby losing for the farmers and manufacturers and workingmen of the United States more billions of dollars than the whole European debt.

"This plan will start from the ports of the United States a flood of American made goods into the homes and factories of our neighbors across the sea, and we will in return credit them on the debts which we know they are unable to pay. That will remove the menace to business throughout the world, which is the greatest curse of the present uncertainty."

No less arresting than these utterances of the titular head of the party was a rebuke Mr. Smith administered to party leaders and party platform writers who exhibit a wealth of denunciation of the opposing party, but a poverty of constructive proposals of reform. The speeches of Gov. Ritchie, former Gov. Cox and other orators of the evening and of the earlier gatherings of the day had been plentifully larded with such excoriations of the Hoover administration.

Pleads for Simple Platform.

Mr. Smith began his address with a plea that the Chicago convention "declare a set of political promises and principles which will command the attention, the respect, and the support of the American people.

"It has been my experience in the past that the party platform has been altogether too wordy, too long, too complicated and usually put in such language and terms as to be not readily understandable by the ordinary man. A large part of the platforms in the past has been given to denunciation of our political opponents. If ever there was a time in the history of the party when that is unnecessary it is now. The short comings of the present administration are listed daily in Republican newspapers throughout the country which only four short years ago proclaimed the necessity for Republican ascendancy in order to preserve prosperity.

Fault Finding Waste of Time.

"Fault finding with the Republican administration in a party platform is a waste of time and of space which had better be devoted to constructive proposals.

"It must be borne in mind that the Democratic party is the minority party in this country. That is revealed to us by the indisputable fact that only two Democrats have been elected to the presidency of the United States since the civil war and I am inclined to the belief that we are that minority party because during all of that period we seem to have attempted to win national approval as a rebuke to the majority party. In other words we seem to seek negative victory rather than affirmative victory. We seek to ride into power upon the mistakes of our opponents rather than upon constructive promise and achievement on our own part.

Country Tired of Diagnosing.

'I would like to see the platform adopted in Chicago so brief and so concise that it could be read by the man on the street with understanding in a very few minutes.

"This country today is sick and tired of listening to political campaign orators who tell us what is the matter with us. Few, if any of them, know what the cure is. Of recent months I have heard no cure advanced, but I have heard the old complaint explained all over again with a few trimmings here and there. It is a perfectly easy thing to say we must restore the purchasing power of the farmer. Fine! Of course, we must. But how are we going to do it? I would sooner have a short hand shake with the fellow who knows how to do it than listen for a week to the fellow who knows how to tell you what the trouble is."

Repeal Dry Law to Prosper.

Mr. Smith linked repeal of prohibition directly with relief of the economic plight of the country. People everywhere, he said, are clamoring for relief from the 18th amendment and from the Volstead act which "has been termed by a federal judge the senseless interpretation of an intoxicant promulgated by congress.

"We have spent in recent years hundreds of millions of dollars in the futile, foolish endeavor to make people temperate by law and while we are spending that, the farmers are losing the millions of dollars which formerly came to them from the sale of their cereals for use in alcoholic beverages, and thousands of men legitimately engaged in that industry are out of employment.

"Yet some members of congress are too cowardly to apply to this situation the sound Jeffersonian doctrine of local self-government. They stand meekly by while a police ordinance grafted on our constitution shuts off millions of dollars of income and causes millions of dollars of wasteful outlay; they quake with terror before small organized minorities who believe themselves self-appointed of the morals of their fellow citizens.

Calls for State Liquor Control.

"If this party desires to adhere to the principles of Jefferson, if it wishes to be true to itself and to the people of this country, it must in Chicago in no uncertain terms and in a language of the clear kind that Jefferson could write, declare for the return to the state of the power to control the manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquor. Let us not duck nor dodge; let us put into our platform a plank for a new constitutional amendment on this subject such as every man within the sound of my voice knows that Jefferson would write if he were alive and with us tonight."

Speaker John Garner and the Democratic house came in for a rap from the ferule of titular leader Smith.

"The Democratic platform," said Mr. Smith, "should definitely declare for a thoroughgoing reorganization of the governmental machinery to prevent overlapping of function, duplication of effort and the consequent waste and inefficiency which grow from it. This must be done without fear or favor. In fact it is my belief that the present house of representatives should have presented such a plan.

"I spoke about it in the campaign of 1928 and if I am any judge whatever of public attitude to governmental questions what I said about it was received with acclaim by audiences which listened to me throughout the United States. It is passing strange that every time additional money is required for the operation of the government nobody thinks of dispensing with some of the existing expenditures or retrenching in government expenditures, but everybody seeks immediately new fields of taxation.

"The chairman of the ways and means committee of the house of representatives said recently that congress was against economy, in favor of more appropriations and against lower taxation.

"The Democratic party cannot afford to maintain any such attitude. It must make a vigorous and forceful effort to reduce the cost of this government; to cut out useless activities; to consolidate necessary ones and so to reorganize the various departments as to elliminate overhead and unnecessary expenditure of public money before it seeks new avenues of taxation."

Wants Experts' Tariff.

On the tariff Mr. Smith proposed the declaration of his 1928 Louisville speech for a determination of duties by an expert commission without political log rolling. He blamed the Smoot-Hawley tariff act for the loss of foreign trade and the erection of high tariff walls against us abroad. The tariff of the future, he thought, must be regulated by international considerations.

No magic wand can relieve unemployment, said Mr. Smith and added:

"While a settlement of the foreign debts question upon the basis that I just suggested and a readjustment of the tariff will eventually attack the disease at the root, meanwhile relief can come and will come provided the government will stimulate industry and promote employment by the issuance of federal bonds sold on a war time basis for the promotion of American prosperity. These would be used to finance necessary public improvements, both those provided for by appropriations from the general funds and those projected and designed, but for which up to date no provision has been made by the way of appropriation.

Work Better Than Dole.

"Exception to this has recently been taken in a nationwide speech by a prominent Democrat on the theory that it is a stop-gap. Whoever said that it was anything else? It is at least better than nothing, and infinitely better than a continuance of the disguised dole in states and municipalities encouraged by the federal government until the localities have given to the point of exhaustion and have reached a point where they are close to the limit of their constitutional borrowing and taxing power and at the end of the private resources of their citizens.

"It is the easiest thing in this country today to tear down. It is the easiest thing in the world to criticize. It is an easy thing to tell what is the matter, but it is an extremely difficult thing to construct, to suggest and to have behind the suggestion the element of possibility of accomplishment. The country is flooded with statesmen who orate and stop at that. Oratory puts nobody to work. In a little while, unless it carries with it constructive suggestion it will be unpopular even on the radio."

"Fair" Is Democratic Slogan.

Rebuking his party for its faults and preaching to his party the way it should go, Mr. Smith proceeded with the leading men and women of the party giving startled ear to the pronouncements he was barking forth. Again and again he touched upon the danger of the party espousing the attitude of radicalism.

"No relief," he emphasized, "can come to the country from constant fault finding. Constructive proposals are the order of the day and written across the Democratic banner must be the single word 'Fair'—fair treatment to everybody, to capital, to labor, to the farmer; and if here and there capital abuses its privileges, do not condemn capital as a whole, but root out the evil doer; and where unfair practices creep into the labor unions do not condemn the entire labor movement but rather sustain it and strengthen it by rooting out the evil doers. Fair treatment to everybody, special privilege to none whether they be rich or poor, is the basic theory of Democracy and one upon which it has the right to claim the support and the confidence of the rank and file of the people no matter what their condition of life may be."

"Stand for Something."

Titular Leader Smith ended his address, as he began it, with admonitions regarding the platform. It was not doubted he had the prohibition plank in mind when he said:

"It will not do for the Democratic party to seek victory at the polls simply upon the theory that there will be reward in store for the faithful in the way of patronage. The desire to accomplish victory simply for patronage purposes seems to lie behind the cry for party harmony at the expense of party principle.

"One of the greatest and most heroic leaders of our party, Grover Cleveland, used these words after he had been once nominated and elected to the presidency, once nominated and defeated and before he received his third nomination, which resulted in his second triumphal election. He said: 'What is the use of election or re-election unless we stand for something,' and I propose that we shall definitely and affirmatively stand for something in our Chicago platform.

"Some Democrats say, 'Give us a short convention.' Others say, 'Nominate a candidate against whom nothing can be said, while there cannot be much said for him.' The disposition to gloss over controversial questions in an attempt to please both sides of the argument will bring forth a meaningless document, a colorless candidate, and a weakened party. Expediency will win nothing for Democracy.

"It would be better that the convention remain in session all summer and give to the people a vigorous, strong, clearly defined platform and candidates capable of fighting for it than to hurry away from Chicago with a half baked proposal to offer to the people of the country.

"We will not win and we shall not even deserve to win if we turn our national convention into a mere cheap conspiracy to obtain the spoils of public office.

"At no time in the history of the country was there offered to any political party the opportunity that is today presented to the Democratic party for constructive effort and constructive achievement in the interest of all of our people.

"When we speak about the party winning we should mean that the country is to be the winner. Only by courage, by foresight, and by careful preparation of the platform without compromise, without the give and take processes that set principle at naught can the United States win, and if the United States is not going to win, what difference does it make which party wins?"

The other speeches at the dinner were completely overshadowed by the Smith pronouncement.

Gov. Ritchie Assails Hoover.

Gov. Ritchie went after President Hoover hammer and tongs on the economy issue, much to the delight of his audience. He accused the President of fiddling while the country burned in the early stages of the depression. Mr. Hoover, he said, proceeded on the theory "that by some sore of legerdemain business would revive and prosperity would return if only the American people could be deluded into believing that good times were hiding just around the corner."

It is imperative that "a government in the red" reduce expenses, Gov. Ritchie argued, and then proceeded to portray President Hoover as belatedly stirred to activity for radical retrenchment after the Democrats in the house and senate had initiated a far reaching economy program.

"It has taken a long, long time," he said, "and it has required a lot of Democratic persistence for Mr. Hoover to see that the only way to cut expenses is to cut them."

U. S. Shares in Crime, Says Cox.

Toastmaster Cox began with a survey of crime ridden America in which "the chief criminal of our time, from his cell in a Chicago jail, brazenly proclaims his power to succeed where government has failed"—an allusion patently to Capone's suggestion that he could recover the Lindbergh baby.

"We find the federal government,' Mr. Cox went on, "humbly taking, in income taxes, a 'cut' in the profits of crime. To escape that toll the criminal world has ceased to bank the proceeds of its crime. The vast sums of money expended for liquor, which is not supposed to be sold in this country, are thus going into hoarding, underground. And now we hear the pathetic voice of the government begging these and other hoarded funds to come forth again. With an audacity beyond the black flag pirates of old this criminal world invades new fields and we hear the mothers of America invoking heaven to defend the children which their government cannot or does not protect."

Woman Attacks Bureaus.

Representative Mary T. Norton of New Jersey made the hit of the "victory luncheon," which came after the meeting at which reports on the victory fund drive were received, with an attack on the wasteful government bureaus, especially the "so-called bureau of prohibition enforcement." She said:

"When one attempts to list the offenses committed by the prohibition bureau, words fail. From the passage of the eighteenth amendment up to this year of 1932, the noble experiment has cost the American people in dollars, three hundred and seventy million, three hundred and sixty thousand, five hundred and eighty-five. This sum is based upon official figures. This does not take into consideration the revenue which could be had from a legalized tax on beer and wine; while the cost in murders, suicides, corruption, crime, prison and insane asylum upkeep cannot be estimated.

"While all of this is developing, the leader of our country is not sufficiently interested to even attempt to discover the remedy. Men on capitol hill with closed minds refuse to read the evident handwriting on the wall."

At that the 1,000 men and women at the luncheon tables arose with a whoop and stood applauding and cheering the New Jersey congresswoman.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, minority leader, raked the administration fore and aft from Mr. Hoover's campaign speeches promising the abolition of poverty to the President's failure to espouse drastic retrenchment of federal expenses.

"The miracle man's theory, that the best method of stimulating business is to withdraw capital from home industries for loans to bankrupt foreign borrowers, must be repudiated," he said. "This government should announce a firm purpose not to cancel or readjust obligations due from foreign countries, except upon conditions manifestly to the interest of our own people," and added that reciprocal tariffs should be established and the anti-trust laws enforced.

Government Costs 14 Billions.

"Reduction of the high cost of government," he went on, "is among the most difficult tasks which the Democratic party will inherit when the administration of President Hoover dies on the 4th of March, 1933. The current annual deficit is approximately two billion dollars. The total annual cost of government, including national and state in all subdivisions, approaching 14 billion dollars, of which four billions are allocated to the federal budget.

"The marked divergence between revenues and expenditures threatens the national credit. That credit must be maintained. The people of the United States can not afford and do not desire a 4 billion dollar government.

"The congress cannot go on recklessly appropriating in response to the demands of groups in our population and at the same time promise reduction in taxes. There is no magic process by which the federal treasury can be supplied with resources."

Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, majority leader of the house, assailed the Republican tariff as the cause of loss of our foreign trade and Gov. George White of Ohio attributed our ills chiefly to Republican extravagance.

After the luncheon the Democrats journeyed in two score buses out to Washington cathedral where Newton D. Baker of Ohio delivered a memorial address at the tomb of Woodrow Wilson under whom he served as secretary of war.

Smith's Views on 'Demogogic Appeal' Recall Gov. Roosevelt's Radio Talk

Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, in the course of his address at the Jefferson day dinner in Washington last night, said:

"This is no time for demagogues. At a time like this when millions of men and women and children are starving throughout the land, there is always the temptation to some men to stir up class prejudice, to stir up the bitterness of the rich against the poor, and of the poor against the rich. Against that effort I set myself uncompromisingly. I protest against the endeavor to delude the poor people of this country to their ruin by trying to make them believe that they can get employment before the people who would ordinarily employ them are also again restored to conditions of normal prosperity.

"I have recently stated that while I would accept a nomination for the presidency if it were tendered me by the convention, that until the convention assembled I would not be for or against any candidate. I announce tonight an exception to that statement. I will take off my coat and hat to the end against any candidate who persists in any demagogic appeal to the masses of the working people of the country to destroy themselves by setting class against class and rich against poor."

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, in a radio speech last Thursday night on the economic situation, said:

"These unhappy times call for the building of plans that rest upon the forgotten, the unorganized but the indispensable units of economic power, for plans like those of 1917 that build from the bottom up and not from the top down, that put their faith once more in the forgotten man at the bottom of the economic pyramid.

"It is the habit of the unthinking to turn in times like this to the illusions of economic magic. People suggest that a huge expenditure of public funds will completely solve the unemployment problem.

"How much do the shallow thinkers realize, for example, that approximately one-half of our whole population—50 million or 60 million people—earn their living by farming or in small towns whose existence immediately depends on farms? Here should be an objective of government itself, to provide at least as much assistance to the little fellow as it is now giving to the large banks and corporations. That is another example of building from the bottom up."

DEMOCRAT LEADERS RAP HOOVER, OUTLINE AIMS OF THEIR PARTY

Washington, D. C., April 13.—(AP)—Some of the outstanding statements by Democratic leaders in the Jefferson day celebration today follow:

Former Gov. Byrd of Virginia:

"We must recognize no law is stronger than the public sentiment to sustain it. An immediate task of the Democratic party is to work out the most fair and feasible method to carry the prohibition question to the people."

Gov. Ritchie of Maryland:

"Iti s not the duty of congress to prepare the budget. It is the President's duty to do that, and it is his duty to submit one which balances. President Hoover has not fulfilled that duty. He has abdicated it for two years and a half."

Senator Robinson of Arkansas:

"The record of the last three years establishes the conclusion that the economic policy of the United States as reflected in extravagant government expenditures, in loans to bankrupt foreign governments, and in the enactment of tariffs which have well-nigh destroyed our commerce, have been the controlling factors in producing depression in this country and in causing it to extend to other spheres. 'The new economics' must be cast into the limbo of exploded heresies."

HORNER'S LEAD GROWS; STATE G. O. P. IN CHAOS

Both Illinois Parties Act to Delay Conventions.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Both Republicans and Democrats are considering recessing their Illinois state conventions which under the primary law must be called to order at Springfield on Friday of next week.

But the reasons for the same thought being in the mind of next November's contestants are vastly different. The Democrats believe that if their meeting is postponed they can use it to start off the fall campaign with a whoop throughout the state. And the Republicans dread the thought of a convention at this time.

Wet Issue a Factor.

The wet and dry question enters into the discussion on both sides. The Democratic state leaders predict they will have a 100 per cent wet platform while what Republican leaders there are left are inclined to favor waiting for the adoption of the national platform and the selection of a presidential nominee before state action is taken.

At least in a general way these lines of thought characterized the two camps as the final figures in the state returns drew near. In these figures the majority for Judge Henry Horner for the Democratic nomination for governor continued to grow and the lead of Len Small for the head of the Republican ticket continued to dwindle.

150,000 Plurality for Horner.

Projected in estimates of what the final figures probably will be, the returns indicated that Horner's plurality will reach 150,000. Small's margin downstate was fading so rapidly that doubt was expressed that his final plurality will exceed 90,000.

Actual returns from 5,544 precincts out of 7,229 in the state gave Horner, 358,423; Michael L. Igoe, 213,952, and Bruce A. Campbell, 7',106. These same returns showed Horner leading Igoe in the downstate vote. Reports from 2,019 precincts out of 2,685 in downstate territory gave Horner 49,845 to Igoe's 46,690.

Campbell still held his lead outside of Cook county with a vote of 66,583, but it didn't give him a look-in for the nomination because his total vote in Cook county apparently did not reach 8,000.

The latest returns available showed Small leading by 87,327 in reports from 6,237 of the 7,299 precincts in the state. In Cook county, with 40 precincts unheard from, he was leading Omer N. Custer by 66,165 and downstate 2,722 precincts out of 3,685 gave him a margin of 21,192.

Claim Chance for Hadley.

The late returns failed to show definitely any change in the results of the contests of either party for other state offices. The regular Democratic slate won a complete victory and the early figures on the Republican contenders were sustained although the backers of Charles W. Hadley maintained that downstate figures indicated he might have a chance to wrest the attorney generalship nomination from John E. Northup, who apparently had it in a tight grasp.

Northup's lead in Chicago and its suburbs was bigger than Hadley's downstate margin. Cook county, with only twenty precincts missing, gave Northup 175,741 to Hadley's 55,377. Downstate 1,694 precincts out of 3,685 gave Hadley 85,785 and Northup 47,273. Experts consider this a safe lead for Northup and say the final figures will show Northup winning by at least 25,000.

County Conventions Monday.

The primary law requires that the party machinery chosen on Tuesday start functioning at once. The newly elected county committees must meet in county conventions next Monday. In Cook county at least this requirement imposes a difficult problem since the official returns on ward committeemen will not be completed at that time.

The Cook county committee faces, first of all, the selection of a new chairman. The present chairman, B. W. Snow, lost out as a candidate for committeeman in the Sixth ward. Even here there must be a combination of faction leaders to achieve an agreement, although that agreement be nothing more than a truce.

This situation is demonstrated in the results of the election of ward committeemen. George F. Harding has a south side group. Robert E. Crowe has a number of west side committeemen. Edward J. Brundage counts a few north siders as his friends. And Charles S. Deneen elected some members of the county committee. It is said that a man who can work a majority out of this tangle is either a miracle worker or a trickster.

Prepare to Go Ahead.

There were a few hotly contested battles for ward committeemen, but on the whole that body failed to gain anything in homogeneity, according to the police returns, and the official figures are not yet available.

Nevertheless it has been the custom to hold the county conventions on the basis of the unofficial returns. The county convention names the delegates to the state convention—in Chicago the ward committeemen selecting their own fellows who ordinarily carry out all instructions.

With no governorship candidate approaching a majority either in Cook county or downstate, the Republicans dread the county conventions as well as the state meeting.

They may be able to patch up an armistice in the county gathering, but all of the Chicago and downstate leaders are afraid of what will occur at Springfield. Small, the nominee, received considerably less than two-fifths of the party vote. Custer and Carlstrom followed him in the returns and each will have a block of delegates at the capital, the Custer group consisting of the Emmerson following which has been dry.

Delegates Must Be Named.

It is conceded there is no state leader who can bring the warring factions together on such short notice and for that reason it is believed that a recess will be taken. It is necessary to name the state's delegates at large to the national convention in early June at the latest and the adjournment may be taken until that time. Or, it has been suggested by the Small people, the delegates might be named at once and a recess taken until fall.

The Democrats face a similar problem in the time element. Some of the leaders favor going ahead with the state meeting at once but the majority are said to feel that a state roundup in the fall at which things can be whooped up for the presidential nominee would be a great opening note for the fall campaign.

Mayor Cermak, now more than ever the dominant figure in the party in Illinois, leaves today for a short rest after his campaign labors; but he expects to return in time for the county convention on Monday when a definite decision on the state meeting may be reached.

Senator Harris of Georgia Is Reported Much Better

Washington, D. C., April 13.—(AP)—Senator William J. Harris of Georgia was reported by his physician today to be "a good deal better" and to have "a good chance to get well."

Breakfasts While His Majority Grows

Col. A. V. Smith Beaten for Prosecutor in Lake County

COL. A. V. SMITH.

Col. A. V. Smith, state's attorney of Lake county for the last twelve years appeared to have lost a close race for renomination on the Republican ticket to Charles E. Mason, a Waukegan attorney, in returns from 71 of 75 precincts compiled yesterday. Col. Smith received 9,507 votes, compared to 9,677 for Mason, who had campaigned with the promise that he would do away with Col. Smith's dry raiding squad if elected.

William A. Deane, an attorney of Waukegan, appeared to have secured the Democratic nomination for state's attorney in Lake county with 2,691 votes, as compared to 2,265 cast for Charles H. Noll in 67 of 75 precincts.

Carbary Wins Renomination.

George Carbary, dry incumbent, won the Republican nomination for state's attorney of Kane county. In returns from all eighty-nine precincts his vote was 13,094, as compared to 7,838 votes cast for John P. Hart, a wet, of Aurora. Clarence J. Ruddy of Aurora was unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

State's Attorney C. W. Reed of Du Page county won renomination on the Republican ticket by a wide margin, with a vote of 13,452 as compared to 7,619 for John E. McCoy in returns from all of 72 precincts. Both were classed as liberals. Returns on the contest for the Democratic nomination had not been compiled.

Rehm Loses Close Race.

William R. McCabe of Lockport passed State's Attorney Hjalmar Rehm in late returns to secure the Republican nomination in Will county by a vote of 10,988 as compared to 10,100 for the incumbent, according to returns from 86 out of 87 precincts. Both candidates are liberal. Francis J. Loughran of Joliet led his nearest opponent for the Democratic nomination by a vote of two to one in late returns.

SENATOR GLENN THANKS VOTERS FOR NOMINATION

Washington, D. C., April 13.—[Special.]—Senator Glenn [Rep., Ill.], commenting on his nomination yesterday for senator in the Republican primaries, said: "I appreciate this vote of confidence given me by Illinois. The action of the voters is doubly appreciated because I was unable to devote any time to my campaign, feeling that it was my duty to stay here at the capitol during these critical times."

Congressman William E. Hull [Rep., Peoria], speaking of his defeat for renomination by Everett Dirksen, "I have no regrets on leaving Washington and I will support Mr. Dirksen and the entire Republican ticket. During the time I still have in congress I will continue to make a fight for legalized beer which I believe would be beneficial to the country."

Nash Wins State's Attorney Race in Winnebago County

Rockford, Ill., April 13.—(AP)—Robert E. Nash, assistant state's attorney under William D. Knight, won the Republican nomination for state's attorney of Winnebago county in a hot six cornered race, final returns showed tonight. He beat out his nearest opponent, Williston E. Reckhow, by a plurality of 1,038. Nash's vote was 7,269 and Reckhow's 6,231. Knight did not seek the nomination.

3 ASSEMBLYMEN OUSTED BY VOTE IN CHICAGO AREA

Beat Solon Who Favored Income Tax.

Fairly complete returns from Cook county senatorial districts last night seemed to spell defeat for three members of the house—J. W. Harris and James Curran of the west side, and George W. Blackwell, the Negro whose vote for the income tax, the only one cast by a Chicagoan in the lower chamber, put it through.

Downstate returns were scattered but the result of one interesting fight in Peoria became known. State Senator Victor P. Michel [Rep.] had apparently resisted an attempt by a house first termer, Carl J. Jobst, to wrest the senatorship nomination from him. With a few precincts lacking, Jobst was trailing Michel and it was not believed that the rest of the vote would make any change.

Following is a list of the apparent winners in the Chicago area in both senate and house [sitting members indicated by an asterisk]:

WOMEN TO TOUR LOOP TODAY IN DRIVE FOR JOBS

The Chicago campaign for the reemployment of men and money will reach the loop district this morning. More than 500 members of the American Legion auxiliary will conduct a one day canvass of downtown business concerns. The drive will be headed by Mrs. Marcia Raber, president of the Cook county council of the Legion auxiliary.

The headquarters of the campaign announced yesterday that pledges in increasing numbers for remodeling and repair work were being obtained by the volunteer canvassers. One of the largest received so far was from the Mell-O-Ice Cream company, 809 West 58th street. The company pledged $60,000 for purchases and remodeling and the hiring of twelve men in addition to its regular pay roll.

DIES OF BULLET WOUNDS.

Earl Scully, 31 years old, 3414 North Claremont avenue, died in the Bridewell hospital yesterday of bullet wounds. A week ago he tried to hold up John Korenevich in his restaurant at 2957 West 39th street and the latter shot him.

Wins in Race for Congress

James Simpson Jr. and his wife, who helped him in his campaign for the Republican nomination for representative in congress from the Tenth Illinois district. He was successful, defeating such old hands as Representative Carl R. Chindblom and Ralph E. Church, veteran legislator. Mr. Simpson was an avowed wet.

SENATE ASKED TO SIFT PRIMARY FUND IN STATE

Washington, D. C., April 13.—(AP)—The immediate creation of a special committee to investigate 1932 campaign expenditures was urged today in the senate by Senator Robinson [Rep., Ind.], who gave as one of his reasons reports that $50,000 had been sent into Nebraska to carry yesterday's primary for G Roosevelt.

A prompt reply came from the Democratic side of the chamber, while in Albany, Gov. Roosevelt answered: "If there is anything to investigate, let them go ahead and investigate."

Robinson told the senate that according to press reports Gov. Murray of Oklahoma had charged that Arthur Mullen, Democratic national committeeman from Nebraska, took $50,000 into the state in behalf of Roosevelt's candidacy.

Senator Thomas [Dem., Okla.] informed the senate that Gov. Murray had denied making that statement, while Senator Dill [Dem., Wash.], said he had been advised by Roosevelt's campaign manager not a cent had been sent into the state.

But Robinson thought the matter ought to be investigated anyway, "even if Gov. Murray had decided in the last two or three days that he didn't make that statement."

Business Executive's Wife Asks a Divorce

Mrs. Lois Ogilvie, 1312 Isabella avenue, Evanston, yesterday filed suit in the Superior court for a divorce from Robert B. Ogilvie, managing director of A. Starr Best & Co. Mrs. Ogilvie charged cruelty, reciting that she left her husband on April 9 after he tried to choke her while he was intoxicated. The couple were married on Nov. 21, 1930, the bill said.

SIMPSON BEATS CHINDBLOM IN CONGRESS RACE

Three Others Lose Seats in National House.

Brennan of Bloomington 240,082; Walter Nesbit of Belleville, 235,424, and Frank C. Smith of East St. Louis, 42,614.

On the Republican side of the contest for national convention delegates four of the Bernard W. Snow "uprisers" were elected out of twenty chosen in Cook county. They ran on an anti-prohibition, anti-Hoover platform. Mr. Snow was defeated for delegate in the Hyde Park district through a combination of the Harding and Deneen forces, which elected George F. Harding and Judge Daniel P. Trude, and this leaves the Snow delegates without a leader.

National Delegates Chosen.

The results on delegates to the national conventions, two of whom are elected in each congressional district by both parties, were fragmentary so far as downstate was concerned. There were returns from only a few districts in which there were no contests. The Cook county lists are complete. Following are the results by districts, so far as known, with the Republican affiliations being designated by [H] for Harding-Emmerson, [D] Deneen, [S] Snow, [I] independent, [B] Brundage, and [EC] Emmerson-Custer:

Hull Beaten by Dirksen.

The first upset in the Republican congressional races came in the Peoria district, where the veteran Congressman Ed Hull, former distiller, who voted for the Jones 5 and 10 law and afterward came out for 4 per cent beer, then 2.75 beer, was defeated by Everett M. Dirksen, a liberal Legionnaire from Pekin, who came within 1,115 votes of defeating Hull in 1930.

With the returns complete Dirksen had a plurality of 2,381 over Hull. The vote stood: Dirksen, 26,233; Hull, 23,852. Hull won by four votes in the city of Peoria, but lost four of the six counties in the district, the 16th. The Rev. Edwin S. Carr, a liberal clergyman, is Democratic nominee.

On the west side, Congressman James T. Igoe of the 6th lost the Democratic nomination to Thomas J. O'Brien, who won two to one. Both are wets. O'Brien is a veteran member of the Springfield house, one of the leaders on the minority side. The upset was the outcome of a long feud between Igoe and Ald. John Clark, head of the council finance committee.

Stanley Kunz, Democrat, who was given his seat in congress a few days ago after his contest with Peter C. Granata, Republican, lost in the 8th district to Leo Kocialkowski.

Michaelson Is Nominated.

Three ex-congressmen who voted for the Jones 5 and 10 law and were retired two years ago were renominated by the Republicans. They are M. A. Michaelson of Chicago, Edward E. Denison of Marion, both of whom figured in liquor trunk mysteries, and Elliott W. Sproul of Chicago. Both Michaelson and Sproul had wet planks this time.

Mr. Sproul, in the Englewood district, who was beaten two years ago in the election, was renominated by the Republicans by a large plurality. In 1930 he was the only Cook county dry congressman who took an Anti-Saloon league indorsement. This time he had a wet plank.

In the 7th district, one of the largest in the country, with 890,000 population, Mr. Michaelson, a 5 and 10 law ex-congressman who was beaten in the primaries two years ago, beat Raymond J. Peacock.

Down in Egypt, Mr. Denison, the other trunk mystery ex-congressman, had no opponent for the Republican nomination. Congressman Kent E. Keller of Ava, a dry, was renominated by the Democrats.

Presidential politics trailed close in the wake of Tuesday's primaries. Illinois Democratic leaders prepared to put the official party stamp upon Senator James Hamilton Lewis as "favorite son" candidate for the presidential nomination, meanwhile indicating that Gov. Franklin Roosevelt is favored as second choice.

NEBRASKA G. O. P. OUTVOTED 20% BY DEMOCRATS

Latter See Fall Victory; Swept by Roosevelt.

Omaha, Neb., April 13.—[Special.]—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York won the sixteen Democratic presidential preference votes in the Nebraska primary election of yesterday, making a clean sweep over Speaker John Garner and Gov. William Murray of Oklahoma.

Returns from 1,893 of 2,049 precincts gave Roosevelt 83,414, Garner 25,548, Murray 22,876. Returns from 1,643 of 2,049 precincts for Republican presidential preference gave France 32,547, Hoover 7,918.

There were nearly twenty per cent more Democratic votes cast than Republican, a feature which, Democratic leaders stated, clearly shows that Nebraska has gone Democratic and that if there is no flareup in the national convention, Nebraska will give its vote to a Democratic President for the first time since 1912. Nebraska has had a Republican majority of 83,000 votes, but in spite of hard fights in the Republican primary, many of them shifted over to one of the Democratic candidates.

In the Republican gubernatorial contest State Senator Kenneth Wherry, a Norris Republican, is slowly gaining in the belated returns on Dwight Griswold, a Hoover stand pat. In 1,895 precincts the vote was Griswold 36,948 and Wherry 34,832.

Gov. Charles W. Bryan received the renomination from the Democrats, defeating William Ritchie of Omaha. The vote stood 81,492 to 47,506 in 1,900 precincts.

Gov. Murray Not Abashed.

Denver, Colo., April 13.—[Special.]—Primary drubbings do not discourage Gov. William H. [Alfalfa Bill] Murray of Oklahoma in the least. With reports of Gov. Franklin Roosevelt's sweeping victory in the Democratic primary in Nebraska still coming in, Murray was preparing today to stump Ohio after he "tends to affairs" in his home state.

"I would rather go down to defeat in a righteous cause than ride the bandwagon into Wall street," he said, to put aside rumors he plans to retire from the race for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"I am waging more of a crusade than a campaign and I have no idea of quitting. They [meaning Roosevelt men] bought North Dakota and they spent some money in Iowa. I won't go into details on this now, but I intend to take it up later."

Michigan Democrats Gather.

Saginaw, Mich., April 13.—(AP)—Michigan Democrats gathered here today in a pre-primary convention to indorse a slate of candidates for state offices. The prohibition issue promised a platform conflict.

The regular spring convention tomorrow will select delegates at large to the national convention in Chicago. The convention will name two delegates and two alternates. It also will select eight delegates at large and as many alternates, giving each a half vote.

Gov. Roosevelt seems likely to get the presidential pledge of the Michigan group if any is given.

CANADIAN FIRM CANCELS $1,000,000 FARMERS' DEBTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., April 13.—Massey Harris, Ltd., largest makers of agricultural implements in the British empire, announced tonight that the company would share the Canadian farmers' losses due to depreciated commodity prices.

The company proclaimed a 10 per cent discount on all existing implement debts and the interest rates thereon. This amounts to a $1,000,000 gift, as farmers owe the company $10,000,000. At the same time, the company announced a 10 per cent discount off present sales prices, both cash and on time.

The policy is held to be unparalleled in the history of Canadian business. It entails a wiping out of 10 per cent of principal and interest on many implements sold before the present depression set in. The company expects to speed up its collections and bring about some measure of renewed demand for farm machinery.

Other companies expressed surprise at the announcement and indicated that counter proposals would be made at once. In some quarters it was believed an agricultural implement price war was imminent.

COMMITTEEMAN VOTE REVEALS IGOE LOST BY 4,116 TO 2,992

Michael L. Igoe, unsuccessful candidate for governor, was defeated for Democratic committeeman of the 5th ward by a wide margin, the final results revealed last night. The vote was Igoe, 2,992; Horace Lindheimer, 4,116. Igoe's campaign manager, Sheriff William D. Meyering, in the 8th ward lost to James J. Sullivan by a vote of 3,402 to 4,443. Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady, receiving 4,521 votes in the 14th ward, lost to James J. McDermott, who received 6,204. Most of the other wards were free from important contests. Following are the winners:

N. Y. Autos Kill 17, Injure 643 Children in February

New York, April 13.—[Special.]—Seventeen children were killed and 643 were injured in automobile accidents in New York City in February, 1932, the police department announced today.

SEEK TO FORCE HOUSE VOTE ON BONUS SCHEME

Washington, D. C., April 13.—(AP)—Advocates of cashing the $2,400,000,000 soldiers' bonus in new currency today agreed upon an effort to force a house vote, despite the federal reserve board's emphatic opposition.

This decision was reached by the unofficial congressional committee on the bonus movement after a conference with federal reserve officials. Representative Patman [Dem., Tex.], one of the group, claimed ample support to secure a house vote through a discharge petition, if necessary, and predicted its passage in both houses.

Sentiment among bonus advocates meanwhile was crystalizing in favor of the Owen plan for the issuance of 4 per cent government bonds to be made the basis for federal reserve notes paid on the bonus. Owen, in a statement, said the same plan could finance the government building program or other current expenditures.

CONTRACTOR IS FOUND SLAIN IN 'TREASURE HOUSE'

Robbery of Hidden Wealth Suspected as Motive.

William Hancock, 80 years old, wealthy retired building contractor, was found murdered yesterday afternoon in his home in Antioch. Authorities believe he was killed by robbers. Hancock was reputed to have a treasure secreted in the house.

Hancock's housekeeper, Mrs. Lillian McCann, 55 years old, came to her employer's house about 2 p. m. to care for the rooms and prepare his meal. She had spent the previous night in another of his houses across the street, entertaining her daughter from Toronto.

Perceiving the milk and morning newspaper on the doorstep, the housekeeper became alarmed. She hurried to the rear and discovered a pantry window open and the kitchen door ajar. Six of the seven rooms of the bungalow were in disorder, indicating that they had been ransacked.

Found Bound to Bed.

The housekeeper called several times for Hancock and received no reply. Fearing to venture into his bedroom, the door of which was closed, she summoned a neighbor, P. M. Palaski, manager of the Antioch Fuel and Ice company.

Palaski entered the bedroom. He found Hancock trussed face down on the bed, his wrists and ankles bound to the four bedposts with clothesline. His mouth was tightly closed with tape.

Palaski summoned Dr. John L. Taylor of Libertyville, the Lake county coroner. An examination of the body disclosed no bullet wounds or other marks of violence. The coroner estimated that Hancock had been dead twelve hours or more and that death resulted from shock and strangulation.

Youth and Woman Held for Quiz.

Sheriff Lester Tiffany was summoned from Waukegan. Inquiry disclosed that the only stranger to arrive in the village recently was one Stanley Class, 17 year old hitchhiker from Ohio, who had been staying the last three weeks with Miss Margaret Heis, 26 years old, housekeeper for a neighbor of Hancock's.

Class and Miss Heis were taken to Waukegan last evening and were placed in the county jail after being questioned by State's Attorney A. V. Smith. They denied knowledge of the murder.

Hancock, the neighbors said, was in the habit of carrying sizeable sums on his person and was reputed to have a hoard of bonds, mortgages, and money hidden in the house.

As a Would-Be Suicide Sam's Aim Is Very Poor

Sam Calvacca, 26 years old, quarreled with his wife, May, in their home at 1314 North Sedgwick street on Tuesday night. Yesterday a shot was heard in a washroom near the main entrance of the Cook county hospital. Calvacca was found lying on the floor, a revolver in his hand. Dr. Ole Nelson, assistant warden, discovered that the bullet Calvacca had fired with suicidal intent had missed him entirely and he had fainted.

U. S. Probes Loesch Charge Against Prosecutor Parillo

An investigation into charges made recently by Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission, that William Parillo, an assistant United States district attorney, is a "known partisan of Al Capone," has been launched by the investigation bureau of the department of justice.

4 REPUBLICANS OVERCOME LEADS —WIN IN COUNTY

Wallace Victory Hardest Blow to G. O. P. Machine

Four Republican county candidates forged to the front yesterday and won nominations after having been behind in the earlier police returns on Tuesday's primary. They were Thomas O. Wallace, candidate for reëlection as Circuit court clerk; Jacob Allen, candidate for the Superior court clerk nomination; Guy Guernsey, sanitary trustee candidate, and Wilbur Calhoun Smith, candidate for the nomination for the vacancy on the county board.

JACOB ALLEN.

Their victories were all in opposition to the so-called harmony organization, which had split several ways on governor and two ways on state's attorney, but which was supposed to have acted in unison on the other offices. Three of the four victors are affiliated with the Deneen faction, of which State's Attorney John A. Swanson is a member, and the fourth, Wallace, is a leader in the Brundage group.

"Regulars" Win Nominations.

The so-called Republican regulars—the organization of ward bosses—nominated two of their three candidates for sanitary trustees—A. W. Komarek and Henry Nowak—and won the nominations of John H. Passmore for county recorder and John T. Dempsey for clerk of the Appellate court. They also registered an outstanding success in the nomination of Dr. Joseph C. Ross, alderman of the 40th ward, for coroner.

These results were on the complete tabulation of the police returns and came as the regular Democratic organization made a perfect score in winning with every one of its slate candidates.

The complete figures for all but 20 precincts in the county gave State's Attorney Swanson, Republican nominee to succeed himself, a plurality over Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg of 145,000 and a majority over both his opponents, Feinberg and Municipal Judge John H. Lyle, of approximately 52,000. State Senator Thomas J. Courtney, Democratic nominee for state's attorney, had a 202,000 plurality over Municipal Judge Matthew D. Hartigan.

Wallace Victory Hardest Blow.

The victory of Wallace, who has been clerk of the Circuit court for eight years, was the outstanding feat in the overthrow of the Republican county machine. Wallace was originally slated by the organization welded together by George F. Harding and former State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, but balked when told how much he must contribute and whom he should support for governor.

Wallace, who was an alderman for a dozen years and always had the commendation of all civic organizations, followed former Attorney General Edward J. Brundage in a revolt against the party bosses. The bosses promptly switched their workers to Donald Steger, the Deneen candidate. The complete vote was: Wallace, 175,983; Steger, 157,952.

Guernsey, a former alderman, finally won the nomination for sanitary trustee with the highest vote of the three who were nominated in the Republican contest. He had 117,645 votes, to 109,661 for Nowak, 105,705 for Komarek, and 100,325 for Paul W. Rothenberg, the highest of the losers.

Wins First Race for Office.

Jacob Allen, nominated for Superior court clerk, was a candidate for the first time, after having been the campaign manager of the Deneen organization for a dozen years. He won a decisive victory over William H. Feigenbutz, alderman and ward committeeman of the 45th ward, who has been a follower of the old city hall crowd. The vote was: Allen, 207,991; Feigenbutz, 144,630.

Another newcomer in politics who won in his first race was Smith, who captured the Republican nomination for the vacancy on the county board, caused by the resignation of A. J. Cermak when he became mayor. Smith is the son-in-law of Edward R. Litsinger, old time Deneen lieutenant.

The Harding-Crowe group failed to indorse a candidate for this office and Smith had the only organized support of any of the candidates, inasmuch as the Deneen committeemen marked their specimen ballots for him. He was high man in a field of thirteen candidates, his vote being 66,663. His closest competitor was Thomas I. Healy, who had first place on the ballot, and whose vote was 59,878.

COUNTY G. O. P. AT DETROIT ADOPTS WET PLANK PLAN

Detroit, Mich., April 13.—[Special.]—A resolution calling for submission of repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the states by congress, and also submission of repeal of the Michigan prohibition amendment, was adopted by the Wayne county Republican convention here today.

This is the first time the county Republican convention has ever adopted a wet plank.

The resolution also instructs the 334 delegates to be chosen for the state convention at Grand Rapids, April 27, to work for the adoption of similar declarations there.

Swalwell Granted Venue Change in Kidnaping Case

Former Assistant State's Attorney Ward Swalwell and three other men who are charged with the kidnaping of Dr. Max Gecht and his wife, Georgia, won a change of venue yesterday from Judge John Prystalski of the Criminal court. The case was set for trial before Judge Philip L. Sullivan on April 27. Those who will go on trial with Swalwell are John Pingera, William Thomas and Edward Finen.

BUILDING WAGE AGREEMENT MAY BE REPUDIATED

Threatened breakdown of the recent wage scale agreement between the Building Construction Employers' association and the various building trades of Chicago was indicated last night in a statement by the employers. The blame for the threatened dissolution of the wage agreement was placed on the electricians' union by the employers.

Stating that the present agreement, providing an average wage reduction of 20 per cent, must be with all of the unions or with none, E. M. Craig, head of the employers' group, said that such action by one group may "break down the entire wage structure and would be responsible for chaotic conditions within the industry."

All of the unions except the electricians accepted a 20 per cent cut. The electricians signed an agreement providing a 10 per cent reduction with the electrical contractors. Last night it was said that several other unions are now insisting on a reduction no larger than that taken by the electricians. In the event of a general repudiation of the agreement the employers said men will be hired at whatever scale possible.

BERRIEN G. O. P. 'DRY,' BUT WANTS PEOPLE TO VOTE

Benton Harbor, Mich., April 13.—[Special.]—The Berrien county Republican convention, considered by its own members a dry group, tonight adopted a prohibition referendum resolution. By votes of its 602 members the convention urged submission to the people of the question of continuance or repeal of the 18th amendment.

The resolution stated in substance: "Recognizing the constant agitation of the question of continuance or repeal of the 18th amendment, this convention believes the ultimate solution of this and every other great problem of the government rests with the people, and we therefore recommend that the question of the continuance or repeal of the 18th amendment be submitted to the people by a referendum in such a manner as provided by law."

The meeting selected delegates to the state convention on April 27 and to the district convention here tomorrow. Stuart White of Niles was chairman.

HOUSE DEFIES GOVERNOR AND HOLDS SESSION

Little Rock, Ark., April 13.—[Special.]—Rebelling against adjournment of the legislature by Gov. Parnell, 69 members of the house of representatives met as usual today, refused to permit the reading of the dissolution proclamation, elected a new speaker, and determined upon a program for retrenchment in governmental expenditures.

The senate chamber was vacant, however, Lieut. Gov. Wilson taking the position the legislature was adjourned under the governor's proclamation issued Tuesday night.

The house elected Irving C. Neale as its new speaker.

Attachés of Gov. Parnell's office said he was taking no cognizance of the house session.

After a series of fiery speeches the members unanimously adopted a motion for appointment of a committee to draft a resolution setting forth their position.

IDENTIFIES WIFE'S BODY.

The body of a woman taken from the lake at Belden avenue on Tuesday night was identified yesterday as that of Mrs. Frieda Reu, 37 years old, who disappeared from her home at 725 Wrightwood avenue on Feb. 17. Her husband, James, said she had been despondent.

Mr. Courtney breakfasts with his wife and daughter in his home at 7820 Loomis street.

PRECINCT CHIEF RECOVERING FROM BULLET WOUND

Chicago was calm yesterday following the many brawls which characterized primary day. Henry L. Hess, Republican precinct captain in the 5th ward, who was shot when he was caught in the cross fire of a gun battle staged by Democratic workers in the ward, was reported out of danger at the Illinois Central hospital.

Scores of men arrested during the voting were released yesterday. Some paid small fines for disorderly conduct. County Judge Jerecki, head of the election machinery, declared that the presence of more than 40,000 policemen, deputies, and other watchers and guards had been the cause of preventing any serious disorder.

Three men accused of beating two political workers in the 21st ward were freed in the Desplaines street court because of the failure of the complainants to appear.

Ben Lyon Sued for $35,000 by Picture Studio Clerk

Hollywood, Cal., April 13.—[Special.]—Cedric Lamar, a clerk at Columbia Motion Picture studio, filed suit against Ben Lyon, husband of Bebe Daniels, for $35,000 damages today. Lyon brutally beat Lamar with his fists, the suit says, last Dec. 23 when Miss Daniels came to the studio to see her husband and Lamar told her she would have to wait.

PASCHEN'S TAX EVASION TRIAL SET FOR MAY 3

The trial of Christian P. Paschen, city building commissioner in the former administration, on charges of evading the income tax was set for May 3 by Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday when defense attorney Cassius Poust, former first assistant United States attorney, requested time in which to familiarize himself with the case. Judge Barnes denied a motion for a bill of particulars and overruled demurrers to the indictment.

ENTIRE FEDERAL ECONOMY PLAN IS ENDANGERED

Hoover and House Group Unable to Agree.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 13.—[Special.]—Inability of the White House and the house economy commission to agree on a harmony federal pay cut plan and the proper procedure for advancing a national economy program threatened tonight to wreck or render abortive the whole movement for reducing the cost of government.

Following a three and a half hour conference at the House with President Hoover and his advisers, the members of the house economy committee disclosed they had failed to work out a compromise plan for cutting the federal salary roll which would have the support of all economy factions.

Meet Again this Morning.

On emerging from the White House, chairman John McDuffie [Dem., Ala.] of the house economy committee, announced that his committee would meet tomorrow morning to determine whether it would go along with the President or cleave to its original plan of putting the pay cut proposition squarely before the house tomorrow by pushing for a vote on an amendment slashing 11 per cent off all salaries above the first $1,000.

The committee is also to decide whether to go ahead with its plans for introducing a number of economy bills or adopt the President's proposal to include all economy recommendations, including reductions in the federal pay roll, into one big omnibus measure.

Chairman McDuffie favors splitting the economy recommendations among several bills and the tagging of the pay cut amendment to the legislative bill.

Indications tonight were that the economy committee will ditch President Hoover's compromise proposal to substitute a five day week and furloughs without pay for federal employés in favor of the McDuffie 11 per cent plan. Chairman McDuffie favors pushing his amendment to a vote tomorrow. The committee is divided, however, and one member may swing the decision one way or another.

Garner May Decide Issue.

Speaker John N. Garner [Dem., Tex.] closeted himself with the Democrats of the committee for one hour today. It is understood he urged the members to stick by the McDuffie pay cut plan. His attitude tomorrow may be the determining factor. It is possible the outcome of the committee meeting will be decision to offer both the President's and the committee plan as amendments to the legislative bill if rule making this possible is adopted. In this event the house could take its choice. Sponsors of pay cutting legislation fear, however, this procedure would kill both amendments.

Split on Two Major Points.

At today's White House meeting, the conference split on two major points. The majority of the committee favored a straight pay cut and the introduction of separate economy bills. The President and his advisors favored putting all economy legislation in one omnibus bill including reductions in federal pay. Mr. Hoover also held out against a straight flat pay cut in favor of his plan. This called for the introduction of the principle of the five day week or its equivalent throughout the government service, elimination of all annual leaves with pay and the elimination of certain allowances for vehicle maintenance for rural mail carriers.

Government workers on an annual salary basis would be forced to take one calendar month furlough without pay. The Hoover plan was to save $95,000,000.

Organized labor, under the leadership of President Green, hopes to defeat adoption of the special rule. The fight against the rule on the floor will be led by Representative O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.] with the assistance of Representative La Guardia [Radical Rep., N. Y.], the man who defeated the sales tax.

J. Clawson Roop, director of the budget, placed the White House pay cut plan before the economy committee this morning.

Wife Sues for a Divorce from George H. Guenther

Mrs. Patricia I. Guenther, 31 years old, 421 Melrose street, a former motion picture actress, yesterday filed suit for divorce from George H. Guenther, 3270 Sheridan road, an attorney. The bill, filed in the Superior court by Attorney Harry X. Cole, charged cruelty.

Secretary Mills Assailed for Attitude on Tax Bill

U. S. Borrows Again

Washington, D. C., April 13.—(AP)—An issue of $75,000,000 in treasury bills to raise that amount of money was announced tonight by Secretary Mills. He said the bills would be sold on April 18 to the highest bidder. They will mature in 91 days.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 13.—[Special.]—The meeting of the senate finance committee, considering the tax bill, was enlivened today when Senator Harrison, ranking Democratic member of the committee, assailed Secretary of the Treasury Mills for declining to come before the committee this morning with a specific tax proposal.

"The administration bill proposed in the house," said Senator Harrison, "fell short of balancing the budget by more than a hundred million dollars. Now the administration is trying to camouflage the issue. It wants its own tax bill, but it is not willing to assume responsibility in this crisis for making new recommendations."

Smoot Defends Secretary.

Senator Smoot [Rep., Utah], chairman of the committee, came to the defense of Mr. Mills by insisting that he had already submitted not one but two treasury plans, but Senator Harrison maintained that if the secretary of the treasury had been "sufficiently concerned" to go before the house ways and means committee he might do the same thing before the senate finance committee.

Late this afternoon Senator Smoot announced that Secretary Mills would appear before the committee the first thing tomorrow morning.

In a letter which caused the controversy Secretary Mills referred to his earlier appearance before the committee. "It seems to me," he wrote, "that the treasury's position has been fully presented.

Refers to House Program.

"If the committee desires us to recommend a complete plan as an entire substitute for the house bill I must refer you to the program submitted to the ways and means committee or to the ways and means committee bill which I declared to be acceptable to this department. Either of these plans is preferable to the measure now before you.

"If, however, the senate finance committee decided to deal with the problem by making the house bill the basis of revenue which it will recommend to the senate, and I am not to be understood as opposed to such a course, then I shall of course be only too glad to coöperate with the committee in any way I can."

Save for this party flareup the day's hearing was a succession of representatives of various industries protesting any tax on their particular commodities.

Hits Inheritance Taxes.

There was one exception, Prof. Fred R. Fairchild, professor of political economy at Yale university, who made a general plea for a broadened base for the tax schedule.

Income and inheritance taxes, as proposed in the house bill, are too few too much, he argued.

"You place a tax on consumptive goods," he declared, "in order to relieve the wealthy man of some of the big tax burden, and then you go right ahead and tax him again, to the exclusion of the other classes which you set out to include."

Famous Drexel Yacht to Become Lake Ferryboat

Port Douglas, N. Y., April 13.—(AP)—The seagoing yacht Oneida, built at a cost of $1,250,000 for the Drexel family of Philadelphia, is to become a ferry boat on Lake Champlain. The craft at one time was owned by William Randolph Hearst.

GEN. BUTLER, HECKLED, REVEALS DETAILS OF WILLIAMS RUM CASE

Pottsville, Pa., April 13.—[Special.]—Gen. Smedley D. Butler, aroused by hecklers at a speech here today in his senatorial campaign, revealed for the first time some details in the case of the late Col. Alexander Williams, marine corps officer, who was court martialed in San Diego on Butler's complaint.

"What about Col. Williams?" shouted a heckler.

"To answer that question," Butler replied, "I shall tell for the first time the story of that court martial, although I have kept silent when hundreds of newspaper men tried to make me tell the story."

Gen. and Mrs. Butler had called at Col. Williams' home, Butler said, and Col. Williams came downstairs partly clothed and intoxicated and fell into a flower bed. Later Williams followed Butler to a hotel, the general said, "and he tried to tell me where to get off."

"After talking it over with Rear Admiral Ashley D. Robertson the next day," Gen. Butler said, "I was ordered by him to bring charges against Col. Williams."

"My Dentist is satisfied ... he says I'm a good advertisement for him"

Your dentist never feels pleased or complimented when you take him a wrecked mouth to repair. He will do the job carefully and well. But he would much prefer to prevent trouble than to help you get over it. The patients he likes—and is proud of—are the ones who let him help them keep all their natural teeth.

Polishing the surface of your teeth is not enough. Your dentist always watches for pyorrhea—for he knows that half the adult teeth lost are due to that one gum disease. The trouble with pyorrhea is that it may be undermining the structure of your gums and teeth for five or ten years, even longer, and you may not know you have it.

Face this pyorrhea business frankly. Four out of five people past the age of forty actually have pyorrhea. There is no use in putting off the dentist until you think you need him. Visit him twice a year and make a point of it. That is prevention—and sensible prevention too. Then there is the question of home treatment and care. There is no use in making believe that white, shining, "clean" teeth are either safe or sound. Nobody believes that any more. The gums must be considered as well. Forhan's Toothpaste is the double-duty toothpaste that does both halves of the job. Originated by Dr. R. J. Forhan, for 26 years a pyorrhea specialist. Save pain, expense and humiliation. Start the whole family today with the big brown tube of Forhan's. All druggists.

FIRST OF LINDY RANSOM BILLS FOUND IN N. Y.

But Chance of Tracing It Is Slender.

New York, April 13.—[Special.]—A twenty dollar bill, identified as one of the 4,750 that made up the $50,000 with which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh tried vainly to ransom his son from the kidnapers who have held the child since March 1, was found here today. But it proved of dubious value as a clew.

The bill found its way into a New York City bank apparently within 48 hours after Dr. John F. Condon, the 72 year old intermediary, tossed the packet of ransom money over a hedge in a St. Raymond's cemetery, to a man he believed represented the kidnapers.

The $20 bill, the first of the ransom money to be found, was turned over to local agents of the United States secret service by David Isaacs, a retired clothing merchant. He obtained it from a branch of the East River Savings bank on April 6. That was the day on which W. O. Woods, treasurer of the United States, was requested to ask banks to aid in tracing the money.

Carries Bill Six Days.

Mr. Isaacs carried the bill around with him for six days without becoming aware that it was part of the ransom money. It was not until last Monday when he stepped into the branch of the Corn Exchange bank to change the bill that he learned that the money he had been carrying around might be an important clew in the kidnaping case.

The teller, after checking the serial number of the bill with the official list, explained matters to him and together they notified the secret service. Mr. Isaacs recalled that he had obtained the money from the East River Savings bank and inquiries there soon disclosed that it would be almost a hopeless task to trace it further.

Officials of the bank said they had no idea where the money came from except that it probably was among some 1,500 deposits made on April 4 or 5 and explained that it was not until today that the official treasury department circular containing the serial numbers of the missing bills was received.

Changed in 4 Days of Grace.

Because of the difficulties in the way of tracing the $20 note, its discovery was interesting chiefly as suggesting the possibility that the kidnapers disposed of the money before the alarm was given in the days of grace Col. Lindbergh allowed them in which to return his baby son.

The authorities had little else of importance to reveal.

Major Charles H. Schoeffel, deputy superintendent of New Jersey police, who crossed the Atlantic on a mysterious misson connected with the kidnaping investigation, was reported to have arrived in Vienna.

The police of Stockholm received orders to search for the missing 21 month old Charles Augustus Jr., there.

Hunt Fleischer In Halifax.

The New Jersey state police received information which led them to believe that Harry Fleischer, former member of Detroit's purple gang, was in the vicinity of Halifax, preparing to take ship for England and they requested the authorities of the Nova Scotia city to hold him if he appeared.

Efforts of Col. Lindbergh and his advisers to get the baby back independently of the police continued to center about Dr. Condon and the old school master's home in the Bronx was the scene of several mysterious happenings, the strangest of which took place just after dark.

Col. Henry Breckinridge, legal adviser to Col. Lindbergh, had called at the modest frame house in the afternoon only to find that Dr. Condon was out on an automobile ride to "get some fresh air," as he explained it to several of the throng that clustered about his doorstep. Learning upon his return that Col. Breckinridge had called, Dr. Condon hurried out with a suitcase and boarded an "L" train to go downtown.

The other intermediaries also remained at work. Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of New Jersey state police, revealed in an official bulletin that John H. Curtis, the Norfolk boat builder who believes he has contact with an agent of the actual kidnapers, had been a visitor at the Lindbergh home within the last 24 hours.

LINDBERGH SEARCH JIGSAW PUZZLE OF INTRIGUE AND STRIFE FOR PERSONAL GLORY

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hopewell, N. J., April 13.—[Special.]—The jig saw puzzle of the Lindbergh kidnaping case may never be fitted together for it has been a jumble since the night of March 1 when the 20 months old child vanished from his crib. If the baby is still alive it may some day be returned to its parents, but the strange abduction with its inexplicable chain of events will be recorded as the most badly bungled major kidnaping case in the history of this country.

The search for the child over a period of six weeks has been marked by police rivalry, political intrigue, stupidly conceived false information to newspapers, misdirected private negotiations, badly advised underworld alliances, confidential leaks, and double-crossing.

Series of Mistakes.

The best information that could be obtained first hand from reliable sources regarding the methods employed to effect the safe recovery of the baby compose a series of unfortunate and costly mistakes. If the actions have been otherwise, then even Col. Lindbergh's associates and intimate friends have been deliberately misinformed. This, then, is the chronological sequence of the happenings, and it tells its own story:

Some time before 10 o'clock on the night of March 1 Col. Lindbergh found a note from the kidnapers. He did not open it but left it untouched. Next he went to the telephone. He did not call any of the high government or police officials who would have rushed to his aid, but telephoned to Chief Charlie Williamson, Hopewell's one man police force.

No Fingerprints on Note.

The note left on the nursery window, it has since been learned, contained a demand, a threat if police aid was enlisted, and a token by which communication might be established. It did not contain the fingerprints Col. Lindbergh had anticipated. Had Col. Lindbergh read the note first, some of his associates believe, the baby now would be at home.

Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey arrived at the Sourland Hill home within a few hours with Col. A. Norman Schwarzkopf and an army of state troopers. Before dawn the next morning federal, state and city law enforcement agencies throughout the nation were raising a hue and cry for the abductors. It had become a celebrated police case.

There are many close to the investigation who believe the intensive police activity so frightened the kidnapers that they either did away with the child, who was ill at the time, or else left it with confederates and fled from the country.

City Police Frozen Out.

Ill feeling and harmful rivalry immediately developed among the various branches of law enforcement agencies working on the case. City police from Trenton and Jersey City, acording to THE TRIBUNE'S informants, found matters so difficult they were forced to withdraw to their own headquarters and leave the state troopers at the Lindbergh home.

The press was immediately barred from the Lindbergh estate and a veil of secrecy set up which has not yet been let down. The troopers filled every corner of the stone house on the hillside. Callers at the home reported boorish action on the part of the troopers and said that cigaret and cigar stubs littered the floor of the drawing room. Nevertheless, Col. Lindbergh continued to place his faith in the police hunt.

Suspects were brought in but they were questioned by policemen and no skilled prosecutor was invited to talk to them. Col. Schwarzkopf, a West Point trained officer, sought to coördinate his troopers and freeze out all other investigators.

Politics Block Search.

While he was perfecting his military machine, Col. Schwarzkopf left the search of the nearby hills to a pair of native trappers. Bloodhounds were not set upon the trail of the abductors, although a pack of the animals was available less than an hour's ride away.

The search of the nearby countryside never has been thoroughly made. A day ago this reporter called at two isolated farms. The troopers had not been there. There was information in Trenton that the bills had not been thoroughly combed because of political influence. Hopewell and the Sourland hills compose the heart of the applejack country. A great deal of this potent liquor is made or was made in the Sourland territory. An intensive search would have been embarrassing to the troopers, the distillers, and some of the political leaders, according to information in Trenton.

Police Aids Misled.

Valuable time and possibly the early solution of the kidnaping was lost. The authorities explained the search was not made at once because of "another red hot clew that led elsewhere."

A police conference attended by many of the country's leading crime experts was held at Trenton. It was not a success. Valuable information was withheld from those who might have aided the search. THE TRIBUNE was informed that the New York police activity became passive soon after the conference and only in the last week, with the revelation of a payment of ransom without the return of the child in the Bronx, has it become active. Now, according to information here, 150 New York detectives are at work and gangland has been advised it will be turned upside down if there is any more double crossing about ransom money.

The federal authorities were the next to drop out of the intensive search. THE TRIBUNE has been informed. Their experiences with the New Jersey authorities and Col. Lindberg has been previously reported in THE TRIBUNE.

Play Politics in Search.

Meanwhile there was considerable political rivalry. Col. Schwartkopf could have almost any office in the state if he became known as the man who solved the kidnaping. Gov. Moore, a shrewd politician, immediately arranged to have all "official information" cleared at the state house and has managed to remain at the head of the investigation. Republican bosses scenting valuable publicity have been talking confidentially of a grand jury investigation of the investigation. The way has been paved for such a move at the meeting of the Hunterdon county grand jury in Flemington, N. J., the county in which the major portion of Col. Lindbergh's estate lies.

Gov. Moore received THE TRIBUNE reporter yesterday. It was not a satisfactory interview, the reporter being referred to the police teletype system of answers to his question [Col. Schwartzkopf answers only such questions as he considers "important" when relayed to him over the teletype].

Governor Uncommunicative.

The governor refused to discuss the withdrawal of federal investigators and told his caller to go to Washington for his information.

"Col. Lindbergh," said Gov. Moore, "is interested in getting his baby back and not in supplying information to newspapers and that is our interest."

The governor said he did not know whether Col. Lindbergh had told the authorities all that he knew about the kidnaping, but that his coöperation with the troopers and with himself had been entirely satisfactory. He added that Col. Lindbergh was satisfied with Col. Schwartzkopf's investigation. The governor denied reports that a lack of coöperation existed between Col. Lindbergh and the members of the Morrow family concerning negotiations for the return of the child.

"There is no lack of coöperation," said Gov. Moore. "Every time I have been in the Lindbergh home and members of the Morrow family have been there they were in complete harmony."

Disagree on Servants.

Nevertheless, it is known that Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, Col. Lindbergh's mother-in-law, has held steadfastly to the belief that the crime was an inside job and that every possible clew concerning the servants should be run down. Col. Lindbergh early in the investigation, cleared the servants, including Betty Gow, the nurse, of all blame. There has never been an explanation of why Mrs. Morrow waited until the morning after the kidnaping before going to her daughter's side, members of the family having refrained from any public comment on the case.

The phase of the investigation covering Col. Lindbergh's "private negotiations" probably includes more mysteries, intrigues, and blunders than the police search—that is, if the two investigations can really be considered as separate.

Colonel Badly Advised.

Col. Lindbergh, according to those close to the investigation, has been a victim of bad advice. One source of information states that Col. Lindbergh early in the case wanted to call some one into his home trained in dealing with newspaper men and have him serve as a contact with the press. This was frowned upon by Gov. Moore and the state police heads who insisted upon releasing all information.

The same informant says that Col. Lindbergh made the mistake of not breaking definitely with the police when he began his own negotiations for the return of his child. Another error, as pointed out, was the calling in of underworld characters such as Salvy Spitale in a desperate attempt to establish communication with the abductors. In doing this, it was said, Col. Lindbergh lost a part of the world's sympathy.

Col. Lindbergh's private negotiations, so far as investigators have been able to learn, have been common knowledge in police circles. Col. Schwarzkopf and a number of his men knew every move that the flyer made. The fact the ransom money [$50,000] was to be paid was known to New York police and to federal authorities before payment, according to all indications.

It is believed in some quarters in Trenton that a leak in the ranks of the state troopers gave an underworld gang the token or code contained in the original ransom note and that Col. Lindbergh and his agent, John F. Condon, or "Jafsie," have not been dealing with the real kidnapers at all, but were merely the victims of a cruel hoax.

Discounting such reports and accepting the "Jafsie" negotiations at their face value, the fact remains, according to information obtained by THE TRIBUNE, that unusual precautions were taken. The kidnapers apparently correctly suspected the serial numbers of the ransom bills had been taken and that efforts had been made to identify the handwriting and fingerprints on the series of messages exchanged between "Jafsie" and the abductors. Consequently they felt they were in danger and immediately fell down on their bargain.

Colonel Asks "Hands Off."

New York police believe at least four persons know the identity of one or more members of the gang contacted by "Jafsie." The police want to go out and get them, but Col. Lindbergh has requested "hands off." The crime of which the gang is guilty is extortion and they could be punished if captured without any evidence that they were the abductors. Col. Lindbergh and "Jafsie," however, still believe the kidnapers will place faith in them and return the child despite open police interest.

Troopers Turn Back Aid.

Evidence of the difficulty of the kidnapers reaching Col. Lindbergh is found in the fact that it took the Norfolk negotiators several days to break through the troopers' guard despite their apparently authentic information.

Even now, six weeks after the crime was committeed, it would be impossible for the kidnapers to communicate in person or by telephone with Col. Lindbergh without first encountering state troopers. Telephone lines of communication are tapped, troopers guard the gates leading into the estate, troopers patrol the roads. It is still a celebrated police case. The New Jersey authorities have declined to promise immunity—even to aid Col. Lindbergh. It is doubtful if they would leave the estate, although they insist they have not been asked to clear out.

Trooper Chief Lies.

Regarding erroneous newspaper stories, the blame belongs to the authorities. Time after time Col. Schwarzkopf has been asked definite questions concerning information that could not possibly injure the safety of the baby and has given untruthful answers.

Only a few weeks ago there was an official denial that any note or message had been left in the nursery or anywhere else by the kidnapers Later Col. Lindbergh himself admitted there was a ransom note, and now the note, it develops, is the key to the return of the child. Col. Schwarzkopf has denied the presence of prominent persons at the Lindbergh home a few minutes after reporters had seen them enter the gate.

Gov. Moore was asked why there was no place or person to which the press could go for authentic information. He replied, "getting the baby back is our job."

Dr. John Greer Hibben, president of Princeton university and a close friend of Col. Lindbergh, comes and goes between his home and the Lindbergh estate. He could clarify the situation without embarrassment to any one, but when approached for an interview he politely explains that all information must come from Col. Schwarzkopf. Col. Henry Breckenride, the Lindbergh lawyer and personal adviser, insists he is not permitted to give an interview. It is Col. Lindbergh's baby, but it is Col. Schwarzkopf's story. He and Gov. Moore have seen to that.

Trout for Hoover's Fishing Stream Put in Wrong River

Nashu, N. H., April 13.—[Special.]—More than 500 brook trout which were to have been used to stock the Rapidan river in Virginia at President Hoover's camp, were taken off the train before they reached the camp, either intentionally or by mistake, and thrown into another river in Virginia, the United States fish hatchery advised here today. The fish were shipped in 14 cans but, according to a communication received by Supt. James E. Derocher, they never reached the Rapidan.

DRIVE FOR U. S. ECONOMY ROLLS UP NEW SUPPORT

Trade Chiefs Everywhere Indorse Plan.

Further progress was reported yesterday by the Chicago Association of Commerce in its nation-wide campaign directed at reduction of the burden carried by taxpayers through cutting the cost of government.

From Kansas City came word that sixty-five prominent citizens there are being enlisted in the movement. Aurora urged that a special train carry a delegation of Middle West business men be sent to Washington to impress on congress the necessity for curtailment of government expenditures.

Cooperation Asked.

Last week President George W. Rossetter of the Chicago association dispatched letters to key chambers of commerce all over the country requesting coöperation in the fight against high taxes. In a letter promising the assistance of his organization, Ray W. Wilson, secretary of the civic department of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce stated:

"Our president, Conrad H. Mann, has addressed a letter to sixty-five of our most influential citizens asking them to contact congressmen in Washington. A list of the senators and congressmen from Missouri and Kansas was sent to each of these, and they also were urged to write to the chairman of the house and senate committees on appropriations.

"We are going to carry on with this work and will be glad to have you list us as one of the participating organizations in this movement."

Indorses Trip to Washington.

In its letter approving the campaign, the Aurora Chamber of Commerce stated:

"One thing suggested at the conference in Chicago that we sincerely believe should be followed up is: That arrangements be made to start a train, say from Denver, and one from the southwest, another from Duluth and one from New Orleans. Let these converge, if practical, at Chicago, and then go east to Washington, carrying with it a sizeable delegation of business men from each state in the middle west.

"Each city should make arrangements in advance with its congressmen to meet this train at Washington where all would attend a mass meeting which would show congress that the people are sufficiently aroused to go to Washington."

Organizes Taxpayers.

Lima, Ohio's chamber of commerce sent word it has organized a committee of thirty of the largest taxpayers in the district. This committee will be divided into three groups of ten each. Each group will work with the county, school and city budget makers in an endeavor to point out economies. Findlay is another Ohio city that has pledged its support.

The Nashville, Tenn., Chamber of Commerce has written as follows:

"The board of governors has unanimously adopted the resolutions recommended at the Mid-West Federal Tax conference held in Chicago, March 29. You can count on us to assist in every way possible."

'30 TAX PENALTY DATE TO BE SET AT MAY 15 TODAY

Board to Vote Month's Extension.

The county commissioners today will extend the penalty date for 1930 real estate taxes to May 15. The resolution which will raise the deadline from April 15 will be adopted at a meeting of the finance committee and formally approved by the board on Friday. The state legislature will be asked to approve the act at its next meeting.

This was announced yesterday by President Emmett Whealan and Commissioner Maurice Kavanagh, chairman of the finance committee. Commissioner Charles Weber, head of the legislative committee of the board, will be sent to Springfield when the legislature reconvenes on April 19.

Expect No Opposition.

"The resolution will go through without opposition," Commissioner Kavanagh said. "The whole matter has been considered by the county treasurer and the county clerk and talked over with Mayor Cermak.

"By statute the taxes have been delinquent and subject to a penalty of 1 per cent interest a month, since Jan. 1, 1932. At the emergency session of the general assembly the bill which would raise this date was overlooked. The board therefore arbitrarily extended it to April 15. Now we will extend the date another month."

Collect $31,505,380.

The total of the 1930 tax collections which have been distributed to the various tax expending bodies was increased yesterday to $31,505,380. County Treasurer McDonough paid $2,000,000 to the city, $250,000 each to the sanitary district and the south parks, $100,000 to the Lincoln park, and $50,000 to the forest preserve district. Previously $23,855,380 had been turned over for teachers, police, and firemen, and other municipality employés' salaries.

More than $2,000,000 was paid on 1930 tax bills by 20,000 persons who appeared at the office of the treasurer or at the loop collection station yesterday. The throng was the greatest since the collections began. Most of the taxpayers were small home owners.

Surface Lines Pay Bill.

The largest individual bill paid during the day was that of the Chicago Surface Lines company. W. H. Kennedy, auditor, and C. W. Meyer, chief accountant, presented a certified check for $725,509 and 1930 warrants for $735,000.

C. W. Evans, vice president of the New York Central railway, today will pay the first railroad taxes thus far received. The bill totals $999,800, of which $300,000 will be paid in warrants. Representatives of the University of Chicago and of the Union Stockyards announced that they would pay 1930 taxes today.

ARREST FIVE, RECOVER STOLEN GEMS VALUED AT OVER $300,000

New York, April 13.—[Special.]—The police made five arrests today and recovered the $305,100 worth of jewels which were stolen from the residence of Harry Glemby on Jan. 20. Three men entered the house, posing as bootleggers, held up the members of the household, and made off with the gems.

The arrests were the result of a piece of clever undercover work. Abraham Gralla, a clerk at police headquarters, posed as a Seattle man who was anxious to buy stolen jewelry. He got in touch with persons who offered him the Glemby jewels for $50,000, met them a second time, and saw the jewels, and made a final appointment for today to make the exchange.

With him came detectives and they arrested Helen Smith, Ruby Goelet, and Sam Appolito of Manhattan, and two brothers, Anthony and Joseph Indelicato of Brooklyn.

Gen. Nathorst, Philippine Constabulary Head, Quits

MANILA, P. I., April 13.—(AP)—Brig.-Gen. Charles E. Nathorst, who will be 70 in June, resigned today as chief of the Philippine constabulary. He had been with the force, now numbering 7,000 men, since 1901 and had been its commandant since 1927. He came to the islands with the Minnesota volunteers during the Philippine insurrection. Col. Clarence Bowers was named acting commandant.

SENATE SLASHES 5 MILLION FROM INTERIOR FUNDS

Passes Bill with Cuts for All Bureaus.

Washington, D. C., April 13.—[Special.]—Senate "ten per centers" and the cause of government economy won a major victory today when the interior department appropriation bill was passed by the senate with a cut of $5,047,760, or slightly more than 10 per cent in the amount authorized by the house of representatives.

As finally approved the measure supplies $45,398,672 for the departments maintenance and operation during the fiscal year 1933. As sent over from the house the bill called for an appropriation of $50,446,432. Last year the appropriation was $69,342,606.

First Economy Bill.

The bill was the first to be passed since the senate adopted a resolution calling upon the appropriations committee to slash at least ten per cent from all house appropriation bills in the name of economy. The supply bill for the state, justice, commerce and labor departments was recently reported out with a ten per cent reduction from the house figures, and will be taken up by the senate tomorrow.

Practically every bureau in the interior department was cut. As adopted the senate bill subtracts the following amounts from the appropriations made for each bureau by the house: Secretary's office, $81,500; general land office, $75,000; bureau of Indian affairs, $1,062,900; reclamation service, $2,674,860 [including a cut of $2,000,000 in the Boulder dam appropriation]; geological survey, $98,500; national park service, $500,000; office of education, $105,000; Alaska railroad, $50,000, and Howard university, $400,000.

Slashes Up to Senate.

It was understood today that the appropriations committee has decided to leave the slashing of the treasury department supply bill to the senate proper rather than make the 10 per cent cuts in committee.

Since the treasury bill provides the funds for government construction throughout the country, the committee felt, it was said, that too much controversy would arise if the cuts were made before the bill was presented for approval.

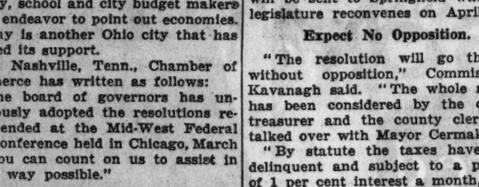

FINDS POLITICAL PATRONAGE COST IS 250 MILLIONS

New York, April 13.—[Special.]—The American taxpayer today pays an annual tribute of a quarter of a billion dollars as a subsidy to political organizations for the maintenance of their machines through patronage, but rigid application of the merit system would save at least that sum and would offset over one-fourth of the annual federal budget for personal service, writes George McAneny, president of the national civil service.

In a letter to George W. Rossetter of Chicago, chairman of the Middle West Tax conference, offering the cooperation of the league in the drive of the middle western group for curtailment of governmental expenditures, he criticized in particular the method of appointing postmasters and estimated that the work of half the holders of these offices could be more capably performed by supernumeraries.

At least 25 per cent of the annual budgets of cities could be saved if improved civil service laws were rigorously enforced, Mr. McAneny says. Since the public pay roll amounts to almost $4,500,000,000 and is payable to some 3,000,000 persons, "it is manifest," he says, "that in any program for economy in public administration one vital and fundamental consideration must be the efficiency of the government's personnel. "But," he adds, "the public service is everywhere cluttered with many mediocre and utterly incompetent and inexperienced officials and employés. The pay rolls are generally padded to take care of political workers at the expense of the public treasury."

DARROW OPENS MASSIE MURDER DEFENSE TODAY

'Inside' Story of Slaying to Be Revealed.

of the kidnaping and talking about the weather in New York and Honolulu.

Neighbors of Mrs. Fortescue testified that they heard a shot on the morning of the slaying.

Despite all that, Darrow was apparently unperturbed on the eve of the opening of the case for the defense. His great knowledge of human nature has led him to figure a possible way out of this for his clients. All of them may take the witness stand. The truth will be told at last.

Darrow has wasted little time in an effort to break the case of the prosecution and evidently is casting all in one supreme story of justification. The prosecution's case hardly admits a defense that the killing was an accident.

Chinese Detective on Stand.

The third day of presentation of the prosecution's case opened with eleven more witnesses in sight. Only a handful of people was at the entrance to the judiciary building. The defendants arrived with a navy guard, preceded by a sailor with a revolver strapped to his waist.

Sam Lau, police identification officer, a Chinese who might have been the inspiration for the fiction detective, Charlie Chan, was the first witness. He told of his visit to the Fortescue home in the afternoon of the day of the slaying and of finding a .32 caliber revolver, a box of 20 shells in a closet, and a gun loaded with five cartridges.

At this point a friend of Darrow, Attorney C. C. Kavanaugh of Boise, Idaho, a former partner of Senator Borah and Darrow's assistant in the Moyer-Pettibone trial, was escorted to a seat back of the defense table.

Tells of Finding Rope.

Detective Lau testified that the rope with the purple thread in it was found in the house and that the rope around Kahahawai's body was of identical type.

He made a ground floor sketch of the house, showing the position of the furniture on the day of the killing. He said there were three large splotches on the bedroom floor which appeared to be blood and that he had had pictures taken of them. A tiny stain on the closet door was the only other sign of blood found, he said, but this gave a negative test.

Darrow looked uninterested at all this. He resembled a man with an ace in the hole.

Find Buttons in Home.

Detective Arthur Stagbar, the next witness, gave further evidence as to the condition of the house. He said he found two pearl buttons under the washbowl in the bathroom. The thread on the buttons corresponded with the goods in Kahahawai's shorts, which were found in the death car. One buttonhole was showed to be torn out. The buttons were identical with those remaining on the garment. They were tossed onto the pile of physical evidence which is mounting against the defendants.

Capt. John McIntosh, chief of detectives and a central figure in the Ala Moana prosecution, then testified that he went to the Fortescue home at 10:15 a. m. on the day of the slaying before he knew that the body of Kahahawai had been found in the Fortescue car, but did not enter. He said he then went to the Massie home, which he entered.

Finds Liquor in Home.

He saw Mrs. Massie and Jones, he said, sitting on a settee in the living room. A glass of liquor was on a small table. Jones appeared to be drunk. He saw no one else in the house, he testified. When he returned to the house at 11 o'clock, Jones, Delbert Gilkey, the sailor who rented the death car with Lieut. Massie, and Mrs. Massie were there.

Capt. McIntosh said he told Jones to stand up and searched him for firearms, but found none. He took both men as accomplices in the killing.

McIntosh said he found a box of .32 caliber steel jacketed bullets in Jones' locker at the Y. M. C. A. It was evident that Jones was drunk at the Massie house, McIntosh thought. He had not sobered up much later.

Jones, a blond young sailor, was dressed in a white linen civilian suit. He listened with a little smile in his brown eyes.

Darrow Questions Chief.

Darrow at this point began to show more interest.

"You saw Mrs. Massie there?" he asked McIntosh.

"Yes."

"Talk with her any?"

"I did."

"Did she refer to Jones?"

"She said he was there to guard and protect her."

"Did she go away?"

"She remained there."

Later, the witness said, Lieut. Commander R. W. Bates of the shore patrol advised Mrs. Massie and her sister, Helen Fortescue, that they had better go to the navy yard, after they had visited their mother at the police station.

Mrs. Massie Carries Bag.

"Did Mrs. Massie take anything to Pearl Harbor?" Darrow asked.

"Yes, a small overnight bag."

"Was that bag large enough to hold a .32 Colt?" Kelley interjected.

"Yes."

Jones said he did not know Kahahawai and wanted to know what was going on, according to the witness.

The desk clerk at the army-navy Y. M. C. A. testified that Jones and Lord had access to two lockers on the afternoon before the killing.

Mrs. Victoria Akana, an ample figured police matron, testified that she was assigned to watch and search Mrs. Fortescue. The latter had on a blue two piece suit and a black hat, with its top covered with dirt, the matron said. She testified that she found a strip of a sheet in Mrs. Fortescue's coat pocket. Mrs. Fortescue wanted it back because she said she used it as a handkerchief.

"What did she talk about?" Kelley asked.

"About the weather and the difference between Honolulu and New York."

"What was her demeanor?"

"Very calm."

"Ask for anything?"

"Books and water."

"Was there anything in her room?"

"A newspaper with the story of the kidnaping. She was reading that."

Mrs. Fortescue Nervous.

Montgomery Winn, in cross-examination, asked Mrs. Akana whether Mrs. Fortescue was nervous, on the basis of a previous statement.

"I said she put her hand in her mouth. Her hand shook," was the matron's reply.

"Did she seem to be under a nervous strain?"

"Yes."

"Did she talk about her daughter?"

"Yes. She said she was all right, but that her face was hanging on one side."

The words "her jaw was broken?" which were used by Winn, were objected to by Kelley. Mrs. Fortescue was affected by this testimony. Tears, for the first time in the trial, rolled down her cheeks.

Detective Henry Chillingworth was the next witness. He said he saw Jones at the police station, searched him, and found a fake warrant and a .32 cartridge clip under his belt. Jones also had a key to the Fortescue automobile, he said, papers with telephone numbers, and a spent cartridge in his watch pocket.

The telephone numbers were those of the Fortescue and Massie homes, the detective said. A card was found on which was Jones' name and his ship, S-32. He also had a license as a boxing second.

He asked Jones where his gun was, he said, and Jones told him it might be in his locker at Pearl Harbor.

Woman Tells of Hearing Shot.

Mrs. Helen May Stickney, the next witness, said she was visiting her sister next door to the Fortescue home on Jan. 8.

"Did anything occur?" she was asked.

"I heard a report. I thought it was a shot, around 9 a. m."

"In what direction?"

"In the direction of Mouka." (Mouka is the mountain nearest the Fortescue house.)

Mrs. Anna Tarleton, her sister, testified that she also heard the report and said: "O, some one was shot!"

Then, she said, she told her sister not to get excited because it was probably only a firecracker. She looked at the clock, she said, and it was about 9. There is a high oleander hedge between the two houses, she testified, and only the roof of the Fortescue house was visible from her home.

Gun Salesman Testifies.

Vasca Rosa, an employé of a sporting goods store, was the next witness. He said he lives near the Fortescue home. He testified that the sales record of the store on Dec. 16, 1931, shows that Jones presented a police permit to buy a gun on that day and that he got it the next day. Jones, he said, bought a .32 Colt automatic and ammunition.

Rosa also presented a record of the sale of a gun to Mrs. Fortescue. She got a permit on Dec. 14 and bought a .32 Iver Johnson revolver the next day. She also bought 50 cartridges, he said. These cartridges shoot lead bullets. The bullet in Kahahawai's body was steel jacketed.

The witness said he had had sixteen years' experience with firearms. He was shown the death bullet and the shell of the exploded cartridge found on Jones. Asked if the empty shell could have held this bullet, he said: "It could."

Eliminate Mrs. Fortescue's Gun.

The death bullet in size was of the type fired from a .32 automatic Colt. The bullet found on the dining room table in the Fortescue home was of the same kind. That type of bullet, Rosa said, could not be fired from an Iver Johnson gun. The witness said he sold about sixty revolvers in the month of December in his store. This was the month of several rapes, and the hunt for the escaped convict, Daniel Lyman.

Yoshia Adachi, a neat little Japanese schoolgirl with black hair down her back and wearing a white dress, was the next witness. She said she began working as a maid for Mrs. Fortescue last Thanksgiving. She quit on Thursday, Jan. 7.

"Did you see Mrs. Fortescue that afternoon?" she was asked.

"Yes."

"Where?"

"At her home."

"Who was there?"

"Lieut. Massie and two other men."

Identifies the Sailors.

"Yes."

"Had you ever seen them before?"

"I'm not sure."

"What time was it when they were there?"

"About 4:30."

Her working hours were after school only, she said. She could not describe the men. She knew the lieutenant.

"They came to the kitchen door," she said, "and then went to the living room. Mrs. Fortescue came to the kitchen. She paid me and said not to come the next day as no one would be home, but to come on Saturday."

The girl was not questioned by the defense.

The next witness, Mrs. Shizuko Yamamoto, was unable to speak English. She testified through a Japanese interpreter. Mrs. Yamamoto lives near the Fortescue home. Her house is back of the Fortescue garage, on higher ground. She came out on the porch with her baby about 9:30 a. m. on Jan. 8, she said.

"What did you see?" she was asked by the prosecution.

"I saw a box-like car outside the garage. It was not like a car seen on other mornings."

The prosecutor handed her a toy sedan and she said it was like that.

"I saw a lady at the window," she continued. "She pulled the car shade down completely. Later, I saw her in the driver's seat in the car."

Mrs. Fortescue arose and the witness said she was the same woman.

GRAIN CORP. ASKS HYDE TO CLOSE BOARD OF TRADE

however, and expect to be able to prove in court, that the Farmers' National Grain corporation is not a cooperative.

"As I understand the legal definition of the term, a cooperative is an organization which transacts at least 51 per cent of its business with producers. The gross and reckless speculation carried on by the corporation in past months through various exchanges and with various professional speculators of the country seems to me to be sufficient evidence that the corporation is not a cooperative."

As for the Updike Grain company, Mr. Carey pointed out that the corporation had acquired that concern more than a year ago and suppressed news of its ownership for several months until an inquiry by the board of trade disclosed the transactions. He reiterated the point that the officers of the company are now on trial and revealed that a hearing scheduled for last Tuesday had been postponed one week at request of the grain corporation.

Three of the kittens have six toes on front feet and five behind. The other three have five in front and six behind.

SHOOTS HIJACKER; ARMOR ON HIS TRUCK STOPS GANG BULLETS

Two years ago Victor Perry of St. Lucas, Ia., who trucks produce from the vicinity of Dubuque to Chicago, was stopped by hijackers and lost his truck and cargo. Since then he has ridden with a shotgun by his side. After he had been pursued by hijackers several times in the last few weeks he also procured some steel plates and armored the cab of his truck.

Early yesterday, while he was driving along Grant highway two miles east of Marengo, a black sedan, in which four men were riding, drew up beside his truck. Two of the men, pointing revolvers at him, ordered him to stop.

Perry fired both barrels of his shotgun into the back seat of the sedan. One of the men, hit in the head, slumped to the floor of the car. His three companions opened fire on Perry. He slipped behind the armor plates in his cab, but not quickly enough to prevent one bullet passing through his cap and another through his coat sleeve. Six more bullets were stopped by the steel plates.

The bandits fled.

4 PASSENGERS DIE IN '31 IN U. S. FROM TRAIN ACCIDENTS

Washington, D. C., April 13.—[Special.]—A new low record for passengers killed or injured was made by the railroads of the United States in 1931, according to a compilation completed today of reports filed with the interstate commerce commission.

Only four passengers were killed in train accidents in 1931, the lowest number ever reported. In 1930 there were seven such deaths and in 1929 thirty-six fatalities. The relative reduction in fatalities in 1931, as compared to 1930, was more than twice as great as the reduction in passenger miles.

Three of the deaths in 1931 resulted from one accident, the report states, the derailment of a passenger train. The other fatality resulted from a collision between two trains. For each fatality 150,093,000 passengers were carried, the highest average ever obtained in the Untied States.

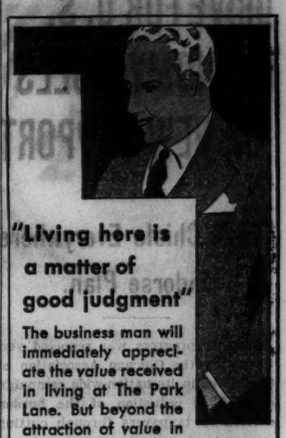

The accident record likewise showed a decrease. The 1931 record of 493 injuries in accidents compares with 790 in 1930. In 1931 the railroads carried 1,218,000 passengers per accident injury and in 1930 896,000 passengers.

A Sound Investment

Millions have been lost through depreciation of investments during the depression. Fortunes have melted away; the volume of business has greatly shrunk; and measures of economy have in many instances become necessary. Nevertheless, the men who have patronized the better Tailors, the better Shirtmakers, the better Haberdashers and other shops of high quality standards find their wardrobes a great pleasure, a sound investment, and an asset in personal appearance.

Quality merchandise through the assurance of its long wear, its becomingness and distinctive character has many advantages. Regardless of conditions, we strictly maintain our established standards of quality in Shirts to measure, Neckwear, Hosiery, and other unusual requisites. Lower prices prevail in our four Shops—New York, Chicago, London, and Paris.

You insist on Fresh cream...

Fresh Coffee is just as important....

Only Dating and fresh-food delivery insure true coffee Freshness

WHY, yes, you say—cream spoils when it's kept too long.

So does coffee!

Coffee is a perishable food—just like cream or butter. In every pound of coffee there is about half a cup of delicate oil, which carries a delicious flavor when fresh, but quickly turns rancid if coffee is allowed to get stale. Rancid oil in stale coffee not only spoils the flavor—it can even cause headaches, nervousness, sleeplessness.

There is only one sure guarantee of coffee freshness—and that is quick delivery. To be really fresh—coffee must be used right after it has been roasted. So today Chase & Sanborn are delivering their coffee just like a fresh food. Swift trucks rush Chase & Sanborn's delicious Coffee straight from the roasting ovens to the grocers . . . every can plainly stamped with an expiration date.

NO CAN of this dated coffee is allowed to stand on any grocer's shelf after its date has expired. You can't get a stale can of this marvelous coffee.

It's a wonderful thing for coffee lovers who demand fine flavor in their coffee. The superb flavor of Chase & Sanborn's has been famous for 66 years.

Now you can be sure of getting it at the very peak of its goodness—absolutely fresh. Get a can of Chase & Sanborn's Dated Coffee today!

COFFEE SPOILS, too, if it's kept too long. The only way to get perfect flavor in your coffee is to make sure the coffee is fresh.

3 WOMEN WETS ROIL FESS WITH REPORT ON OHIO

Senator Doesn't Believe Anti-Drys Gain.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 13.—[Special.]—Senator Simeon D. Fess, who used to be a college president and is now chairman of the Republican national committee, today dropped both his pedagogical and his political suavity and got right mad at three delegates from the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform who came to tell him that his native Ohio and theirs was getting wetter every day.

SIMEON D. FESS.
[Harris & Ewing.]

He shook his head, said he'd just returned from a three day speaking trip in Ohio, and had not seen a single drunken person on the streets.

They shook their heads, fetched forth statistics showing that their membership in his home state had jumped from 12,000 to 65,107 this last year.

Senator Beats Table.

The senator beat the table and shouted that he "did not think much of figures," and certainly wasn't afraid of them.

The ladies held out their papers of statistics and remarked that they thought he'd be "interested in what's happening in your own community."

Mr. Fess smiled blandly and remarked, "You know you're going to lose."

The women looked haughty and replied, "If you're throwing down the gauntlet we'll certainly pick it up."

There were more words—thirty minutes more. For each of the Ohio wets, Mrs. Amasa Stone Mather of Chagrin Falls, Mrs. George Hoadley of Cincinnati, and Mrs. F. Stanley Crooks of Columbus, was full of argument against the Ohio dry.

Says He'll Stick by It.

At last Senator Fess grew very stern and said:

"My position is unchanged. Of course, I don't think prohibition is a complete success; but it's a lot better than pre-prohibition. And until somebody can show me a better thing than the 18th amendment I'm going to stand by it."

Enthusiastically the trio of ladies began to talk.

The former college prexy threw up his hands and shouted:

"O, this manufactured clamor has no effect on me."

The interview was over. A photographer stepped up and asked Senator Fess to pose with the three women. He didn't take long to refuse.

The ladies joined six or seven hundred of their sister delegates on the steps of the capitol to pose for pictures. They told about their interview, of course. A newspaper woman telephoned Senator Fess to find out about it.

"If they said those things," Senator Fess declared, "it is a contemptible untruth." And he hung up.

What "a Sheltered Life."

Meanwhile Mrs. Charles H. Sabin of New York, national chairman of the prohibition reform organization, informed of the senator's assurance that he had not seen a drunk in Ohio, smiled and remarked, "What a singularly sheltered life he must lead."

This afternoon at the closing session the women turned their attention away from their individual senators and representatives whom they had visited in the morning and concentrated on coming presidential and vice presidential candidates. To Candidates Hoover, Curtis, Roosevelt, Ritchie, Baker, Garner, Smith, and Byrd they dispatched telegrams asking them to tell "more than half a million women" if they would support a plank in their party's platform demanding resubmission.

To give their telegrams additional weight the membership chairman announced the total membership is now 631,537.

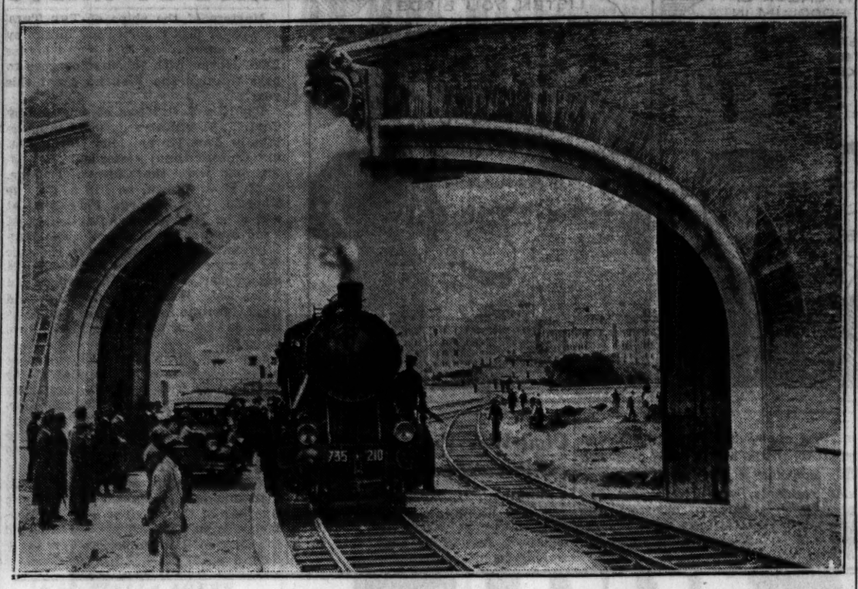

Predicts Million Members.

"And we'll have a million members by the November election day," predicted Mrs. Sabin.

Mrs. Leslie Wheeler and Mrs. William H. Mitchell, co-chairmen of the Illinois division, reported a state membership of 53,000 and got a round of applause with the announcement that Illinois was enrolling women at the rate of a thousand new members a week.

Just before adjournment this third annual conference elected the following officers: Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, national chairman; Mrs. Courtlandt Nicoll, first vice chairman; Mrs. Archibald Roosevelt, secretary; Mrs. William C. Potter, treasurer, and Mrs. E. Roland Harriman, assistant treasurer, all of New York City.

Allen Johnson, 70 years old, a dishwasher, was found dead, apparently from heart disease, in his room at the Vestibule hotel, 66 West Van Buren street, yesterday.

OHIO RIVER FERRIES OPEN.

Evansville, Ind., April 13.—[Special.]—All Ohio river ferries of this section have resumed operations, after being out for a week because of high water.

MEDIUMS GET ADVICE ON HOW TO FACE ARREST

"Unless you are perfectly sure you can locate lost articles and unite separated couples, keep that out of your work," mediums attending the 34th annual convention of the Illinois State Spiritualists' association in the Morrison hotel were told yesterday. The advice came from the Rev. Maggie Waite of Chicago, one of four who discussed "Protecting the Constitutional Rights of Spiritualists and Mediums." The convention will last through the week.

"If you should be arrested," she said, "you should know your 'Declaration of Principles' so you can answer any questions spontaneously. And if you live private lives cleanly, morally and mentally there'll be no comeback from authorities who try to prosecute you."

President C. A. Burgess explained that in his opinion the place for "expounding' mediumship" was not in public, but in a medium's own home with her own circle, who had paid their money to receive the messages, which money "they have a right to take if they can get it."

John Slater, veteran medium of Los Angeles, said that the trouble with the profession was that one medium was always attacking another.

"You'll hear one woman who charges one of our sensitives with being a money grabber while she's one herself," he said.

BOMB VACANT STORE.

INHALATOR GIVES ARIZONA INFANT NEW LIFE LEASE

Prescott, Ariz., April 13.—[Special.]—Oxygen from an inhalator resuscitator, administered by firemen, and a special diet are gradually getting the best of one of the rarest diseases known to medical science, Cheyne-Stokes respiration, from which 2 months old Bobby Lamadue here is suffering.

Today the child's respiration and heart condition are improved and he is able to retain food. For five weeks a stomach muscular contraction produced a condition making the child unable to retain food and water.

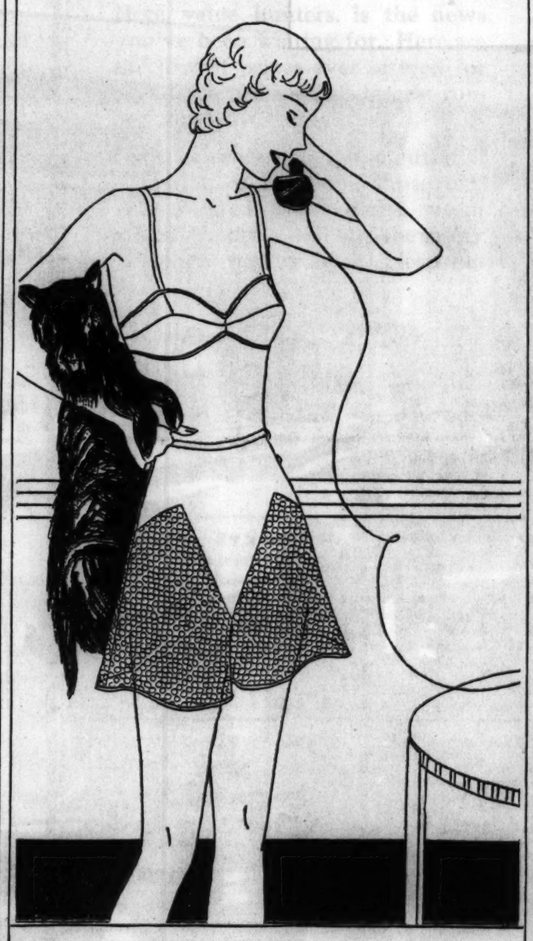

HUNT EVANSTON BURGLAR.

The police were searching yesterday for the burglar who broke into the home of Mrs. Marjorie J. Iredale at 2686 Sheridan road, Evanston, on [illegible] and escaped with $200 worth of jewelry.

2 SENATORS ACT TO GIVE STATES WET, DRY RIGHTS

Bingham, Tydings Back Elastic Plan.

Washington, D. C. April 13.—[Special.]—A new constitutional solution of the liquor problem, based upon the "local option" plan, but giving to the states absolute freedom to stay dry or go wet, was proposed to the senate today in a resolution introduced by Senators Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.] and Millard Tydings [Dem., Md.].

SENATOR HIRAM BINGHAM. [Harris & Ewing.]

The resolution, which was referred to the judiciary committee, proposes an amendment to the 18th amendment which would make the dry law and "all laws pursuant" to it inoperative in those states which ratify the Bingham-Tydings amendment.

Provisions Are Elastic.

At the same time, the proposal provides that by the mere ratification of the amendment, a state would not of necessity discard the dry laws. Any state adopting the proposal would be privileged to elect whether to remain dry or turn wet, and would have the further right of changing its mind at any time by a popular vote.

Meanwhile in the house, seventeen more names were added to the petition to bring the O'Connor-Hull beer bill to the floor for a record vote. The total names affixed to the petition, with the 145 necessary to make it effective, stood at 97 when the house adjourned today.

Britten Among Signers.

Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] was the only member of the Illinois delegation to affix his name to the petition today. Representative John W. Boehne [Dem., Ind.] was also among the seventeen new signers.

It the necessary 145 names are obtained, the petition will discharge the ways and means committee from further consideration of the 2.75 per cent beer bill sponsored by Representative John J. O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.] and Representative William E. Hull [Rep., Ill.], who was defeated in yesterday's primaries, and bring the legislation to a vote on the floor of the house, probably on May 9.

SERRITELLA AND HOCHSTEIN HAVE SCARE IN COURT

Daniel Serritella, city sealer under a former administration, and Harry Hochstein, his erstwhile chief deputy, almost went to trial yesterday on year old charges of conspiracy in connection with short weight frauds. When the case was called, Judge James J. Kelly of the Criminal court ordered that a jury be impaneled immediately.

"But this case wasn't to be tried today," protested Benjamin Short, defense attorney. "A trial date was to be set. We're not ready."

"That wasn't my understanding," said Judge Kelly. Then he asked Assistant State's Attorneys Harold Keele and Henry Seyfarth what they wanted to do. The prosecutors stated they were ready for trial, but did not want to take undue advantage of the defense. Judge Kelly then set the trial for April 25.

DICK TRACY—The Drive

COUNTY TREASURER'S OFFICE IS CLOSED FOR SIFTING OF SHORTAGE

Cleveland, O., April 13.—[Special.]—Efforts to solve a shortage of $475,099 in the Cuyahoga county treasurer's office moved forward quickly today as County Prosecutor P. A. Lieghley locked the doors of Treasurer L. C. Collisters' office, impounding his records and announced that normal operations of the office such as tax collections temporarily have been suspended.

Armed with a grand jury subpoena, Lieghley dismissed the employes of the treasurer's office and turned over all records to State Examiners Peckinpaugh & Main. He stated that Collister will retain the title of county treasurer but will be relieved for the present of all the duties of that office.

The prosecutor's action was the result of a statement released yesterday by state examiners who have been auditing the county books for the last four months. In it they charged that on Dec. 18, the end of the audit period, there was a difference of $475,099.17 between the amount of taxes credited and the amount certified to the county auditor; that an additional $186,366.97 was represented only by uncashed checks; that salary advances to the sum of $17,453.99 had been made and that there was a deficit of $562.50 dating back years before Collister took office.

Collister last night requested State Auditor Tracy to take charge of his office until the charges have been sifted.

REPORT AUDITOR IS INDICTED FOR $75,000 FORGERIES

Ben Hoffman, 42 years old, former general auditor of the Ashland Industries Building corporation at 7400 South Ashland avenue, was reported to have been named late yesterday afternoon in five true bills voted by the grand jury on charges of forgery. He is accused of defrauding the building concern out of between $75,000 and $125,000 by juggling checks.

During his ten years as auditor Hoffman was in charge of bank deposits and withdrawals for the concern. Assistant State's Attorneys Daniel Covelli and Albert E. Bucciere declared that Hoffman forged the name of the concern's president, Abraham Harris, and made the checks payable to himself.

Irregularities in Hoffman's records were discovered by another auditor on March 25. When he was called in Hoffman said: "I can explain all that when I get my books. Wait awhile." Hoffman disappeared, but was captured several days later in Minneapolis and returned to Chicago.

Prosecutors Covelli and Bucciere asserted that when they tried to question Hoffman he told them to "go to hell."

From Harris, however, it was learned that Hoffman had lost the sums he allegedly embezzled by betting on horses. Hoffman gave his address as 920 Wilson avenue. The Ashland Industries Building corporation is a subsidiary of Harris Brothers company, a general building concern.

N. Y. SPEAKEASIES DWINDLING; NOW LESS THAN 20,000

Woodcock Is Silent on Rum Figures.

New York, April 13.—[Special.]—The number of speakeasies operating in Manhattan is less than 20,000 and the total is dwindling, according to Amos W. W. Woodcock, national director of prohibition enforcement.

Mr. Woodcock made this statement today at the office of Andrew M. Campbell, local enforcement chief, when reporters pressed him to make public the exact total as disclosed by the census taken last week by sixty agents operating under his direction.

Withholds Exact Figures.

He declined to give an exact figure, saying that doing so might precipitate a controversy which would benefit no one. His statement came after various reporters had asked whether the total equalled such estimates as 20,000, 30,000, and even 50,000, of which they had heard.

The number his men reported, he said, is "vastly less" than any of these reports.

The decrease, Mr. Woodcock attributed to the issuance of 100 injunctions and 800 arrests a month, on the average.

The important thing about the survey to him was, he explained, the projection of "a complete picture of our problem, which is much simpler than I thought, though its solution still is a colossal task."

Aided in Philadelphia.

In Philadelphia, he added, the prohibition problem is far easier because the police coöperate so thoroughly under state legislation.

As for drying up Manhattan, the director said that his men would proceed along routine lines and make "no spectacular drive."

Digressing, he said his greatest trouble is New Jersey, where the courts issue injunctions stopping indictments, and that the least troublesome areas of the country are western Michigan and North Carolina.

TRIBUNE FLEET MASTERS REPORT RACE BY RADIO

Masters of the ships of THE TRIBUNE paper fleet reported to Chicago by radio yesterday as they raced across Lake Huron with the first cargoes to pass through the Welland canal this year.

The New York News, commanded by Capt. F. V. McIntyre, passed into the lake at Port Huron, Mich., at 1:30 a. m. [Chicago time] yesterday. Following her were the Chicago Tribune, Capt. B. J. Brown, at 3:16 a. m.; the Thorold, Capt. George Ferguson, at 8:30 a. m., and the Bennington, Capt. Fred Mastine, at 11 a. m. The Bennington, which dropped out of the race for a time on Monday night when a snowstorm forced her to lay to on Lake Erie, is back in the race and Capt. Mastine hopes to beat the Thorold, slowest of his three rivals, into Chicago.

Capt. Ferguson of the Thorold sent a radio message to H. A. Laird, traffic manager of THE TRIBUNE, yesterday afternoon, stating that he was off Harbor beach, 80 miles north of Port Huron, and thought that the New York News and Tribune were about 40 miles ahead of him.

Those two ships should pass Mackinac during the night and start the final lap of the race down Lake Michigan this morning. They are expected in Chicago late tomorrow or early Saturday.

"GET THIS RIGHT, CASEY—103,500 MILES"

An Interview by ROBERT J. CASEY

Chicago Daily News Reporter

Carrol Edgren, insurance man of 230 Earl St., St. Paul, talks about transportation—tells Casey how to drive 103,500 miles with minor repair bills

CARROL EDGREN, insurance man, stood beside his Pontiac parked in front of his St. Paul home, to add 40,500 and 63,000 and note that they totaled 103,500.

"That's not the census of the Twin Cities," he said as he displayed the result to the inquiring reporter. "It's my mileage on Iso-Vis Motor Oil. . . . And I'll bet the cars in last year's road tests never came anywhere near that figure."

Mr. Edgren nodded.

"All of it," he stated with some emphasis. "The 40,500 miles is on the speedometer of the Pontiac right here. The other 63,000 was the total on my other Pontiac when I turned it in. I figure I've covered the entire 103,500 miles in a little more than four years."

"And what was the performance of the cars in all that driving?"

"I'd tell you in a minute if it wasn't A-1. I know how to kick about things that go wrong. But my upkeep bills have been so low that I'm almost ashamed to sell insurance to an automobile mechanic.

"I'm the lad who gives the automobile designers bad dreams. A car to me isn't just a sort of perambulator that you use to give the kiddies the air. It's nothing but transportation to me. And I make it work."

"And y u think oil is an important factor in mileage and operating economy?"

"It may be heresy for me to say so but I think that the difference between one car and another isn't a difference in cost but a difference between the kinds of stuff that people put into crankcases.

"I started to use Iso-Vis the first day it was put on the market in St. Paul. My friend at the filling station gave me a sales talk on it and I took it for what it was worth. Then my repair bills—or lack of them—began to give me a sales talk and I've stuck to it ever since. You can quote me on that if you want to. And get the total right: 103,500 miles."

Mr. Edgren's 103,500 trouble-free miles prove again what Iso-Vis has demonstrated in laboratory tests and in A.A.A. tests on the Indianapolis Speedway—Positive Lubrication Protection. SUNDAY MOVIES FOR BRITAIN WIN IN PARLIAMENT

Bill Passed After Hard Fight by 18 Votes.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 13.—The Sunday entertainments battle to decide whether Britishers may legally attend movies, concerts, exhibitions, and debates on the Sabbath reached a climax in the house of commons late tonight when the second reading of the Sunday performances bill passed by the narrow majority of 18 votes. The result of the division, which was taken on a free vote of the house, was: For the bill, 235; against, 217.

Unusual interest was evidenced by the house, which was crowded an hour before debate began, while seats in the public galleries had been booked up for days.

Opinions were sharply divided both in the cabinet and the house generally. Members of the government of the same party opposed each other from the treasury bench, and the rank and file of all parties were similarly divided.

Asks Freedom for People.

In moving the second reading of the bill Oliver Stanley, parliamentary undersecretary of the home office, urged that people be permitted to spend Sundays as they consider best. The bill provides for local option, and not only legalizes movies on Sundays, but also concerts, exhibitions of zoos and museums, and debates—facilities which have been enjoyed by the people for 15 years.

A temporary act authorizing Sunday entertainments expires Oct. 7. If there is no fresh legislation in the meantime every movie and concert on Sunday will be banned and half a million people will be deprived of these amusements.

A strong argument in favor of the bill is the fact that London movies contribute $675,000 yearly to hospitals from their Sunday performances.

Urges Race Track Stakes.

Sir Thomas Inskip, principal speaker against the bill, expressed the opinion that the position of the hospitals is incongruous in refusing assistance from race track sweepstakes and accepting it from Sunday movies.

Opponents of the measure, led by the Lord's Day Observance society, have waged an intensive campaign deluging the members of parliament with half a million postcards urging them to vote against the bill. It was estimated that 25,000 cards arrived at the house of commons in the first mail this morning.

Cheers Greet Vote.

The closeness of the vote came as a great surprise, but the result was greeted with considerable excitement and cheering despite the fact that prospects of the bill surviving the committee stage still are in the balance.

H. S. Martin, secretary of the Lord's Day Observance society, declared tonight, "If the bill becomes a law it means exchanging Holy Sunday for Hollywood Sunday. Tonight's figures fill the Sunday defenders with new hope for fighting the Sunday cinema menace."

BEER MOBSMEN DEFIED BY MAYOR OF NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, La., April 13.—[Special.]—Beer racketeers and gangsters have invaded New Orleans and started to terrorize speakeasy proprietors, according to Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley.

The mayor in an official statement today declared that these racketeers, who, he says, may be allied with the Capone gang, have already opened ten places in New Orleans and have commenced to force proprietors of other places to take their beer under threat of having their places wrecked or "taken for a ride."

Mayor Walmsley declares that they are aided and abetted by certain members of the New Orleans police force.

"It is my intention to handle this situation aggressively in the manner provided by law," Mayor Walmsley stated. "New Orleans is no place for racketeers and this administration will not tolerate them. Our men down here know how to shoot when it is necessary. We do not intend to have our people killed or molested unless we retaliate in kind. These gangsters are tough, but we intend to show them that we are just as tough in dealing with them."

AHERN IN COURT; CHARGES WIFE WITH INFIDELITY

The love of his wife, Stella, was won by the owner of a vegetable market who delivered the groceries at his home, Frank Ahern, 9140 South Western avenue, told Circuit Judge Craig Hood yesterday. Later Ahern recounted the details of a raid upon a flat at 3837 Lake Park avenue, where, he said, Mrs. Ahern and the green grocer, Nick Mouloulas, were discovered on May 21, 1929. Ahern is suing for divorce on grounds of adultery.

Mouloulas, who was named co-respondent in the divorce bill, died soon after Ahern separated from his wife in 1929. Mrs. Ahern recently was given an adverse verdict by a jury after suing her mother-in-law, Mrs. Anna Ahern, owner of the Evergreen Park Golf club, for $100,000 for alienation of affections.

Pantages Must Pay $100 for "Illness" Affidavit

Los Angeles, Cal., April 13.—[Special.]—Dr. C. P. Kallonzes was awarded $100 by a Superior court jury today in his suit for asserted unpaid medical services rendered Alexander Pantages, millionaire showman. The nature of the services, according to testimony, included making of an affidavit that Pantages was too ill to stay in jail during the time, two years ago, that Pantages was under sentence as result of his conviction for attacking Eunice Pringle, school girl.

RESUME PARLEY ON MINE WAGE; PROGRESS SLOW

No Agreement Expected for Several Weeks.

Illinois coal operators and miners yesterday resumed deliberations in the Majestic hotel on a new wage contract to replace the old agreement which expired April 1. At the end of the day, during which there was a meeting of the wage subcommittee of the joint conference and a meeting of the policy committee of the miners, there appeared to be little hope of a settlement in less than three or four weeks.

Although a majority of the mines in the state including all except a very few of the larger association mines are closed, pending the signing of a new agreement, John Walker, president of the Illinois miners, stated that nearly six thousand miners are now working in eighty-four mines. These mines, only three of which are members of the coal operators association, are in the main small strip and wagon mines, working under a tentative extension of the old scale.

Report Offer is Made.

It was reported in the morning that the operators' representatives, W. J. Jenkins and D. W. Buchanan, had made a tentative proposal of $4.50 a day basis scale to replace the old scale of $6.10. Walker refused to discuss the report.

"We are doing all we can," he said, "to arrive at a settlement as soon as possible. Discussion of every small item would do no good."

According to both the operators' and miners' representatives the negotiations are still going forward with a feeling of friendliness. The subscale committee is making a survey of the costs of operation with a view to submitting a wage proposal in line with the offer of the operators to "pay as high a salary as possible permitting a fair return on the investment."

Fear Baring of Costs.

The consideration of the costs of operation is complicated to some extent, it was said, because each operator fears his competitors will learn his costs. When the survey is completed by the subcommittee it will be reported to the general scale committee without reference to individual companies.

It was indicated that the negotiators do not look for a settlement under three weeks. It was pointed out that enough coal for that length of time remains in storage on tracks and until that is consumed the industry is not under pressure. Miners believe that as soon as that supply is exhausted many miners will resume operations under the tentative agreement offered by the policy committee.

AUTO ACCIDENTS TAKE 3 LIVES; TOLL IS NOW 304

Three automobile fatalities in Cook county yesterday increased the toll to 305 since Jan. 1. The victims:

Cosmas Viglione, 32 years old, 1111 North Marion street, Oak Park. Died at the Frances Willard hospital from injuries sustained Tuesday night when he was struck at Roosevelt road and Laramie avenue. The driver was Joseph Gielion 4050 5th avenue.

H. M. Fritz, 45 years old, 215 Sesser street, Joliet, a railroad switchman. Died at the Little Company of Mary hospital from a skull fracture incurred Tuesday afternoon when two autos collided at 79th street and Ogden avenue.

Mrs. Bridget Temal, 50 years old, of 301 Root street. Killed early this morning by the automobile of a hit and run driver at 41st street and Wentworth avenue. Policeman Harold Mahn, of the stockyards station, who was near, fired six shots at the fleeing motorist but failed to stop him.

RAID FLAT, SEIZE STILL.

A large still, 12,000 gallons of mash and 100 gallons of alcohol were seized by prohibition agents yesterday in a raid at 3330 Madison street.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

MR. CUSTER SAID GOOD-BY.

The attempt of the dry state administration, the W. C. T. U., the Anti-Saloon league, and the rural prohibitionists to substitute Mr. Custer for Mr. Emmerson in the governor's office came a crash in the Republican primaries with consequences which were expected. To the indorsement of the drys was added the state patronage and slush fund. Mr. Emmerson, having vetoed the prohibition repeal act, decided not to test the state's opinion in his own person, but selected Mr. Custer to reap the reward or settle the bill. The governor did, however, take off his coat for his selected (but not elected) successor and the benefits of clergy and of tax collector were extended to him.

Mr. Custer for his part decided to make the complete pledge to the W. C. T. U. and as the dry of drys, covenanted to the last ditch, stepped out to make the test. Extraordinary efforts were made by the state administration to carry him through. Mr. Emmerson could not have done any more for himself. It is undoubtedly true that the governor and his chosen candidate were double crossed by organization men who made promises, had state patronage, and took their quota of the administration campaign money, but that was nothing strange. The unreliable partisans had their own skins to consider and they could not deliver in sections which vote for prohibition repeal to a candidate pledged to veto their bills.

When Mr. Emmerson decided upon the course which resulted in the veto of the repeal act, his own retirement, and the candidacy of an administration supported dry he did a bad thing for the state. He eliminated himself as a responsible chief in the state party. He created a confusion of candidacies and of issues. He divided the party several ways and he produced a condition out of which has come, despite the prohibition collapse, a result unacceptable to Republicans who had hopes that their party might be an instrument of reputable government in Illinois.

Such procedure had the consequences, if not the intent, of malice. It threw the party to the dogs without giving its decent elements a chance to make their wishes good or their votes count.

HUMOR IN BOLSHEVIA.

Magazines of humor, a dispatch from Moscow reports, have been reduced from five or six in the bolshevik capital to one, and this one is said to have very little humor in it. All the jokes and cartoons must have a political moral, favorable of course to bolshevism, and the humor of jokes on foreign capitalists, kulaks, Trotzky and other surviving dissenters becomes rather stale in time.

In fact, there isn't much fun in a communist régime for those who live under its heavy handed sway. Humor requires a sense of proportion and that is a matter which the communist government lacks and cannot afford to tolerate. When humor breaks forth a revolution is over and the revolutionaries are done for.

ADVICE FROM LLOYD GEORGE.

Admonitions from Mr. Lloyd George upon the responsibility of the United States for the restoration of the world would impress us more from another source. Among the statesmen who are responsible in large measure for present conditions he has a prominent place.

Mr. Lloyd George, to be specific, was one of the chief architects of what is called, with a sardonic if unconscious humor now appreciated in this country more than it seems to be in Europe, "the peace of Paris." It is significant that in European comment upon the shortcomings of the American view of its duty the relation of the treaties of Versailles and St. Germain to the European and world disaster is conspicuously ignored. Yet it was and is the consequences primarily of these treaties, still in force and effect in so far as they are practicable, that the people of the United States are now invited to mitigate or remove at their own expense. The American people have every reason to realize that they are involved in them and must contribute to their correction, although they were not responsible for them. But Mr. Lloyd George is not the adviser or the exhorter they are disposed to follow. They have not forgotten Mr. Lloyd George's election campaigning in 1918 when he was telling the voters of Great Britain that he proposed to "demand the whole cost of the war from Germany" and, on the hustings, was all for "hanging the kaiser." It was from the deliberate exploitation of popular passion that ruinous treaties were born, and we know of nothing substantial that Mr. Lloyd George contributed to sanity or moderation at Versailles.

Nor do the policies and accomplishments of Mr. Lloyd George in the internal affairs of his own country impress us with his fitness for advice on reconstruction. Mr. Lloyd George for years supported the socialistic exactions which have been progressively exhausting the huge capital resources of Great Britain, so as to leave her enfeebled and almost bankrupt when those resources are needed more than at any crisis of her history.

So when Mr. Lloyd George admonishes us to "make the best of a bad job" we think we can find more reliable guides out of our trouble than one who contributed so much toward making it.

SENATOR BORAH ON JUDGE WILKERSON.

The subcommittee of the senate judiciary committee to which was referred the nomination of Judge Wilkerson for the Circuit Court of Appeals recommends confirmation, Senators Borah, Walsh of Montana, and Robinson agreeing and Senators Dill and Blaine opposing. Senator Borah, explaining that he spoke for himself alone, said that the objections to the appointment were based on the judge's injunction record, and of the injunctions issued in his court two, one in particular, deserved criticism. The public issue contained in these processes, the senator said, had been determined in the Norris injunction bill. This issue in the controversy over the appointment was thoroughly investigated and considered. Senator Borah said it could not influence him to an adverse vote for reasons which he stated.

"His [Wilkerson's] rejection, I am satisfied," he said, "would greatly discourage the law and order people of Chicago who are fighting for their liver against the most ruthless band of thieves, cutthroats, and murderers that ever infested a civilized community. These criminal organizations have reached that place of authority where their machine guns at times command the streets, where they browbeat and murder witnesses, intimidate and corrupt juries and often, apparently, render futile and timid the courts. It is a fight of organized society to free itself from organized crime. Now the people who are making this fight have come to look upon Judge Wilkerson as a judge who not only had the courage but the ability to deal with the situation. And ability to deal with a thoroughly trained and well organized band of assassins is rather rare."

Senator Borah left little to be added to the case for the confirmation of this appointment. He stated the issue as the people of Chicago see it. The ostensible objection to the appointment was made chiefly by the railroad unions because one of the injunctions in dispute was directed against acts of violence in the shop strike ten years ago. Both Senator Borah and Senator Walsh would give full weight to such protests. Their sympathies are in that direction. Senator Borah's presents the dominant consideration which should prevail in the senate when the report from the committee is acted upon. Upon whatever pretense a rejection of the appointment could be made, the effect of it would be the picture of a judge denied a merited promotion after he had destroyed the most notorious gang in the country.

Chicago is indebted to Senator Borah for an eloquent and convincing statement of the city's interests in the question before the senate.

Editorial of the Day

NO ON THE BONUS!

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

Unless politics drives reason off Capitol hill this congress will refuse to enact the veterans' bonus bill. Unless congressmen are more moved by fear of a lobby than by respect for the stability of their government they will spare the President the necessity of vetoing this thoroughly unsound and dangerous proposal.

It is an issue of financial honor. The credit of the government, already shaken by an unbalanced budget, could scarcely withstand so untimely a raid on the treasury as would follow enactment of the two billion dollar bonus bill.

By an inspiring exhibition of political leadership order has been restored in the house of representatives. For the moment at least consideration of the revenue bill has been rescued from chaos.

The absolute, overpowering necessity of bringing federal income and outgo into harmony is recognized. The disaster that overtook Great Britain, Germany and some other foreign nations when statesmanship slept on the job and let the tax spenders run away with logic has, temporarily at least, been averted.

It is a painful task for a free spending country like America. And painful has been the process of bringing legislators, on the eve of an election, to order the sacrifices necessary to restore fiscal reason.

And now, with a balanced budget in sight, comes the proposal that this harassed government shall forthwith raise $2,000,000,000 to pay war veterans the full face value of bonus certificates which a previous congress said should mature in 1945.

Thousands of citizens, in groups and singly, are demanding in emphatic terms that government spending be curtailed; that overburdened taxpayers be given relief. Millions in taxes are in arrears. Citizens, driven to distraction by the demands of tax gatherers, are in mental revolt against conditions that bear them down.

The universal demand is for relief. The country awakes, as from a bad dream, to the instant necessity of curtailing expenditures, reducing taxes and restoring financial sanity at the seat of government.

Whether this cash bonus were paid with fiat money, as some suggest, or with a further issuance of bonds, adding to the national debt, its influence upon the credit stability of the country would be disastrous. Many believe that it would precipitate a new crisis of such magnitude as to dwarf our present difficulties, under which the country groans with distress.

Two billion dollars cannot be picked from cherry trees by the Potomac. They must come from some place where sweaty browed taxpayers have put them. They must be paid in before they can be paid out.

Along the path of the unbalanced budget lies repudiation. Britain walked that path to disaster; Germany pursued the rainbow and stumbled to a fall. Unless America is blind to reason and deaf to the words of warning that come from other peoples which burned their fingers with the fires of financial error, America will stop in time; congress will not put a new $2,000,000,000 burden on a treasury already sagging with its overload.

It is not a question of fair dealing toward the veterans. Every one is in favor of that. The republic has been generous, and will continue so. Its program of care for the afflicted and their dependents is a model for the world. It is not justice which advocates of the cash bonus now demand but an act of favoritism, untimely, unjustified and perilous.

An issue of national good faith confronts congress as the bonus bill is pressed. The house labors with courage to raise new revenue and to cut expenditures. It cannot with even a shadow of consistency vote now, by passing the bonus, to junk the whole achievement of balancing the budget.

Here is an issue which knocks at the door of every citizen. Congressmen will be held responsible if they sanction this tremendous new drain on a treasury already distraught.

Ohio expects her 22 members of the house to stand adamant against this $2,000,000,000 attack on the financial stability of their country.

OH, MOTHER, WHY ARE THE CANDIDATES SAD?

And even the day after the election failed to bring the peace and happiness we had hoped for. All the successful candidates' pictures had to be published. Well, anyhow, that's over; please, now can we go back to sleep?

The picture of a successful candidate usually looks like that of a man who has just been told that his house has burned down and there was no insurance. Or if the cameraman has coaxed him to smile he does the best he can, but just as the picture is snapped somebody hits his pet corn with a hammer. Of course, there is no wonder that the successful Republican candidates had a sad, faraway, pain in the neck look in their pictures. They see grim November in the offing and the prospect is not cheering.

But the Democratic candidates should have looked happy and gay. Things have never looked rosier for the Democratic party since Tom Jefferson invented it. Maybe the Democratic candidates looked unhappy because they're so sure of winning out next fall and taking over all the responsibilities of government.

The Democrats have lots more fun sticking their tongues out at the Republicans in office and telling them what an awful mess they've made of things than in actually doing the jobs themselves. The Democrats have been out so long they've got used to it and now that they think the tide has turned they're scared stiff. Maybe, whom knows? asked Cyril laughingly.

DAVIDA.

AND NOW NEBRASKA and Kentucky have instructed their delegations to the Democratic convention to plump their votes for Mr. Roosevelt of New York. Those boys who were to get busy in the "stop Roosevelt" campaign seem to have as much luck as if they had gone out to lasso a tornado.

GREAT NEWS FROM DUGAN GOWDY of Carmi, Ill. The last we heard of Dugan he was reported as being quite a bit donsey and everybody got excited, wondering if he would die or have to suffer an amputation. But now the good old Carmi Democrat-Tribune prints this cheering information: "Dugan Gowdy, who has been quite puny for a couple of weeks, is able to be around again." "Quite puny" is a refreshing bit of English, but we don't like it as well as "donsey." Please, Carmi Democrat-Tribune, don't let go of "donsey."

RIDER OF THE WINDS.

(For Mary Marie.)

The gates of the seasons stand ajar, and, close to the threshold, Tiny Jean looks in wonder upon the renascence of Spring. Now the stylus of her curiosity, almost ancient of days as she nears the end of her second lustrum, etches strange questions for me to answer: why doesn't the brown creeper fall when he runs down the side of the maple? . . . why do the crocuses and daffodils growing close together have different colors? . . . how do the hummers know when the phlox and the trumpet vines will be in bloom? . . . how do the frogs keep warm? . . . when the sun sets, who takes in the colors for tomorrow? . . . how can such a large leaf live in so small a bud? . . . is there a silver bell in the meadow lark's throat? . . . and I look down the peristyle of the years for my friends the philosophers to come to my aid; but they have drawn into the shadows, knowing that she has shattered their tablets of erudition. For, after all, how futile the intent of philosophies appear, when Ceres, joyous again, pauses in her gentle ministrations to whisper, perhaps in the voice of the first northward bluebird, these things to an eager acolyte, and, as the anemones and trilliums reveal her illuminated manuscripts in last year's mold, gives to childhood's questing eyes, the light of one who rides the winds!

HYGIENE FOR MIDDLE AGE.

A CHICAGO surgeon of great renown, now 79 years old, gives his colleagues some advice on how to live to reach a hundred years of age, or thereabouts. This surgeon is a frail man, rather markedly underweight. In his childhood he developed tubercular glands in the neck, but they were left to the curative power of nature and they went away. A few years later other glands, this time under his arm, became enlarged. These were left alone and they disappeared when he was in midlife.

In his early manhood he had indigestion, but by care in his diet and his eating habits that disorder finally disappeared. He was underweight and had a moderate degree of anemia—80 per cent hæmoglobin. He tried to bring himself up to the average in both of these particulars by dieting in the main, but finally gave up the job and dismissed both underweight and anemia from his worries.

He began by learning from his father the value of exercise. Like his son, the father was a distinguished surgeon, but before he studied medicine he had been a tailor. When he was tired mentally he rested himself by cutting and making a suit of clothes. The son learned the lesson only in part. When he was young he had the habit of releasing the tension of his nerves by mountain climbing.

One by one he gave up strenuous athletics, such as tennis, swimming, horseback riding, mountain climbing and, finally, golf. He now depends on walking and Indian club exercises as his only measures for keeping his muscles and joints supple. The present plan of very mild, relaxed exercise he thinks superior to the tenser work of his youth, at least for a person of his makeup.

Several years ago Dr. R. H. Babcock told his friend, the surgeon, that his weak spot was his bronchial tubes and not his heart. This opinion the surgeon accepted and, since that time, has given especial attention to protecting himself against bronchitis and pneumonia, usually by running away during the season when these maladies prevail, and by getting enough of relaxation and rest at all seasons.

He concludes with the following twelve rules for adult health, which a man need not be a doctor to profit by:

1. Moderation everywhere and every time.
2. Don't look upon your muscular strength and enthusiasm for work as proofs of continued good health and great endurance.
3. Don't let reckless rivals set the pace for you.
4. Don't ignore your limitations.
5. Don't commit slow suicide by overworking, overeating, and overworrying.
6. Eat a little more each year until you are 30; after 40 eat a little less each year until you are 100.
7. It is safer in the end to be a sage rather than a Samson. It is unwise to be both.
8. Slightly undersize, slightly underweight, and slightly under the weather conduce to longevity.
9. Few men die of starvation, but many men slowly eat themselves to death.
10. We seldom die of old age; we die of disease or other accidents.
11. Shun the germs of penumonia. They lie in wait for the busy doctor.
12. Begin the quiet life before premature senility forces it upon you.

PIN WORMS.

Mother writes: My 16 year old daughter has pin worms. She has always been bothered, but worse now than ever. She is very nervous and irritable. Could you please tell me what to do to get rid of them?

REPLY.

Have you seen specimens of the worms? Nervous people sometimes have crawly sensations due to other causes.

Pin worms are killed by injections of quassia tea or salt brine. However, treatment must be properly given. Before injecting the worm killer an ordinary enema must be used. The worms wander in and out normally. Therefore, attention must be given to the clothing and to neighboring parts. Since adult worms sometimes wander higher up in the digestive tract worm medicine internally is required in some cases.

IT'S DONE EVERY DAY.

S. writes: Could an alloy filling be removed and replaced with a gold filling without injury to the tooth?

REPLY.

Yes. It is done every day. The cavity will have to be enlarged a bit.

PLUCKING THE EYEBROWS.

N. W. F. writes: I pluck my eyebrows in moderation, but sometimes roughly. Lately I have felt pain in that region. Is the irritation paving the way for cancer? I am 25 years of age.

REPLY:

You will not cause cancer by plucking your eyebrows.

SIDEWALK DAMAGED.

Chicago, April 3.—[Friend of the People.]—On Milwaukee avenue there is a plumbing concern. The rear of this concern faces on another street and is used by them as a driveway. The sidewalk has been broken by heavy trucks driving over it, and on rainy and wet days this stretch of sidewalk is impassable. Can't something be done to have them put in a cement driveway? Also, the sidewalk around the building is littered with plumbing supplies at all times. H. A.

Report is made that notice has been served on plumbing concern referred to to secure permit for construction of driveway in accordance with the provisions of the city ordinances. This concern displays plumbing supplies under authority of permit issued by the bureau of compensation, and they have been cautioned to confine display to space allowed by permit. Location will be kept under observation to see that notices are complied with. JOSEPH J. BUTLER, Superintendent of Streets.

MOTOR VEHICLE LAWS.

Chicago, April 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Will you please answer through your column whether it is compulsory to have reflectors on a motor truck if it is not on the road after dark? A. J.

Section 16a of the motor vehicle law reads in part as follows: "After Oct. 1, 1931, every motor vehicle of the second division [i. e., trucks and buses] more than twenty feet long, and all trailers and semi-trailers, while being operated on the public highways of the state outside the corporate limits of cities, towns, and villages, during the period one hour after sunset to sunrise, shall display on each side of the vehicle at approximately the one-third points of the length of the same, at a height not exceeding five feet above the surface of the road, and reflecting on a line approximately at right angles to the center line of the vehicle, two amber tinted reflectors of a type approved by the secretary of state."

COMMON LAW MARRIAGE.

Chicago, April 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Which states bordering on Illinois have laws upholding common law marriage contracts? 2. Do these laws uphold a contract of common law marriage made in the state of Illinois or do they recognize only a contract that has been made in a state where such contracts are valid? D. T.

1. In the absence of a ceremonial marriage the legality of the relationship would depend upon whether there was ever an agreement for a legal, as distinguished from an illicit relationship, and upon whether that agreement was entered into in a state recognizing common law marriages. Since 1905 Illinois law has not permitted the contracting of common law marriages in this state, but if the relation was valid when and where it was entered into it would be valid everywhere.

2. Please state the facts on which your question arises.

CHINA-JAPAN WAR, 1894

YOKOHAMA, Dec. 26.—The Japanese forces commanded by Field Marshal Oyama lost two officers and fifty-two men killed and had twelve officers and 356 men wounded in the recent battle with the Chinese troops commanded by Gen. Sung in the vicinity of Newchwang.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 27.—John W. Foster, former secretary of state, has been requested by the Chinese government to go to Japan and meet the plenipotentiaries of China to aid them in their negotiations for peace and has accepted the invitation. He will sail from Vancouver for Yokohama on Jan. 7. The Japanese government has been advised of the appointment and its minister here has expressed his satisfaction with it. Gen. Foster goes in purely a private capacity and has no authority to represent or speak for the government of the United States.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 27.—Private reports from Wei-Hai-Wei affirm that China's fleet is in a hopeless condition. In their land operations the Chinese are following the famous Russian tactics of 1812 and harassing the flanks of the first Japanese army, which is stuck in the snow. The action of the Chinese indicates that the proposals for peace are being made merely in order to gain time and let the winter play havoc with the invading forces. The Chinese are plucking up courage in view of the climatic difficulties with which the enemy has to contend.

28 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 14, 1904.

ST. PETERSBURG.—According to a high authority the latest advices received at the winter palace here are to the effect that a naval battle is still progressing off Port Arthur.

ST. PETERSBURG. — Torpedoes fired by the Japs or a mine planted by Admiral Togo caused the destruction of the first class battleship Petropavlovsk, involving the death of Admiral Makaroff, Rear Admiral Moles, and practically the whole ship's company of 700 men. This is believed now to have been the cause of the disaster in the roadstead of Port Arthur early Wednesday. It had been thought the pride of the Russian navy had gone to the bottom by contact with a harbor defense mine, but later information leads to the belief that the loss of Admiral Makaroff's flagship was due to a feat of arms and not to an accident. Capt. N. Jakovleff, the Grand Duke Cyril, and two other officers were saved because they were standing on the upper bridge. The frightful loss of life among the officers and men was due to the fact that they all were at their stations ready for action.

PENSACOLA, Fla.—Two thousand pounds of powder exploded in the aft turret of the United States battleship Missouri during target practice, killing five officers and twenty-five men and seriously wounding a half dozen others. But for the prompt action of Capt. W. S. Cowles, brother-in-law of President Roosevelt, in flooding the magazines, the ship would have gone to the bottom. Every officer and man in the turret was killed and all but three in the powder handling room in which an explosion of four charges followed the initial explosion in the breach of the twelve inch gun. Among the dead are Lieut. W. C. Davidson, Lieut. J. P. V. Gridley, son of Capt. Gridley, who was in command of the Olympia in the battle of Manila bay; Lieut. Thomas Ward Jr., Ensign E. A. Welchert, and Midshipman W. T. Neumann. John Thomas Donnelly of Chicago, an ordinary seaman, was also killed.

APRIL 14, 1916.

WASHINGTON.—The United States is dangerously near to war with Mexico. The delicate situation is due to two developments: First, Carranza, repudiating any sanction of the punitive expedition and adopting an attitude of defiance and belligerency, has demanded that President Wilson withdraw American troops from Mexico and leave the further pursuit of Villa to the Constitutionalist forces. Second, Mexicans have attacked Col. Slocum's forces at Parral and killed at least one American trooper. The American cavalrymen defended themselves from the attack in the streets and killed many Mexicans. Secretary of War Baker has telegraphed Gen. Funston to take all necessary measures to protect the American forces and to avert further trouble.

EL PASO, Tex.—American cavalry, led by Maj. Frank Tompkins and consisting of the men of the Thirteenth cavalry, believing Villa was being harbored in Parral, entered that mining town to search for him. In a clash with citizens of the town, all Villa sympathizers, more than fifty Mexicans were killed. The Americans lost one man killed and one wounded.

THE NAVAL RESERVE.

Chicago, April 8.—On April 6, 1917, a state of war was declared between this country and Germany. Two days later, or 15 years ago today, the naval reserves were called to the colors and within 24 hours were en route to the various navy yards and placed on ships that were either out of commission or in reserve. It was only a few days later that most of the ships were fully manned and put to sea to join the rest of the fleet.

Now, this may not seem important to some people and nobody ever will know how important it would have been if there had not been an allied fleet between ours and the German fleet. Well, that is history now.

But now, after 13 years of building up our present naval reserve, our rich country is to junk this valuable asset to the navy for economy's sake. Can it be possible that we have forgotten the lessons of the last war in so short a time?

We have spent over five hundred millions of dollars on a farm board to help grain speculators, which we are now told is a total loss to the country; millions more for the Hoover dam for the direct benefit of Californians; millions of dollars to enforce unenforceable laws, as the 18th amendment, but cannot find enough money to train our citizen sailors so they could be better prepared to defend their country in time of war.

The money necessary for the maintenance of the naval reserve is less than 1 per cent of the entire naval appropriation bill and that, to my estimation, is a bargain to have about 30,000 trained naval reserves ready to serve their country within 24 hours' notice.

It seems to me that there is something radically wrong with our administration when they refuse to allow enough money for naval reserve training on the great lakes to train these men properly, especially when one considers the small upkeep of the naval reserve. The taxpayers in the middle west should at least get some benefit, through its citizen sailors, for the money they contribute toward the support of the navy, which is about 40 per cent. WILLIAM KRAHN.

SHIP SUBSIDIES.

Chicago, April 8.—In all this talk about expense in government I would like to ask a few questions on government subsidized private corporations. I am told that the U. S. Lines, known as the Roosevelt Steamboat Lines, are subsidized by the government to the extent of $16 per mile and a bonus if they run ahead of schedule. This rate is paid to all boats of the U. S. Lines that carry mail by contract. Is that a fact or am I misinformed?

If this government has money to subsidize Mr. Roosevelt and his U. S. Lines, why cannot they subsidize the man power of the country as well; at least pay what they owe to the ex-service man, i. e., the bonus?

I do not think there is anything much wrong with this country except that the money is all tied up. Put a few billion dollars in circulation and see what will happen. Why not subsidize the city of Chicago? It is part of the government. LEONARD OLSON.

Adjutant Walter Pogue post, No. 161.

THE TRACTION SOLUTION.

Chicago, April 8.—Although two years have elapsed since the public voted for unification of transportation, nothing has been accomplished toward bringing it about. The "L" lines still collect 10 cents per person for the privilege of climbing their filth-laden stairs, pushing through their ill smelling stations to play tag with coaches that do not open when expected to. The buses still asphyxiate their riders as they shake the plaster from the homes they pass, and cause the already gin laden kidneys to tear from their moorings.. Upon leaving the bus the knock on the head is the thing that brings the rider back to consciousness. The surface lines are really the only ones that have improved their service. But why must we continue to pay two fares when the public voted unification? S. L. DALSEY.

THE STOCK AND BOND TAX.

Chicago, April 6.—As a reader of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, may I be permitted to ask this newspaper to use all possible influence to assist in voicing opinion to defeat the passage of any tax bill that provides for new or additional taxes to be levied against the purchase, sale and transfer of stocks and bonds?

It is my sincere belief that such a tax, causing tremendous and untold deflation of securities prices and the attendant diminishing of the trading of securities, will not only defeat its own purpose but, in addition, will result in increasing unemployment, loss of confidence and the great probability of additional gold withdrawals from this country through the sale of foreign held American securities which would further shake the economic stability and credit structure of this country. JULIAN L. MEYER.

THE WORLD'S FAIR SCHOOL.

Chicago, April 8.—In answer to Mr. Sunny concerning the World's Fair school, Chicago ought to be proud to offer and Chicago's World's Fair will be enormously enriched by this school building to be erected at the edge of the fair grounds. What greater or more amazing spectacle could one see than the progress from the one room school of a hundred years ago to this complicated, intricate edifice combining the best efforts of architects, educators, scientists, and engineers all over the United States?

News of a unique and beautiful school building to be published all over the world is much more valuable to Chicago than news of its gangland activities. Such publicity is what will aid in building up Chicago's reputation and will bring throngs to Chicago in 1933 rather than the latest picture of a criminal on his way to Leavenworth. Chicagoans insist on advertising our bootleggers to the whole world instead of allowing outsiders to know something of Chicago's cultural progress and hear of the activities of our great men.

As to the location of the new school, it is centrally placed between Oakenwald avenue to the east and Ellis avenue to the west. The district is a long, narrow one two to three blocks wide. The 3,555 children now attending school all live on those three streets. This school is the only one in the section along the shore from 29th to 46th street and is a dire necessity.

Why should Mr. Sunny, who lives in a section that is well supplied with schools, wish to deprive us of the only one in our neighborhood? This site has been procured under the direction of the Oakland Business Men's association and is indorsed by 1,500 members of the Central Shore Voters' league living in this district. HELEN Z. MARTIN, President Central Shore Voters' league.

SENATORIAL HORSE PLAY.

Aurora, Ill., April 8.—In last Thursday's issue of the THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE we read: "Senator Pat Harrison gibes Hoover." The senator is a past master at that sort of thing and gets away with it. I suppose it is a senator's privilege to gibe or taunt a President or any one else on the floor of the senate for something that does not suit him or his party is opposed to. The point is we, the common people, are sick and tired of horse play. Instead of so much horse play let us have more plain horse sense in the conduct of the nation's business. But they will tell you that is politics! That is another reason to be tired of it, especially at a time like this when there is so much distress and want in the country.

Mr. Orr's cartoon in the same issue hits the nail on the head. WM. GIVEN.

ASSORTED FLAVORS!

Chicago, April 11.—Something should be done about the awful habit numbers of people have of coughing when they should be silent at concerts. My plan is for the management to add an extra 3 cents or 5 cents to the price of each ticket purchased, and as each person enters hand him a small cellophane envelope containing five cough drops, with a request to kindly use them.

DISARM PARLEY HALTED; ENVOYS AWAIT STIMSON

Seek to Strike Bargain on Debts and Reparations.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, April 13.—When Hugh S. Gibson, American delegate to the disarmament conference, came forth with his proposal to abolish aggressive instruments of land warfare—tanks, heavy mobile guns, and poison gas—which caused such heartburn to the French, he asked for a vote within a week.

But now this seems hardly feasible. The conference, just back from a vacation, became wearied today after three days of inconclusive discussion and adjourned until Monday. So the American delegation is occupying itself only to the extent of seeing that in the steering committee meeting, which is now set for Friday, their plan is not given one of those fancy French funerals with black plumes.

Plan to Be Filed Away.

It now seems that the American plan will be respectfully filed for reference, and maybe the French security thesis and the armed league plan which Premier Tardieu thought Gibson tried to blast may come up for a vote first, after all.

Certainly the conference delegates, who so loudly pledged that they would get to work right after the vacation, now see that until the French elections are past and maybe a lot of serious matters are settled, they won't get very far.

The need of settlement of some of those other matters is going to be put up to American Secretary of State Stimson almost before he gets settled in his big villa on the shores of Lake Geneva.

Tardieu and Simon Quit Geneva.

Tardieu and Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, both left Geneva tonight. Simon is hurrying to London by plane from Paris to talk to Andrew W. Mellon, new American ambassador to London, and to attend the dinner of the Pilgrim's society for Mellon tomorrow night. He will then jump back to Paris, where he is expected in time to attend Tardieu's luncheon for the American secretary of state Friday. Stimson, aboard the Ile de France, is due at Havre tomorrow.

That Simon is going to talk with Mellon on debts and the Lausanne reparations conference, and that Simon and Tardieu together will talk to Stimson on the same subject, seems clear. That a lot of bargaining is going to be done on this and the disarmament conference also seems clear.

Italy Backs U. S. Plan.

Before it decided to take a rest today the disarmament conference saw Italy embrace the Gibson plan and both the Italians and Japanese agitate for a revision of the naval treaties.

Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, warmly accepted the whole American ideal of qualitative limitation, but went it one better in a way not calculated entirely to warm the hearts of the American delegation.

"To deprive the land, sea, and air forces of their most powerful weapons would make international aggression more difficult, more hazardous, and more uncertain," he said.

Thus, he extends the idea to sea forces, maintaining, like the French, the thesis of the interdependence of all armaments, which is equivalent to informing the United States that a sea power can't get away with prescribing merely land disarmament.

Seen as Bargaining Point.

It would be useless, he said, to abolish mobile artillery without abolishing bombing planes, and the abolition of aircraft carriers comes next. Capital ships, too, being of an offensive nature, must go, he said.

Moreover, he added that Italy wanted to see her demands accepted as an indivisible and organic whole. But, inasmuch as Grandi has had as much opportunity as anybody else to see how opposed Washington is to opening up the naval treaties, it is assumed that this is one of those bargaining attitudes.

The Italian suggestion calls for gradual destruction of weapons and putting a ban on capital ships, these, for instance, being scrapped in a given percentage of the total tonnage every year.

Tardieu didn't say a word all day, but looked on in disgust.

BILL TO ABOLISH NAVAL STATIONS FILED IN HOUSE

Expect Fleet to Stay on Pacific Coast.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 13.—[Special.]—Taking the position that the United States fleet will be based largely on the Pacific coast in the future, Chairman Carl A. Vinson [Dem., Ga.] of the house naval affairs committee today introduced a bill authorizing the President and the navy department to abolish the offices of assistant secretaries of navy and war for aeronautics and such surplus naval shore properties as are no longer needed.

REP. CARL VINSON

Chairman Vinson took the position that six of the eight naval stations and bases on the Atlantic coast should be scrapped or placed on a nonoperating basis in peace time. Two stations also would be maintained on the Pacific coast under his plan. He estimated savings of several millions could be effected if all unnecessary pork barrel yards and stations were clipped off the navy pay roll.

Four Stations in Mind.

As Chairman Vinson moved to pave the way for the elimination of such yards as those located at Charleston, S. C.; Portsmouth, N. H.; Boston, and Philadelphia, and the naval training station at Newport, the navy department continued its study of the state department proposal that all active warships be retained on the Pacific coast until the Japanese-Manchurian crisis clears up.

At present all American fighting ships in commission are on the west coast. The schedule calls for the return of the warships of the scouting or Atlantic force to the east coast in May. It is considered certain this order will be canceled unless there is decided lessening of the tension in the orient.

Expense Is Investigated.

Investigators have found that the entire fleet can be maintained on the Pacific coast, now that it is there, just as economically as under the original operating plan for 1932, calling for division of the fleet.

Sentiment in favor of maintaining only one naval fighting force and that on the Pacific coast has been developing rapidly since the Japanese attacked Shanghai early this year. It is understood that Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, believes the fleet should be kept together most of the year.

CONTRACT SIGNED FOR $500,000 BUS SYSTEM AT FAIR

A contract for a $500,000 system of motor bus transportation within the grounds of Chicago's 1933 World's Fair was signed yesterday by officials of the Greyhound corporation and the exposition. Within a few months the first two units of what is to be a fleet of 60 semi-trailer type open buses are to be put into operation, according to the announcement of C. E. Wickman, president of the Greyhound company.

In the near future, he said, work is to be begun on a wheelway for express buses to carry visitors from the north to the south end of the grounds. There are to be other slow service or sightseeing buses. The fare is to be ten cents. The complete fleet, according to Mr. Wickman, will be capable of accommodating from 15,000 to 20,000 passengers an hour.

Start Work Within Month on Outer Drive Extension

Work on a $400,000 segment of the outer drive from Montrose to Foster avenue is to be started within a month, it was announced yesterday by President Warren Wright of the Lincoln park board following a meeting of the commissioners. Funds for the construction have been provided from the gasoline tax fund. The extension is to traverse the lake shore on land that was dredged in last summer. There are to be two 40 foot roadways. It is hoped to have the extension completed before the end of the summer, Mr. Wright said.

U. S. TO CONTINUE FIGHT TO OUTLAW MODERN ARMY

State Office Attitude Is Assailed in Congress.

Washington, D. C., April 13.—[Special.]—State department officials disclosed today that the United States plans to continue its fight for abolition of combat tanks, poison gas, mobile guns of the larger calibers and other so-called aggressive weapons notwithstanding the vigorously expressed opposition of France.

B. A. COLLINS.

According to state department officials, the United States has taken the position at the Geneva disarmament conference that arms limitation can best be effected at the present time through the specific limitation of designated weapons.

The department officials evinced resentment over French accusations that Great Britain and the United States had ignored France in jointly agreeing to suggest the abolition of so-called aggressive weapons. Department officials denied any collusion with Great Britain on the Gibson proposals, asserting the text of the American program had been forwarded to France as promptly as to Great Britain.

Criticized in Congress.

While the department was refusing to budge from the position enunciated by Ambassador Hugh Gibson, American delegation chairman, at Geneva Monday, denunciation of the proposal to abolish tanks, poison gas, and big guns was being heard in congress. The view was also expressed that the the attack on the Gibson proposals by France confirmed the predictions of Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] and others that the disarmament conference would not only prove a flop but would create international discord.

Chairman Ross A. Collins [Dem., Miss.] of the subcommittee handling war department appropriations asserted that the Gibson proposals, if adopted, would take the heart out of the army attack and at one blow wreck this country's chances of developing a modern army equipped with machines. "The state department proposes to abolish the tank," he said. "This weapon is the very backbone of a mechanized army. Its abolition would set us back twenty years.

"One tank with a crew of two men is equivalent to a force of 500 infantrymen. Our best chance for army economy lies in putting more fighting machines into the army and perfecting facilities for use of toxic gases in war time."

War department officials see little prospect for any agreement at Geneva which would bring about the abolition of the tank. Even if such an agreement is reached, they do not believe it would affect the light Christie combined track laying and wheeled tank and combat car. These weapons are now being tried out by the infantry and the cavalry.

Women lobbyists for the league of nations marched jubilantly into the senate foreign affairs committeeroom this morning only to hear Senator Borah [radical Rep., Idaho], its chairman, announce that the committee, by a vote of 8 to 11, had defeated the resolution of Senator Pittman [Dem., Nev.] requesting the United States to get from all signatory powers their interpretation of the Root protocol for American adherence to the world court. The passage of such a resolution would have postponed any possible world court vote in the senate by, at least a year, it was estimated.

The senators voting for the Pittman resolution were Borah, Johnson, La Follette, Robinson [Ind.], Glenn, Pittman, Lewis, and Shipstead. Those voting against it were Senators Capper, Reed, Fess, Vandenberg, Cutting, Swanson, Robinson [Ark.], Walsh [Mont.], Harrison, Black, and Connally.

FRENCH WILL FETE STIMSON; COOL TO HIM LAST SUMMER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 13.—The American disarmament plan has been getting an unmerciful razzing in the French press, but Henry L. Stimson, the American secretary of state, according to indications tonight, is going to be eased down to Geneva over a path strewn with flowers of that rare plant—French official hospitality.

The festivities which are scheduled to honor Stimson's arrival this time are in marked contrast to the casual fashion in which he was received on his arrival from Italy last summer. When he reached Paris his only official greeting came from a third assistant underling of one of the bureaus of the Quai d'Orsay. The French were smarting over the moratorium blow, and it was no secret at the time that Stimson, whose ears still were ringing with Fascist plaudits, resented what he considered the cavalier attitude of the French.

Stimson this time should have nothing to complain about. Premier Tardieu has arranged to have Stimson greeted on arrival at Havre Friday morning by high local officials. When his special boat train arrives here the American secretary will be greeted on the platform by French foreign office officials. The big event of the day, however, will be the luncheon which Tardieu will give for Mr. and Mrs. Stimson at Quai d'Orsay.

POISONED RUM IS STOLEN FROM INDIANA VAULT

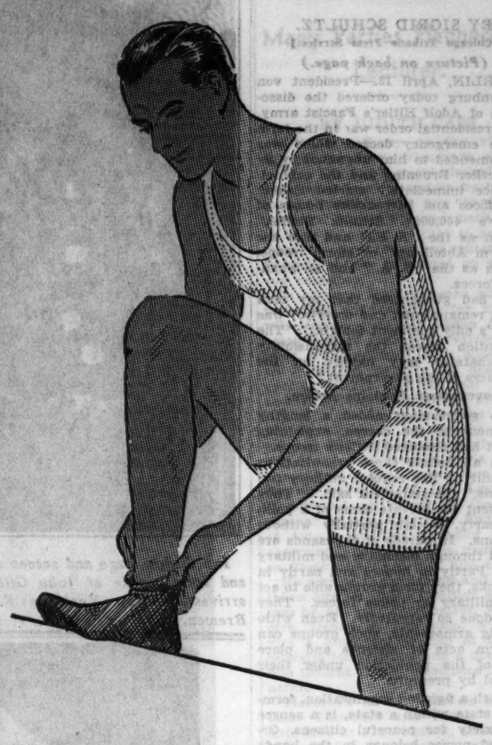

Rochester, Ind., April 13.—[Special.]—A large quantity of poisoned liquor confiscated in dry raids made in Rochester and at Lake Manitou in the last 18 months has been stolen from the vault in the basement of the city hall, it was announced today by officials. The liquor was taken some time Sunday night, but the theft was kept a secret until today. The persons who stole the liquor had to open a double combination lock on the vault door. There are several clews to the thieves.

The burglars may find they have made a costly theft, as authorities reported the liquor had been treated with bichloride of mercury at the time it was confiscated. Rochester doctors said the poison in the alcohol and whisky would probably take from two to three weeks to cause death, while in the beer the bichloride of mercury would cause fatal results in a shorter time.

The liquor was to have been used as evidence in cases in the Circuit court here at the present term of court.

GERMAN DECREE DISBANDS HITLER STORM TROOPS

Von Hindenburg's Order Hits 400,000 Fascists.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 13.—President von Hindenburg today ordered the dissolution of Adolf Hitler's Fascist army. The presidential order was in the form of an emergency decree which was recommended to him unanimously by Chancellor Bruening and the cabinet.

Police immediately started closing the offices and barracklike homes of Hitler's 400,000 "Schultz Staffel," known as the "S. S.," and also the "Sturm Abteilung," or storm troops, known as the "S. A.," and all auxiliary forces.

"I had guaranteed that my men would remain quiet and orderly," was Hitler's only comment tonight. "The dissolution places the responsibility for whatever may happen on the shoulders of the government."

Government Explains Action.

The government added a lengthy statement to the decree, explaining why it had dissolved Hitler's troops.

"In all details these organizations are built up like regular military formations," the statement said. "They represent the private army of a political party, though partially without weapons. Hundreds of thousands are united through discipline and military rule. Partly in houses and partly in barracks, they form groups able to act like military or police forces. They have done so repeatedly. Even without big armaments, such groups can perform acts of violence and place part of the population under their control by pressure."

Such a fighting organization, forming a state within a state, is a source of anxiety for peaceful citizens. Organized power belongs in the hands of the state. In the hands of others it is dangerous, leads to clashes and finally to conditions similar to civil war.

Insists Laws Are Violated.

"Leaders of the organizations dissolved today guaranteed that they would respect the laws. Even if the guarantee was given seriously, it is certain that power must be in the hands of the constitutional organs of the state. Besides, the Hitler organizations have violated the order of the country. Police and the courts are studying documents of these violations.

"We need not wait for a court decision, since the dissolution is ordered for state reasons and does not depend on whether or not the laws have been violated by the Fascist forces. This is not a question of parties or governments, it is a question of life or death for the German state.

Must Fight Economic Misery.

"In the coming months we must fight with all the means at our disposal against economic misery for our liberation. The country can be saved only if the German people reconquer their faith in the strength of their own administration and state. It must be clear that in Germany the state and the state only keeps up order with the law and with firm hands."

The government pointed out that similar steps were taken in 1929, when the Red Front fighters organization was dissolved because it was growing too restless.

In the Hitlerite camp, the measure was seen as "good propaganda for the Nazi party, since measures that are repressive always rekindle the enthusiasm of followers of the oppressed party." It also frees the Hitlerites from big financial obligations, since many members of Hitler's army are housed in barracks, fed and given pay in the name of the Hitler party.

Disorders Are Feared.

It is feared that desperate groups of the "S. S." and "S. A." will create disorders. Should the Fascist army try to form again secretly, its members will be punishable by jail sentences of not less than four weeks. Police tonight had seized all military property of the Fascist army, including airplane motors, motorcycles and even brass bands.

Braunschweig is the only state which has not yet started raids. The decree was drafted with the assent of the home ministers of all the states except Braunschweig.

SOVIET-JAPANESE DANGER GROWS, TOKIO IS WARNED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, April 14.—[Thursday.]—The Russo-Japanese situation on the Manchurian border is causing grave concern here with reports that the revolt against Japanese domination in Manchuria is spreading like wildfire. Army circles here are not sure that Russian complications will not develop.

The correspondent of Jiji at Mukden today reported that the Japanese military authorities had obtained information of a serious anti-Japanese plot which was planned for April 15. The correspondent said discovery of the plot is attracting considerable attention because of its possible effect on the relations with the soviets.

Discussing the likelihood of an imminent break with the soviets unless extreme care is taken, the newspaper Hochi today pointed out that the soviets have mased 200,000 troops in the Vladivostok, Kabarovsk and Blagovestchensk areas.

"Since the Manchurian outbreak the soviets have been preparing to aid Manchurian outlaws against the new regime and Japan," the paper said. "These facts should serve as a warning to Japan. Soviet interests in the far east are no less vital than those of Japan. The situation is so delicate that a clash may easily be started."

New Cabinet Formed in Peru with Luis Flores as President

LIMA, Peru, April 13.—(AP)—A new cabinet, headed by Minister of Interior Luis Flores, former finance minister, as premier, was formed today after the cabinet of Premier Francisco Lanatta resigned. Only one other change, however, resulted. Ignacio Brandariz was appointed finance minister. The cabinet shakeup was caused by disagreement over financial policies, it is believed.

GEN. MA REVEALS JAPAN'S SECRETS IN MANCHURIA

Man Who Deserted China Says He Acted as Spy.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, April 14.—[Thursday.]—Gen. Ma Chan-shan, erstwhile Chinese hero of the Nonni river battle against the Japanese army in Manchuria last winter, has regained his lost prestige and again became a national patriot alongside Gen. Tsai Ting-kai, commander of the 19th route army which defended Shanghai against the Japanese invasion.

He achieved this coup by issuing today a long circular telegram repudiating his connection with the Japanese and their puppet government in Manchuria. The telegram was addressed to Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, Chinese dictator, and other Chinese leaders.

Gen. Ma's telegram was sent from the town of Taheiho, on the Amur river opposite the Russian city of Blagovestchensk. Gen. Ma has established headquarters at Taheiho and has also established a temporary capital of Heilungkiang province there.

Inside Story of Jap Intrigue.

The English translation of the document occupies five single spaced typewritten pages. It fairly drips with sensational disclosures regarding Japanese military activities and intrigue in Manchuria. The Chinese general said his revelations are pertinent at this time because of the imminence of the visit of the league of nations' inquiry commission to Manchuria.

"I have decided to lay bare to the world the results of my investigations of Japanese activities in connection with the establishment of the puppet government of Manchoukuo," the message read. "My information is based on personal contact with high Japanese officers while I was seemingly serving as minister of war."

Ready to Fight to the End.

That Gen. Ma realizes that his step is likely to lead to serious consequences is indicated in his final paragraph, in which he declared:

"I have crossed the river and burned the boat. I have distributed my forces at strategic points and have no alternative except to fight the Japanese to the end. I have unburdened myself of facts which I hope will be understood by my countrymen and the world.

"I am fully aware of the smallness of my forces, as well as their lack of equipment, compared with the Japanese legions, but the fight is on and I have no ambition except to do my small part to recover China's lost territories."

Bares Secret Plans.

Gen. Ma decided to compromise with the Japanese to prevent elimination of his forces, he said, but "by temporarily mingling with the Japanese I have obtained their secrets.

"Over a period of forty days I have seen with my own eyes the turn of events leading to the installation of the puppet Manchoukuo government. I have seen secret plans of the Japanese calling for the ultimate annexation of the entire territory. I have supplied the league commission with a complete certified report of the situation, showing the indisputable fact that Manchoukuo was not based on self-determination but purely on Japanese coercion.

"Even the former boy emperor, Henry Pu-yi, hesitated a long time and was practically compelled to proceed from Dairen to Changchun to be placed into power."

Japan in Full Control.

Gen. Ma's most sensational and damaging disclosures concerned negotiations in which he took part when the Japanese adopted regulations for the organization of the so-called general affairs department of the new government, which controls all domestic and external political affairs of the state.

Under the regulations the Japanese have the right to appoint half of the members of the general affairs department and no action can be taken without the approval of the Japanese chief of staff, Gen. Shigeru Honjo, stationed at Mukden, or his assistant, Gen. Doihara, stationed at Harbin.

The regulations also provide for complete Japanese control of all police establishments throughout Manchuria. The Japanese, it is provided shall enjoy full citizenship rights in Manchoukuo, but without surrendering rights of Japanese citizenship.

Railways Mortgaged to Japan.

Gen. Ma disclosed that the Manchoukuo government has mortgaged important provincial railways in north Manchuria to Japanese banking interests, including the Mitsui and Mitsubishi companies, at only about one one-hundredth of their real value.

He also alleged that the Manchoukuo government made a secret treaty with Japan opening all public lands to the settlement of Japanese and Corean peasants and confiscating all lands formerly belonging to Manchurian civil and military officials.

Most interesting was Gen. Ma's disclosure of the private conversation of high Japanese staff officers, including Gen. Honjo. The latter is alleged to have declared:

"Japan is prepared to meet Russia in the north with the complete strength of the imperial Japanese armies and is equally prepared to meet the opposition of America on the east with the full strength of the imperial Japanese navy."

ELEVEN APARTMENTS RENTED

"... upon taking over the management of the Charlotte-Fay Apartments, at St. Louis and Forster avenues, we found twenty-three vacancies to be filled. We used Chicago Tribune Sunday space twice and week day space three times, have rented eleven of the apartments and are working on several good prospects.."
Courtney R. Gleason, Real Estate Manager
GEORGE M. FORMAN REALTY TRUST

AT COST OF LESS THAN $10 EACH!

When the George M. Forman Realty Trust took over the Charlotte-Fay Apartments, tenants had to be found immediately to prevent a loss of thousands of dollars in revenue.

Tribune Apartment-to-Rent Want Ads were used at once: twice on Sunday and three times during the week. Within a few days eleven of twenty-three vacancies were filled, at a cost of less than ten dollars each!

In addition, Mr. Gleason told the Tribune, these want ads brought several good prospects who have not yet signed leases, besides a number of parties who were referred to other of the George M. Forman Realty Trust's twenty-five apartment buildings.

Tribune's Want Ads get quick action for apartment advertisers. According to a recent survey, three out of four tenants consult the Tribune Chicago's rental guide first. For this reason the Tribune brings prospects in large numbers. Use Tribune Want Ads to keep your apartments filled with reliable tenants!

Gary Rabbi Writes Story of His Race

"God's Gentleman," by Garry August [Knopf]. Published April 8.

"Children of Pleasure," by Larry Barretto [Farrar & Rinehart]. Published today.

GARRY AUGUST, the author of "God's Gentleman," a story of a Jewish rabbi, is the rabbi of Temple Israel in Gary, Ind. He is also an editor of a weekly book column and a contributor on musical subjects to various magazines and periodicals. He knows intimately the struggles and problems of the Jewish race in modern America, and though his analysis of those problems seems somewhat ruthless, his attitude toward his own race is nevertheless sympathetic.

GARRY AUGUST.

Rabbi Daniel Sharwell, the "God's Gentleman" of the title, a young, idealistic, vital man, tries to communicate his message of spirituality, beauty and racial unity to his congregation. The congregation, however, concerned with getting rich and being accepted by the Gentiles, scorns the thoughtful young rabbi's teachings. Sharwell, known affectionately to his friends as Danny, fights a losing battle against the Gentile complex and the spiritual indifference of his race.

Lynette, a girl whom he loved, now the wife of his best friend, sticks by Danny and supports him when he most needs it. The most difficult family he has to deal with are the Greenspans, who represent the movement of the Jews toward a denial of their religion and their race. The Greenspans have a lovely blond daughter who makes things very complicated for the young, handsome rabbi. In the end the rabbi almost completely surrenders.

Today's Problems Discussed.

This novel contains many fascinating discussions of the problems of today, and though they are not always in place in a book of this sort, still they are interesting and relevant enough not to seem like mere pedantic interruptions. The rivalries between the German and the Russian Jew, the differences between the moneyed and the poor Jew, the Jew who is and the Jew who isn't accepted by the Gentiles, all are made a part of the dramatic narrative of "God's Gentleman."

Besides giving a comprehensive and vivid picture of certain phases of modern life, the author also makes several extremely brilliant characterizations. Danny, Lynette and Lew are all successfully handled. Danny, with his intelligence, his sometimes disgusting superiority complex, his ideals and his sardonic and bitter humor, remains, as he should remain, the most compelling character in the book. "God's Gentleman" is a vital, dynamic book, not continuously well written, not always interesting, and frequently blurred and confused in themes and intentions, but memorable in its characterizations, its well sustained plot, and its atmosphere it achieves distinction, solidness, and reality.

A Spoiled Lady And the Slump.

Larry Barretto, author of "The Indiscreet Years," draws a portrait of a complicated woman in "Children of Pleasure." The book concerns mostly a beautiful, spoiled, enormously rich woman whose husband loses everything in the financial crash. Maids must be turned off, gowns must be sacrificed, all the things Linda had once considered necessities finally appear to be only useless luxuries.

Linda goes to Bermuda to escape contact with a husband she doesn't love and there meets an English sheep owner. Her return to New York and her subsequent adaptation to life form the rest of this story.

Again, and novels are now catching up with the crash of 1929, the description of terror stricken New York appears in this book. The author shows how this catastrophe affected various classes in society. The way in which men and women of conventional morality are drawn into careers of crime or at least into different forms of racketeering makes a picture whose social implications cannot be overlooked.

"Children of Pleasure" is, on the whole, a readable, sometimes a light and entertaining, and sometimes a serious, novel of contemporary manners written brightly, and containing good characterizations, excellent dialogue, an interesting plot and enough suspenses. M. D.

Black Pique Suit Laces White Scarf Down the Front

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Cotton suits for town wear are established as important items of French chic this season. To the end that cotton shall appear as discreet and elegant as does wool or silk, cottons are woven to look more like wool than they do like their own humble selves.

As there are literally hundreds of corded and ribbed woolens in Paris styles, cotton piqué has been seized upon to make the cotton suit, and it is dyed to sober shades for this purpose. Black and dark blue piqué are used to make tailored suits that can be worn all day in town on a hot day.

The Vera Borea suit, illustrated today, is the smartest piqué suit that has come out of Paris for summer wear. It is made of black piqué, and Borea also makes it of black linen for those ladies who prefer this sheerer fabric. The jacket is cut with man tailored trimness, but becomes feminine because of its white crêpe de Chine scarf that folds around the neck and laces down the double breasted front panel on white, square porcelain buckles, and ties in a knot at the waistline. This detail is essential to tailor made chic, for every severe French suit is gentled by some such trickery.

The skirt has a slender silhouette, but is ample because of the three plaits set in at the two sides of the front. These plaits are stitched down flat to below the hipline. The blouse worn with this suit is a plain, short sleeved white lawn blouse.

Madame Schumann-Heink Here; Weak from Illness

Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, the 71-year-old singer, now convalescing from an illness that confined her in a hospital near Stevens Point, Wis., arrived in Chicago yesterday. She will remain at the Auditorium hotel for several days before continuing to New York. The veteran singer, still weak, whispered her well wishes for Chicago as she arrived on the Soo line, leaning on the arm of her granddaughter, Mrs. Ferdinand Hirzy.

Colleen Moore in Hollywood for Stage Part

Seeks to Become Star on Broadway.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., April 13.—Colleen Moore came back to Hollywood as an actress today, but not as a film actress. She's to open a stage run in "The Church Mouse" Sunday and her husband, A. P. Scott, New York broker, came on yesterday to join her for her debut before the old friends who used to acclaim his wife in screen successes.

Miss Moore, who skyrocketed to screen prominence during the mute screen programs, but whose vogue washed out with the talkies, said she was waiving any immediate ideas of a motion picture comeback, because her immediate ambition was to complete a run in a stage hit on Broadway first.

Many of the old friends who called on Colleen remarked about her changed appearance. Gone is the Dutch bob of the old days as a film star, and in its place a stylish marceled bob and a heightened facial makeup which make Colleen look almost like a dead ringer for Sally O'Neill. The resemblance was much remarked.

Friend husband said he hoped to stay in Hollywood about three months with Colleen and shared her ambition to see her name in the New York bright lights next winter.

William Bakewell has discovered a new hot weather thrill, but it's not recommended for any one with a weak heart. He got an extra size surf board and had it powered with an outboard motor.

When the Rev. Paul Rader of Chicago and Los Angeles sought to purchase the Rev. Aimee McPherson-Hutton's Angelus temple establishment he and his associate, F. C. Winters, former business manager for the Rev. Aimee, went to visit Tom Mix, who has a reputation for generosity. Mix asked what they wanted and was told they wanted him to lend them $50,000 to apply as a down payment on the Rev. Aimee's temple. Mix's version of the incident is:

"While it is true that I never have liked the idea of preaching religion off of soap boxes, and that I have aided other religious work, and think it the proper thing, I couldn't for the life of me see where I was to come out on such a deal as they described. About the only possible return that seemed in it for me, was the publicity. Now I wouldn't mind going in if it would help, and I told Mr. Rader and Mr. Winters so but I couldn't see my way to put up the $50,000 when I am opposed to using religion as a mere publicity stunt for myself.

Accordingly Mix said he asked to be excused from helping buy the temple.

Mary Astor has a small motion picture camera with which she has filmed several of the major operations performed by her husband, Dr. Franklyn Thorpe, surgeon.

A much desired film rôle went to Neil Hamilton today when he was chosen as leading man opposite Constance Bennett in Radio's "Truth About Hollywood."

Greta Garbo has been granted a six months extension on her United States immigration bureau permit which will allow her to remain here until January. So perhaps Greta won't go back to Sweden in June after all. And, again, perhaps, maybe the studio wants her to stay badly enough to get her the extension so as to have a good argument in seeking to induce her to stay.

Ten Minutes' Daily Treatment Keeps Your Complexion Lovely

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The question is asked repeatedly about how much time need be spent daily on the face to have and hold for years a fine, young texture of skin.

If the skin is normal or fairly normal, since there are few really normal skins, I should put the minimum daily attention period at five minutes, morning and night. In that five minutes you can do marvels toward improving and preserving a good facial appearance.

Let's take this daily ritual in steps. And let's begin at night just before retiring, since the morning after, on rush mornings, may even be slighted by a minute or so if the night care has been religiously attended. The neck, underchin, and underjaw line are included in this treatment, understand.

Cleanse first, with your cleansing cream, this whole surface from throat base to forehead hair line. Remove the cream with tissue.

Wash the face with warm water, a good soap, and, preferably, a soft complexion brush. Rinse in warm water, then cold and colder water.

Now use a bit of massage cream and work it on up and out movements. Remove the cream, then use a skin tonic and put it on with cotton pads. If the skin is very young you will not need the tonic.

In the morning rinse the face with cold water. Splash it on face and throat till you feel a tingle. If the skin is getting on to the age where skin tonic use is advisable, after this water treatment soak a cotton pad in a skin tonic and pat on. Let dry and then lay on the foundation cream for your makeup.

When I say five minutes night and morning I mean the operations can be performed in that brief time. But eight or ten at night, with the treatment done in a bit more leisurely fashion is recommended. The point is that three minutes every night and morning means more at the end of a month than fifteen minutes twice a week. It's the regularity of treatment that matters most of all.

The above suggestion is for the average type of skin without any real complexion troubles, such as blackheads, pimples, acne, or any of the other well known blemishes. In the event of blackheads there need be a few minutes more given to expulsion of the pore content nightly. In case of pimples and acne, again more detailed application nightly is urged. If you have any of these blemishes let me send you my booklet on skin care, which covers treatment of the blemished surface thoroughly. Just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Count Fleury Will Arrive in City Today

Many Parties Planned for Lecturer.

BY JUDITH CASS.

SUCH a flurry as the visit of Count Serge Fleury is causing in Chicago's smart circles! From what I can ascertain by talking to the women who are to be his hostesses during his stay here, he is to be even busier, if that is possible, than the other attractive visitors that Chicago society has fêted on numerous occasions.

In between the luncheons and dinners that will be given for him, he will lecture—the real reason for his being here, of course—on various subjects, all illustrated with slides and all "designed to give his hearers a greater insight into the real France and its civilization, past and present."

This is his first visit to the United States, although he already knows quite a few Chicagoans, having met and entertained them in Paris. He is a member of the French foreign office, a chevalier of the Legion of Honor and an officer of the Paris chapter of the American Federation of Art, in addition to being a very charming and personable gentleman, so those who have met him tell me.

He arrives this morning and will be taken directly to the Century of Progress by his host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel H. Burnham, who will give a luncheon for him at the Administration building and a dinner for him tonight at their residence in Winnetka.

Tomorrow he is to lecture on "Salons: Yesterday and Today" at the Arts club at 11:30 o'clock, after which Mrs. Walter S. Brewster will entertain at luncheon at the club for him, later taking him to the symphony concert. Mrs. Freeman Hinckley has invited some friends to meet the count at tea after the concert at her apartment, 209 Lake Shore drive, and tomorrow night Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Bennett of 43 East Burton place will give a dinner party for him.

To Lecture on Empress Eugenie.

Saturday at noon he is to lecture in French at the Alliance Française on his memories of the Empress Eugenie, after which Col. and Mrs. Clifford Corbin will entertain at luncheon for him at the Tavern. Saturday night he will be George Dunham's guest at dinner at the Evanston University club, later delivering a lecture there on Napoleon. Sunday the count's luggage will be moved from the Daniel Burnhams' to the Hubert Burnhams' in Evanston, and that day at 1 o'clock Robert Hall McCormick is entertaining at luncheon for the count in his apartment in the McCormick building.

That evening the Hubert Burnhams will give a large buffet supper at their residence for their guest, and they also will entertain at dinner for him Monday night. Monday morning he will talk at 11 o'clock at the Goodman theater under the auspices of the Antiquarian society of the Art Institute on Vaux-le-Vicomte, that beautiful but little known château which inspired Louis XIV. to build Versailles, using the same architects, painters, and landscape men who had made Vaux-le-Vicomte so lovely.

The château is privately owned and beautifully kept up, Mrs. "Dan" Burnham tells me, and she adds that the count's pictures of it are perfectly beautiful. After this lecture Mrs. Carter H. Harrison will give a luncheon for the count at the Casino.

Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock he is to lecture in French before Le Cércle Française at its final reunion of the season. There are other things planned for this distinguished Frenchman during his Chicago visit, but they cannot be definitely settled until after his arrival.

Plan Another Stock Yards Tour.

Despite the fact that some of the stock yards sights could be witnessed only with the aid of smelling salts by some of the women on Mrs. Frank Hibbard's south side bus tour last week, the trip must have been successful, for Mrs. Hibbard is planning to repeat the trip next Thursday.

The tourists will meet at 10:15 o'clock at Mrs. Hibbard's shop, Conveniences, at 106 East Oak street. The first stop will be the Oriental institute, where Dr. Watson Boyes will lecture. Luncheon at the Saddle and Sirloin club and a tour of the stock yards will follow. All of the proceeds, of course, will go to the charities which Mrs. Hibbard helps through her shop.

The Friends of Opera guaranty fund committee members are all congratulating themselves upon the fact that they are now only $1,400 short of the $50,000 they have pledged toward the $500,000 needed for next season's opera. The total amount raised by all of the committees working for the cause is now around $336,000.

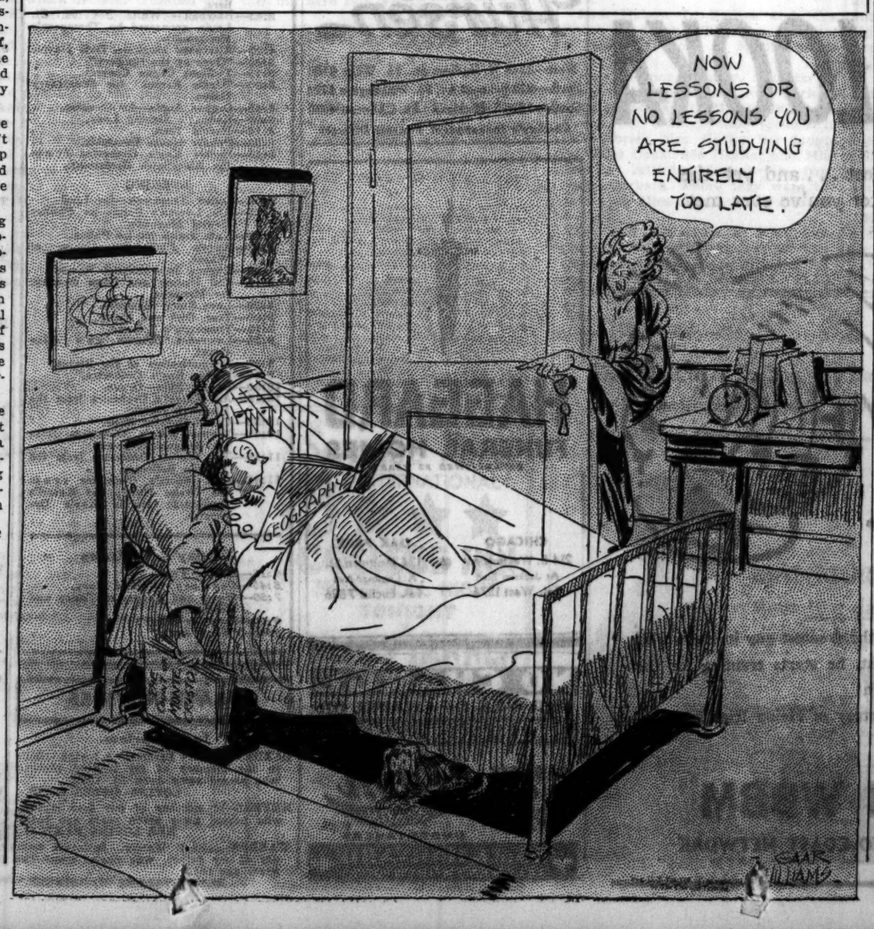

These announcements were made at the weekly meeting of the Friends of Opera yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Ernest R. Graham at 25 Banks street. The meeting was a large and enthusiastic one and was followed by tea, with Mrs. Edward F. Swift and Mrs. Arthur Meeker pouring. All of the members feel confident that the balance of $1,400 will have been pledged before they meet again on Wednesday of next week at Mrs. Edward F. Swift's residence.

Mrs. Waller Borden is having the women of the press to tea this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock to tell them about another big benefit that is being planned, for the unemployed I think. The committee in charge of the dinner dance to be given for the benefit of Madonna center on April 30 also is giving a tea for the press and the junior committee this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the center, 712 South Loomis street, so the society editors of the city will have plenty of tea this afternoon!

Mrs. John H. McIlvaine of Lake Forest has invited members of the women's auxiliary of the Infant Welfare society of Chicago and representatives of the press for luncheon on Tuesday, April 26, at 12:30 o'clock, at the Casino. Does this presage an-

Finds Average Man Takes to Reading to Forget Depression

Abundant reading is the average man's means of forgetting economic troubles, Dr. Douglas Waples, professor of library science at the University of Chicago, declared yesterday. He has just returned from a lengthy study of reading habits abroad.

"The worse the times get, the more the average man reads," he said. "This is partly explained as an attempt on the part of the average man to forget the surrounding misery, partly an attempt to understand the economic and political mess."

Prof. Waples' survey carried him into Russia, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Germany, Switzerland, Belgium, England, and France. Everybody reads in Moscow, he said, where there is a real hunger for ideas. In Germany, he declared, sales figures of the publishers' clearing house rose like steps of stairs from the end of the inflation in 1925 to 1930. The problem novel is popular there, he added. Nonfiction is gaining on fiction throughout Europe, Prof. Waples said. In his summation of increasing reading, the professor said he believed that the use for enforced leisure may well permit Europe to emerge more literate and cultured from its present condition.

Tree, Descended from Famed Elm, Planted at School

A small plot of soil on the grounds of the Austin High school became a historic spot yesterday with the planting of an elm tree, said to have descended from the old elm at Cambridge, Mass., under which George Washington took command of the revolutionary army. The tree was planted under the auspices of the David Kennison chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, of which Mrs. D. Doseff is regent. The ceremonies began in the assembly room of the school, where Mrs. E. G. Snodgrass, a member of the Illinois bicentennial commission, spoke. The High School R. O. T. C. assisted in the tree planting that followed.

BRITAIN CONVICTS BLACKMAILER OF TWO U. S. WOMEN

Sentenced to Serve Ten Months in Jail.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 13.—Illes Brody was convicted by a jury in Criminal court today of attempting to blackmail two American sisters by threatening to publish alleged revelations in a New York newspaper. He was sentenced to ten months in jail—one degree lighter than penal servitude.

It was discovered today that the sisters, identified throughout the proceedings as Mrs. "B" and Mrs. "C," under the English system of shielding the names of accusers in blackmail cases, are Mrs. Mildred Reed and Mrs. Constance Reed Netcher. Mrs. Reed was Mildred Reed Burke before she was divorced. She met Brody last summer at Reno, where they both had gone to secure divorces.

Says She Pursued Him.

In a last effort to save the case, Brody today swore that Constance had pursued him. He reaffirmed intimations made in an unsealed letter found in his room after his arrest dealing with a ride they had taken in the park.

Recalled for cross-examination, the woman denied any intimacy, declaring that Brody had only kissed her hands. At this point the prisoner was reprimanded by the court for laughing.

The chief exhibits dealt with today were two letters which Brody admitted having written to the plaintiff, but which were never mailed, and copies of two cables which he said he had intended to publish.

Brody stuck to assertions in one of these cables that the plaintiff was madly in love with an impoverished Scotchman, who had had a long standing engagement with a titled woman now married to a famous producer. The same cable accused Mildred of a mad infatuation for a colored singer, an Oxford graduate and a "pet" of London.

Sir Ernest Wild, court recorder, in summing up the case for the jury asserted that it "must have been shocked by the atmosphere of lust, license, and liquor which seemed to permeate the entourage of persons concerned in the case. Some might regard marriage as a sacrament, but this sort of people seem to regard it as tenacity of will. It seems to be the morality of Reno."

Brody has been in jail for seven weeks and this will be deducted from his sentence.

IRVING NETCHER'S EX-WIFE.

Mildred and Constance Reed are daughters of Mrs. Lawrence J. Reed of Chicago and New York. Mr. Reed, a former vice president of R. F. Conway Co., paving contractors, died on Nov. 18, 1912, leaving an estate of about $500,000 to his widow and five children. The other three children were Richard, Lawrence and Muriel.

Constance, now 29, was married on April 25, 1921, to Irving Netcher, wealthy Chicagoan. On June 18, 1930, in Judge Sabath's court, she was awarded a divorce and $1,250 a month alimony on grounds of cruelty. A condition of the divorce was that alimony payments should cease if she remarries.

'AUTO OFFICIAL SAYS INDUSTRY EXPECTS BOOM

R. H. Grant, vice president of the General Motors corporation, on a business visit in Chicago yesterday, forecast a boom in America's largest manufacturing industry, the production of motor cars, at some uncertain time in the future when the current depression ends.

"I'm not a prophet," he said, "nor am I a candiadte for the 'oh, yeah' school of economists. I can't say what year it will be, but when the public starts buying again, the automobile business will come back with a bang.

"Half a million persons attended the recent General Motors shows in fifty-five cities. The sales totaled $5,700,000, but it was a tough market. The folks looked at the cars and plainly wanted them but for the most part they didn't buy, either because they were broke or afraid.

"The need for new automobiles is becoming greater every day. Cars are being used more than ever before. They are wearing out. The inventory in the hands of owners is being exhausted. It's a long jam that will break some day.

"The economic situation will adjust itself in time—I don't know how much time. England bettered itself with an adjustment of its fiscal problems, Germany aided itself politically, and there are hopeful signs at Washington.

"However, the fellow who is going to sit and wait for better times is going to be sunk. General Motors is adhering to a policy of fighting for business regardless of whether conditions are getting better or worse.

"Of recent sales, there has been a larger portion for cash. Dealers are even getting quite a few of the old style currency, the big bills, money that has been in a sock or safety deposit vault. Time payments are being met with few defaults."

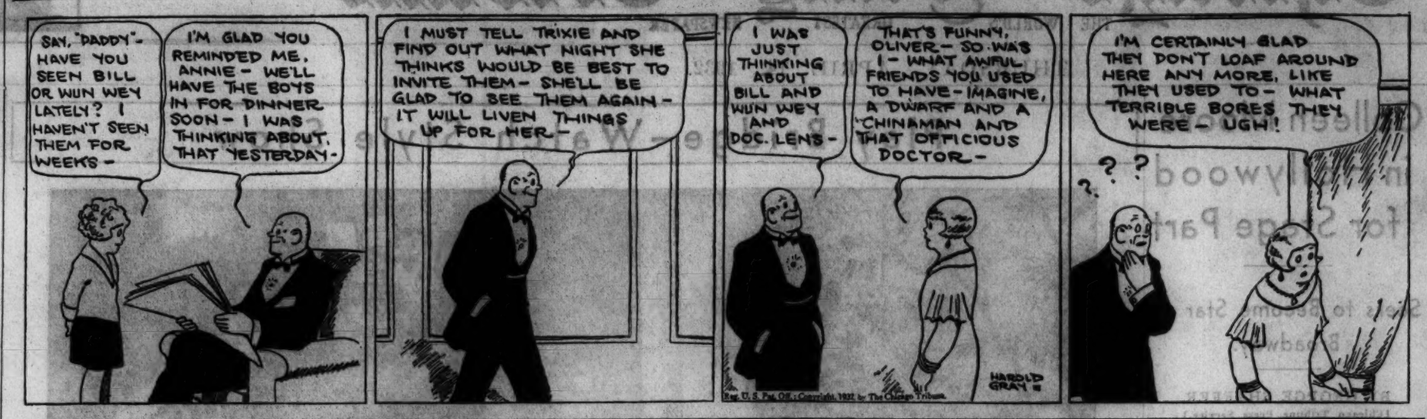

Hold Last Rites Today for Waukegan Newspaper Man

Funeral services for Frank A. Milhizer, 64 years old, of 425 Cory avenue, Waukegan, will be held at 9:30 o'clock this morning at the Immaculate Conception Catholic church, Waukegan. Burial will be in Ascension cemetery. Mr. Milhizer died Tuesday at the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn. At the time of his death he was advertising manager for the Waukegan News-Sun. He was a lifelong resident of Waukegan, and for the last fifteen years had been an advertising executive. Surviving him are his widow, Alice; a daughter, Eunice; a sister, Mrs. Elmer Green, and a brother, William, of Akron, O.

15 OUNCE BABY LAYS CLAIM TO PINT SIZE TITLE

Wrests Honors from One Pounders.

New York, April 13.—[Special.]—Eugene Albert Jordan of Craig Beach, near Youngstown, O., is the latest claimant to featherweight baby honors. He weighed fifteen ounces at birth as compared to the pound each that Charles Bernard St. John of Kansas City and Billie Jean Henderson of Crane, Mo., tipped the scales.

It is just possible that the diminutive Ohioan will have to yield first place to a tiny Brooklyn girl who was born Saturday and is so delicate that physicians have not yet put her on the scales. She is the daughter of Mrs. Lee Rosenstein and is believed to have a good chance to live.

20 Ounce Infant Dies.

A note of tragedy entered the picture today when Violet Younie, the Quincy, Mass., baby who weighed less than 20 ounces at birth, died. She had been kept alive for ten days on a diet of warm milk and water fed to her by means of an eyedropper.

The very small Eugene Jordan has gained from the 15 ounces he weighed on the day of his birth, Jan. 13, to three pounds and physicians now expect him to develop into a child of normal size. A twin sister weighed only 13 ounces. She died at the age of 20 days.

When Eugene was born he was not much longer than a man's hand, his wrists were not larger around than a lead pencil and his head no bigger than a small apple. Twenty-five drops of milk was a full meal for him when he was smaller, but now that he has gained so much he takes a full ounce at a time.

Twins Lived in Incubator.

Eugene is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Jordan. They are the parents of another set of twins born two and a half years ago who weighed two pounds and 12 ounces and three pounds, respectively. For months the twins lived in an incubator, but now they are normal, plump children.

Charles St. John was the first of the pint size babies to receive wide attention in the papers. He was born April 4 and is getting 12 meals a day and gaining, but the doctors say he is not strong enough yet to be weighed again. Billie Henderson was born March 7 and he now tips the beam at all of two pounds.

DINERS IN NIGHT CLUB ROUTED BY ODOR BOMB

A dozen diners were driven from the Music Box café, Chinese night club at Cottage Grove avenue and 64th street, last night when a stench bomb was tossed into the entrance. Police were told that efforts to unionize attendants probably were responsible.

Lenore Blonchat, 22 years old, 1907 South Albany avenue, a check girl, told detectives she had paid $2 of a $5 fee to representatives of a check and wardrobe attendants' union and had been threatened when she failed to pay the balance. Harry Brown, 3614 West 15th street, an attendant, said he had refused to join the union. Police said they would question Thomas R. Burke, president, and Max Caldwell, secretary, of the local.

Marshall Field Veteran to Be Buried Tomorrow

Funeral services for Charles E. Prahman, veteran general salesman for Marshall Field & Co., wholesale, who died Tuesday from heart disease, will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow at the chapel at 3176 North Clark street. Mr. Prahman was 67 years old. He started in the employ of Marshall Field & Co. when he was 16 years old. Mr. Prahman was district sales manager for the northwest for a period of years.

HOTEL PLUNGE KILLS ATTORNEY OF MO. PACIFIC

J. A. Mobley of Houston Is Victim.

New York, April 13.—[Special.]—John A. Mobley of Houston, Tex., general counsel for the Missouri Pacific railroad, fell or jumped from the window of his room on the ninth floor of the Hotel Pennsylvania early today. His body was found on the roof of a two story extension.

Mr. Mobley, who was about 55 years old, was a member of the law firm of Andrews, Streetman, Logue & Mobley, with offices in Houston. As general counsel for the Missouri Pacific, he had been engaged in strenuous legal work in connection with efforts of the railroad to obtain a $23,500,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. He was to have left today for Washington to keep a business appointment, presumably in regard to the loan.

Friend In Next Room.

Mr. Mobley registered at the hotel last evening. A friend, John H. Shary of Mission, Tex., was assigned an adjoining room. According to Shary, the two men visited a club and returned to the hotel shortly after midnight.

Both retired to their rooms. Some time later, Shary said, he heard Mobley coughing. He went to the lawyer's room and remained with him until the coughing had passed. At that time Mobley seemed in excellent spirits, Shary said.

Impact Is Heard.

The impact of the body on the roof of the extension was heard by an employé of the hotel, who notified the management. Shary had gone to sleep, and on being awakened, was startled to learn what had occurred.

Hard work in connection with the desired government loan is said to have put a heavy strain on Mr. Mobley. Half of the loan was sought, it was said, for retirement of obligations held by New York banking interests, and due this month.

Dispatches from Houston said that Mr. Mobley had a habit of walking in his sleep.

Seek Missing Banker.

The missing persons bureau was asked today by Newark police to search for Edward J. Moffett, secretary and treasurer of the Central Bank and Trust company of Newark, who has been missing since yesterday. After he disappeared his wife received a letter which said "by the time this letter reaches you, I will be dead by drowning."

Memorial Service Today for Frederick W. Seymour

Memorial services will be held this evening at the state Soldiers' Widows' home in Maywood for Frederick W. Seymour, Maywood centenarian, who died last June. Today is the 101st anniversary of Mr. Seymour's birth. He served several terms as Maywood police magistrate and at the time of his death was said to have been the oldest member of the G. A. R. in Illinois. The memorial services will be conducted by Anna A. Brinkley tent, Daughters of Union Veterans.

DOCTORS DEFINE AD ETHICS FOR HEALTH CLINICS

Opinion Requested by Institute.

The council of the Chicago Medical society, through its public relations committee, yesterday informed the board of trustees and medical advisory board of the Public Health institute that the institute can remain ethical only by restricting its advertising to a statement of its location and the class of patients treated.

The opinion was given in a letter addressed to Joseph W. King, president of the board of trustees, by Dr. Charles B. Reed, secretary of the public relations committee of the council. It was voted upon by the entire council at the monthly meeting on Tuesday night.

Further Parley Expected.

The opinion, it was learned, is expected to result in further negotiations between the council of the medical society and the board of trustees of the institute that will end in an agreement between the two groups on the institute's advertising. The opinion was given after Dr. Herman L. Kretschmer, president elect of the medical society, reported to the council that the institute trustees desired specific recommendations on advertising from the council.

The letter emphasized that the code of ethics of the American Medical association, designed to protect the public, does not permit any advertising by doctors, or groups of doctors, except a simple statement of location, physical surroundings, and the class of patients treated.

Institute's Claims Cited.

"The claim that the institute is conducted on a 'not for profit' basis is one of the cardinal features of its publicity campaign," the letter said. "For this reason, if no other, the temptation to solicit business for commercial success seems wholly unnecessary, and hence the Chicago Medical society feels that the unethical advertising could be readily abandoned without injury to the institute and with definite relief to the public."

JOHN W. HANSEL, NOTED CHICAGO EDUCATOR, DIES

John W. Hansel, D. D., LL. D., well known in religious and educational work in Chicago in past years, died after a heart attack yesterday at his home in Berkeley, Cal. He was 80 years old.

Born in Peoria, Mr. Hansel received his early education in the public schools and under private tutelage. He was one of the founders and later the president of the Young Men's Christian association college in Chicago. He also was a founder of its summer camp and school at Lake Geneva, Wis. He was a former president of Fargo college, Fargo, N. D.

Mr. Hansel was a member of the Union League club and a resident of Oak Park for 25 years. He is survived by the widow, two daughters, Mrs. L. E. Harter and Mrs. F. C. Brown, both of Berkeley, and a son, John W. Hansel Jr. of Winnetka.

BISHOP FINDS WORLD TURNING TO NEW VALUES

Says Depression Ends Ballyhoo.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Nearly 1,000 members of the Association of Commerce were advised yesterday to reinvest in securities that cannot be stolen. Such securties were enumerated by Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago. He spoke at the association's luncheon in the hotel La Salle, on the subject "Thunder and Dawn."

The bishop declared that a new appraisal of values would result from the depression. This, he said, will bring about a new socialization with the realization that human values are supreme. Bishop Stewart pointed to "new horizons" resulting from the decline of "America first" philosophy of partriotism.

Interest Is World Wide.

"The world is one," declared Bishop Stewart. "We are slowly realizing that we cannot limit our interests to a country and that real loyalty does not begin with ourselves or our own little spheres and swing outward from them. Rather, loyalty must begin at the very circumference of humanity and swing inward to our nation, state, city, precinct and self."

The depression brought every one down to realities, Bishop Stewart asserted as he pointed to the passing of "the day of ballyhoo, whoopee, selfishness and cynicism." He declared the pessimist should read his history and learn that from such depressions—as well as from adversity—great character emerges, and that prosperity and ease have never produced faith and hope.

Cites Travel and Education.

Bishop Stewart cited travel and education among the investments that cannot be stolen. People who have invested in travel and study possess securities that thieves cannot steal and that pay constant and increasing dividends. The real cure of the depression, Bishop Stewart concluded, is the cure of fear which now dominates the minds of men.

"The cure of fear is faith, and faith is the combination of vision and courage," Bishop Stewart said. "We must have faith in God, faith in America and faith in ourselves if we are to steer through our difficulties."

LAWYER KILLED AS HE RE-ENACTS DETROIT SLAYING

Ex-Prosecutor Victim of 'Unloaded' Gun.

Detroit, Mich., April 13.—[Special.]—Allan W. Kent, one of the leading criminal lawyers of Detroit and a former assistant prosecuting attorney, died this afternoon after being shot through the head. The tragedy was enacted in the office of Inspector Fred W. Frahm, head of the detective bureau of the Detroit police department.

Kent had been a leading figure in criminal law in Detroit for the past 15 years, and recently defended the public officials of Hamtramck, a suburb. The officials were convicted on charges of conspiracy to violate the laws against vice.

Calls Shooting Accident.

Deputy Chief of Detectives Henry W. Piel, who was with Kent when he shot himself, asserted that the shooting was accidental. The bullet pierced the attorney's head, just behind the ear, and he died in a hospital 45 minutes later.

On his way to the commissioner's office, Kent stopped in to talk to Frahm. He found Piel in the office and sat down. Their conversation led to the trial of Lonnie Jenkins, whom Kent recently defended.

Jenkins was found guilty of killing his wife, Ethel, and was sentenced to prison for life.

Recounts Crime and Is Killed.

Kent, throughout the trial, contended Mrs. Jenkins shot herself. Today Kent was showing Piel how Mrs. Jenkins might have held the weapon to shoot herself.

Piel remonstrated as Kent raised the pistol to his head, but Kent said, "Don't worry, this isn't loaded."

He pulled the trigger, still describing Mrs. Jenkins' moves. The gun was discharged and Kent fell forward on the desk.

EIGHT BURNED TO DEATH IN PENNSYLVANIA

Seven Children Among Victims.

Altoona, Pa., April 13.—[Special.]—Eight persons, including seven children between the ages of 3 months and 10 years and the young mother of the two youngest victims, perished tonight in a fire which destroyed the frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Dillon at Hensheytown, near here.

Dillon, a laborer, was at work in the Pennsylvania railroad shops. Mrs. Dillon and Sarah, her 14 year old daughter, were visiting friends a short distance away.

Mrs. Goldie Hollobaugh and her two children, one three months old and the other 2 years old, and the other five children of Dillon, whose ages ranged from 3 to 10, were asleep. The fire is believed to have started when a furnace became overheated. It was discovered by W. E. Shaner, a neighbor.

Mrs. Dillon returned home as firemen were carrying out the last two bodies, those of her children.

6 Die in New York Fire.

New York, April 13.—[Special.]—A mother and five of her children perished tonight in a fire that raged through the upper floors of a six story tenement in the heart of the crowded lower east side.

The dead were Mrs. Celia Sanders, 42, and her five children, Fannie, 15; Bessie, 13; Sylvia, 9; Sarah, 7, and Irving, 4.

Wood Carving Gives Story of Norway's Art

Gallery of Modern Life Has Exhibit.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

It is a long journey, whether you measure it in years or in miles, from a Viking ship of ninth century Norway to the little Gallery of Modern Life in 20th century Chicago. But it is a trip you may want to make, that is, by way of history, after examining the Norwegian wood carvings included in the colorful display of folk arts now being presented by the gallery in the second balcony of the Diana Court building.

For of all the costumes, embroideries, laces, and ceramics from Armenia, China, Italy, Mexico, and Russia on exhibit, there is nothing that mirrors the folk soul of a people better than these wood whittlings done by the sons of Norway. These craftsmen started expressing themselves in this way about 825 A. D.—they are still doing it today!

Show Work of Norwegian Boy.

The gallery, organized only last fall by such well known Chicagoans as Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Aldis, Mrs. Tiffany Blake, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Bissell, Mrs. Waller Borden, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Maynard Hutchins, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson "to indicate the rich humane potentialities of modern life by a series of exhibitions, recitals, and lecture discussions drawn from the fields of the arts and the sciences," was fortunate in obtaining for this exhibit the carvings of a 19 year old Norwegian boy now living in Chicago—Lars Fletre. His work and some pieces loaned by Mrs. Lilla Dahl represent the folk art of the "land of the midnight sun."

"To find examples of the folk arts of the various countries is not as easy as it sounds," explained Raymond O'Neil, secretary of the gallery. "Some of them represent the work of foreigners here, while other pieces have been brought back by travelers. Many times it is difficult to make our foreign craftsmen understand that we are not trying to rob or exploit them but rather that we want to help them by giving Americans a better understanding of their work. Both the consuls and the settlements in Chicago have been of valuable asistance as intermediaries or interpreters."

Carvings Show Feeling, Action.

To be sure, the pieces loaned for exhibit by Mr. Fletre and Mrs. Dahl cannot fully express a 12 century old art, but there is in them a feeling and an action that is characteristic of the wood carvings produced down through the ages. Take for instance the figure of the peasant washer woman bending over her tub or that of a laborer celebrating Saturday night, his hat cocked on the back of his head and a bottle flung high in the air, or still again the old wooden drinking bowl carved in the shape of a Viking ship. Feeling—action—in all of them!

Only the high spots of the journey already suggested can be touched in this column, but it takes us back to the beginning of the art which has born and bred into the Norwegians the desire to whittle designs and figures from wood. With the excavation of the Oseberg ship, a Viking craft calculated to date from about 830 A. D., the earliest examples were found — richly carved sleighs and household utensils. Even the ship itself was ornamented with deep carving done in the Roman or Celtic patterns, the well known dragon heads predominating.

Inspiration for this first work was undoubtedly found in the Carolinian renaissance and brought to far away Norway as the result of the Vikings' raids on foreign shores just as the influences of later styles were carried north by the Crusaders. Few of us remember that Norway, during the 12th and 13th centuries, had what would now be called a national representation in five of the larger crusades. Then, too, thirst for adventure, which has always been an integral part of the Norwegian temperament, caused many a good man to leave his goods and estate for the Holy land.

All of this had its effect on the principal craft of the country. The carvings became richer, more spontaneous, more versatile. The deeds of heroes were depicted and snakes and other slender animals were common subjects of ornament, especially in the portals and pulpits of churches. There is an interesting significance attached to the fact that Norway's political decadence from the 15th to the 19th centuries was commensurate with a great development in the country's folk arts.

Norwegian sailors traveled the seven seas, bringing back treasures from every land and those at home worked at their crafts during the long winter evenings when the fields were under snow. Home interiors were carved and quantities of sideboards, tables, chairs, and beds were elaborately whittled. Profuse examples of these repose in museums today.

Still there are those who contend that Norway has no art. They forget that her craftsmen have expressed the dreamy beauty and the stern grandeur of her own nature in carvings of wood through 12 centuries.

The Gallery of Modern Life will continue its exhibit of the folk arts through the middle of May. It is worth an hour or so of your time.

GASOLINE ALLEY—ENTER SQUINT.

Pick Blossom Queen Entry at St. Joseph

Brown Haired Girl Choice of Judges.

St. Joseph, Mich., April 13.—[Special.]—Brown eyed, dimpled Leontina Renner, 19 years old, was selected "Miss St. Joseph" tonight over a field of thirteen other contestants, in southwestern Michigan's tenth annual blossom festival. The festival will be staged here and in Benton Harbor the first week in May.

As representative of her city, Miss Renner will enter the final contests April 27 in an attempt to win the crown of "Blossom Queen." Girls from thirty towns in the area will complete the group of aspirants. St. Joseph was the first city to choose its queen.

The 1932 "Miss St. Joseph" has brown hair and brown eyes. She is five feet, four inches tall. She has lived in St. Joseph for fourteen years. The runner up to Miss Renner was Helen Lucker, a tall blonde .

The judges, all Chicagoans, were Mrs. C. C. Pyle, Col. G. D. Gaw, and Morgan L. Eastman, musical director of the National Broadcasting company.

The fourteen girls who appeared on the Caldwell theater stage tonight were Lillian Sewall, Helen Lucker, Loretta Markstrom, Josephine Freitag, Gladys Welch, and Helen McCalla, blonds; Frances Hinga, Cleo Swan, Laverne Callender, Leontina Renner, Doris Gross, Elsie Rahn, Elizabeth Warmbein, and Marguerite Nordberg, brunettes.

The girls all wore informal blue or pink afternoon gowns. The Rev. George Horst, St. Joseph Congregational pastor and a former general blossom fête chairman, was master of ceremonies.

A male quartet—William Caugherty, Hershell McIntoch, George Adler, and Fritz Steuland—sang. Mrs. M. H. Willis, St. Joseph queen chairman, was assisted by Mrs. R. N. Hensler, Mrs. Malcolm Stark, Mrs. C. P. Burns, Mrs. J. W. Tiscornia, and the Misses Lyle Napier, Therese Briggs, 1931 "Miss St. Joseph," Jane Anderson, Helen Lloyd, and Marion Ankli.

Wedding Announced

MRS. ARTHUR J. STACK.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Reilley of 7741 Cornell avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Dorothy Mary, to Arthur Jerome Stack of Westport, Conn., on March 24 in the chapel of Holy Name cathedral. On their return from a wedidng trip to California, Mr. and Mrs. Stack will reside in Westport.

Count Fleury Will Arrive in City Today

other benefit? I wonder. Mrs. McIlvaine is a director of the society of which Philip D. Armour is president; Lynn A. Williams, first vice president; Mrs. Eugene S. Talbot Jr., second vice president; Erskine Wilder, secretary and Earle H. Reynolds, treasurer. Mrs. J. N. Eisendrath, Mrs. A. Richard Frank, Mrs. John W. Leslie, Mrs. Herbert F. Perkins, Mrs. E. F. Syndacker, Mrs. Arthur F. Tuttle, Mrs. Edward K. Welles and Miss Helen D. Wilkins are the other women directors.

Our Palm Beach correspondent writes that Maj. and Mrs. Elisha Dyer Hubbard have taken a villa there for next season, having leased one of Mrs. Earle Perry Charlton's beautiful houses in El Bravo Park near the ocean, and that this seems to indicate that the Palm Beach Playhouse, which the former Muriel McCormick directs, will continue for next season, although there have been rumors that it would "go under."

Maj. and Mrs. Hubbard, for whom more entertaining was done in Palm Beach this last season than for any other couple, so our informant writes, will spend the summer on their farm in Middletown, Conn. Mrs. Harry H. Shearson, who has been associated with Mrs. Hubbard in the management of the Playhouse this season, will return to Chicago the end of this month.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Press Hodgkins [Louise Carr] have joined her father and sister, Robert F. Carr and Miss Florence Carr, at the villa in Palm Beach they have for the spring season, and all are having a beautiful vacation, so our correspondent says. They will return to Chicago the end of this month.

Mrs. Chadwick Is Recovering.

Writing of Palm Beach reminds me of Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick whose lovely new villa there is closed while she is at the Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore recovering from the very serious illness which necessitated her going there recently.

Mr. Chadwick returned to Chicago yesterday and brings very satisfactory reports of her progress, but he is uncertain about when she will be able to return to Chicago. He probably will be commuting between here and Baltimore until that time, for although he would like to be with Mrs. Chadwick all the time business demands are pressing these days and he must be here part of the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Loring Reed, who were expected to return this week from Phoenix, have decided to prolong their stay for another week or ten days.

Mrs. Francis Peabody Butler is back at her Pine lane residence in Winnetka after a holiday of several weeks at the Champie ranch in Arizona.

Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes and Mrs. Ralph M. Shaw will return in about a fortnight from a Mediterranean cruise.

Miss Eleanor Coonley, daughter of the Prentiss Coonleys of New York, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Edward L. Hasler, at Aldingbourne cottage in Lake Forest. Mrs. Hasler, her daughter, Miss Constance Hasler, and Miss Coonley returned last week from Santa Barbara, where they were the guests of Miss Gwethalyn Jones for a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex E. Kirk have given up their apartment at 203 East Chestnut street and are with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Hollis of 232 East Walton place until they take another apartment next fall. Mr. and Mrs. Hollis and Mrs. Kirk are just back from a trip to Sarasota, Fla.

Miss Lura Schreiner has returned from a four months' visit in Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Dewey Jr., who have been in Havana for several weeks, have taken an apartment at 1100 Park avenue, New York.

Mrs. Cyrus Edson Manierre, who has been traveling in Europe since early February, is expected to return to Lake Forest about May 1.

Mrs. Jacob Baur and Mrs. R. Townsend McKeever will have luncheon parties at Chez Louis today preceding the showing of their illustrated travelogue before the Woman's National Republican club members. The program will include motion pictures taken by both ladies on their travels in China, Ireland, Mexico, Corsica, and the Riviera. They will take turns supplying a "talkie" accompaniment for the movies.

Members of the Chicago Colony of New England Women will be guests of Mrs. Franklin M. Miller at a musical program and tea this afternoon at her residence at 1500 Lake Shore drive.

Collar of Easily Made Silk Frock Is Finished with Becoming Frill

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Here is an unusually attractive dress, and nothing could be simpler to make than the molded bodice with drop shoulders, forming cap sleeves, and the straight, slim skirt. Inverted plaits at either side of front and back give a graceful fullness at the hem, and a small frill finishes the collar. A flat silk crêpe in beige, or a silk crêpe in blue with white polka dots would be pretty.

The pattern, 2664, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material with ¾ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

New Light Flashing Device Eliminates Costly Moving Parts

New York, April 13.—[Special.]—A new electrical flashing device, by means of which a wave of light is sent traveling along a row of lamps without the need of any costly mechanical moving parts, which is expected to effect large economies in railroad signaling system, moving street signs, traffic lights, and other fields, was demonstrated tonight. The show was held at the engineering auditorium by William A. Gluesing of the General Electric research laboratories before the science forum of the New York Electrical society.

Mr. Gluesing also demonstrated a new electrical musical instrument which has a range of seven octaves or more by the introduction of one or more thyratron tubes in an electrical circuit. The number of notes that can be played simultaneously depends on the number of thyratron tubes.

"DIRTY FACE" Ends Happiness

Happiness that is born of social success. Self confidence. Attention. Admiring friends. A clean skin has a great deal to do with such happiness, yet only one skin out of a hundred is really clean!

Dirt clings tenaciously to the tiny openings of the skin, stretching them, inviting infection, robbing the skin of its loveliness, and its youth. Keep clean, really clean with Daggett & Ramsdell's two creams. Their price is within reach of every purse, and there are none better at any price.

● EVERY NIGHT use Perfect Cold Cream liberally to get rid of below-the-surface dirt. This marvelous cream provides the essentials every skin must have—lubrication, moisture, protection. Three groups of special ingredients supply them, all balanced properly of course. Famous for more than forty years.

● DURING THE DAY whenever your skin needs freshening, cleanse it quickly with the new Perfect Cleansing Cream (liquefying). Melts instantly upon application, its fine oils cleanse in half the usual time.

Etchings by 2 Artists Placed on Exhibition

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

One of the Frenchmen whose talent is febrile, delicate and light is Segonzac. He is well represented in various collections at the Art institute in oils and water colors. Etchings by him may be seen in the current International Etching show in the museum print rooms.

This by way of introduction to a one-man show of his etchings that has just opened, to continue to April 23, in the Roullier galleries. Colorful, sensitive, poetic often in theme and mood, of such kind are Segonzac's pictures, no matter what medium presents them to us.

Roullier is showing etchings by another man whose work has possibly a wider and more popular appeal. Kerr Eby has done many a fascinating print. One of his best in this show is the one reproduced on the announcement, a hunter with his dog trailing rabbits, or so one thinks, through a snow covered landscape of infinite beauty.

The Art institute has opened two attractive little exhibits. You will find much to fascinate you in the showing of Japanese prints dealing with "In Wind and Rain." The Japanese are unexcelled in the art of conveying a great deal with one or two suggestive, scattered lines.

The University of Chicago sends word that Oskar Gross, president of the Chicago Association of Painters and Sculptors, is engaged in painting a portrait of Dr. J. M. Powis Smith of the university.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, April 13.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. F. McCann and their daughter, Miss Helena W. McCann, sailed for Europe on the Bremen last night. Their son, Frazier W. McCann, will join them at Venice, at which point they will board their yacht, Chalena, for a cruise of the Mediterranean, starting May 1. They expect to return about Aug. 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Langhorne Gibson will spend the summer in England, where they have leased the estate of Alan Fullerton, near Guilford, in Surrey.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Betts Hillhouse and Miss Sylvia Hillhouse of the Westbury sailed yesterday on the Vulcania for Europe. They will return for the Newport season.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight")

In the play of a hand at either Contract or Auction there is no other single item in playing tactics as valuable to keep in mind as free access from the declarer's hand to the dummy and back again. Here is yesterday's hand.

NORTH.
♠—J,9,5
♥—K,Q,7,6
♦—10
♣—K,9,6,5,4

WEST [Dealer].	EAST.
♠—8,6,3	♠—2
♥—9,8,5	♥—A,J,4,3
♦—A,K,9,8	♦—7,6,5,2

SOUTH.
♠—A,K,Q,10,7,4
♥—10,2
♦—Q,J,4,3
♣—10

West dealt and bid a diamond. North passed. East bid a heart. South made an attacking overcall of two spades and West passed. North, having less than adequate support in spades and knowing his partner might be bidding on a four card suit, shifted to three clubs. East passed. South rebid his spades with a bid of three. West passed. North now assured that his partner had at least five spades, went to four spades and all passed.

West opened a trump—the ♠ 8. Dummy ducked, playing the 5, East the 2, and declarer the 10, thus creating two entries in dummy, the J and 9 of trumps.

Note how important this is in the remainder of the play. Declarer then led the ♣ 10 which West captured with the ♣ A. West led back the ♠ 6, dummy played the 9, East discarded the ♣ 3 and declarer played the ♠ 4, leaving the lead in the dummy. To the fourth trick dummy led the ♣ K on which declarer discarded the ♦ 3. Dummy then led the ♣ 5 which declarer trumped with the ♠ Q. Declarer now led the ♠ 7 which dummy overtook with the ♠ J. Dummy led back the ♣ 9 on which declarer discarded the ♦ 4 and followed with the ♣ 6 on which declarer discarded the ♦ J. To the ninth trick dummy led the ♥ K which East took with the ♥ A. East returned the ♦ 7, declarer played the Q and West took the trick with the ♦ K. West now led the ♦ A which declarer trumped with the ♠ K. Declarer took in the next trick with the ♠ A and the last trick by leading his ♥ 10 to dummy's ♥ Q. North and South made their four odd and the game.

In addition to the example of entry making shown by this hand there is also illustrated the occasional great value of a trump opening. A trump lead here is unquestionably the best defense to put South upon his mettle to make game. An attempt to cross ruff by South will invariably lose two diamonds, one heart and one club and the game. If, on the other hand, West opens a diamond the game can easily be made by crossing-ruffing. Here is tomorrow's play-a-problem:

NORTH [Dealer].
♥—A,K,J,10,5,4,3
♦—6

WEST.	EAST.
♠—Q,7	♠—K,J,10,3
♥—9,8	♥—Q,7,6,3
♦—K,J,10,7,4,3	♦—8
♣—Q,10,2	♣—9,6,5,4

SOUTH.
♠—9,8,6,4,2
♦—A,Q,9,5,2
♣—K,7,3

Bid and play the hand and then compare the result with that printed tomorrow.

THE WHISPERER

By ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

"The 'Whisperer' Crimes" have held London terrorized for months. A bandit, working with few accomplices, has kidnaped and held for ransom numerous wealthy persons. Those who offered resistance have invariably been killed.

Joyce Merrow is "The Whisperer's" latest victim. She is engaged to Roland Blatch, who is secretary to Sir Henry Glazeborough, M. P., a leading philanthropist. Roland receives a small wireless receiving set, by means of which the bandit speaks, using his own short wave, and gives directions for delivering the ransom demanded. In Roland's keeping are valuable jewels, donated to Sir Henry to be sold for charity. Roland is forced to steal them for the bandit to insure the safe return of his beloved. He is directed to board a train, where he is followed by detectives, who have been called by a taxi driver who saw Roland wearing the headphones of the wireless set.

INSTALLMENT IV.

THE BANDIT OFFERS TO AID.

Roland startled the detective by at once breaking into a run. They kept abreast of him without asking any questions.

"It's all right! I'll keep any one from coming in at the last minute."

As the train started—at 12 o'clock exactly—Roland received another order.

The detectives watched with interest as he unbuckled the strap and produced the satchel from under his coat.

"That's a funny looking set-out, Mr. Blatch. What is it?"

"Jewelry—diamonds," answered Roland, his worst fear realized.

"Yours, of course? There must be a great deal of it. The Whisperer doesn't deal in ha'porths."

"It has been in my family for three generations." Fear now leant glibness to his tongue. If he had said, 'I have stolen it from my employer's safe' he knew they would have taken it from him. "It includes the Blatch tiara—perhaps you've heard of it? It belonged originally to the countess of Mentore—a distant relative who hanged herself.

He flung the satchel out of the window.

His voice shook as he risked telling the tremendous and circumstantial lie. Hendricks seemed to swallow it whole.

"Well, I hope we get it back for you!" he grunted.

"Thanks! So do I. But, for God's sake, don't take any risks at this end."

The train, running through the suburbs, was building up its speed. In a few minutes it would reach its maximum and hold it for the rest of the journey.

There came a buzzing in the headphones, which presently cleared. Then the voice of the Whisperer—more remote now and a little difficult to hear.

"Stand by for action. In a minute I shall give you your orders. If you have detectives with you in the carriage, it would be as well not to tell him what I say."

Silence. The detectives were watching him.

"Something came through, then, didn't it?" asked Hendricks.

"He told me to stand by the window and not sit down," lied Roland.

A minute passed and then:

"Now for your orders. Do not lean out of the window and look up the track, but keep your eye fixed on the track in front of you. In a minute or so you will see a large black flag standing in the middle of the track. As soon as you see the flag throw the satchel out of the window. I shall not speak again. If you have obeyed orders, Miss Merrow will be in her own flat within an hour."

Roland could not risk passing that on to Hendricks. The other man, he knew, had his hand near the communicating cord. With his eyes fixed on the track, he spoke to Hendricks.

"He says—in five minutes—I shall see a black flag on the line and am to throw the bag out."

As he spoke the black flag flashed into view. He flung the satchel out of the window—saw it fall at the feet of a man with a hooded mask.

Once again the Whisperer had collected his ransom—quite literally under the nose of Scotland Yard detectives.

Hendrick's colleague leapt for the communicating cord and instantly Roland felt the brakes being applied. Roland dropped back on the seat, exhausted with the strain. Hendricks looked at him oddly.

"I reckon the Whisperer's timing was a bit out. Five minutes, eh? But perhaps you didn't quite catch what he said, Mr. Blatch?"

The train was checking—steadily losing speed. Roland pointed at the communicator.

"Look here—if you catch that fellow now——"

"We shan't. The most we hope to do is to pick up his tracks. We shall be a mile away by the time the train stops."

"You said you wouldn't interfere." Roland's objection was in the nature of a counter attack.

"Our standing orders are not to interfere with the handing over of the ransom," said Hendricks. "We begin as soon after that as we can."

Roland felt suddenly tired—indifferent. He tore off the headphones and dropped them on the floor. The little box had ceased to have any significance.

"Tell the guard what happened. We shan't be back," said Hendricks.

Roland descended to the track, meeting the guard.

"Those two men running up the track are Scotland Yard men. Here is my card. I have just had to throw out of the window every penny I possess." And as the guard looked his astonishment Roland directed his attention to the "little box." "That, I think, explains everything."

Roland did not wish to go on to Brighton so he told the guard that the detectives wanted him to join them. He walked in their direction until the train had resumed its journey to Brighton.

The detectives were still running, and now he saw a train on the same track as the one he had just left stop near the two detectives.

Then Roland understood. It was a special train which the other two detectives had commissioned at London Bridge to follow the express. By such a plan several minutes at least must elapse before the pursuers could draw level. And before now the Whisperer had shown himself quite content with a margin of half a minute—there was the occasion when he had the ransom dropped down an area-grating—with two detectives standing by.

Roland climbed off the track and made his way over a field to the road. Within five minutes he was being given a lift in a fast car back to London.

It was now 12:30. Old Glassy would not go into the library until after lunch. The loss would not be discovered before 2:30 at the earliest.

It was 1:45 when he reached her and knocked on the door.

Reaction had set in and when she opened the door to him he gazed at her dumbly, scarcely able to believe his eyes. Then he stepped over the threshold and caught her to him, pouring incoherent words into her ear.

For long they clung together. It was Joyce who recovered first from the sweet shock of that reunion.

"You've had a much worse time than I have, poor boy! I've done nothing but sit in a perfectly decent room—I'll tell you all about it presently. But I'm so frightfully mystified, Roly. How have you paid my ransom?"

He could not answer her then, but she read distress in his face.

"Roly!" She slipped her hand in his. "I can see—I can see it's something dreadful. O, God, let it be something we can share!"

"We can't."

"Tell me, dearest."

She would have to know sooner or later. Better to hear it from him.

"Eighty thousand pounds' worth of jewelry which I stole from old Glassy's safe. He trusted me with the key, you know."

A cry broke from her. He was powerless to solace her.

"And the insurance does not come into force until tomorrow. It's poor old Glassy's loss. I expect it will make him bankrupt."

"But surely—the Whisperer! It makes everything different. They won't treat you like a thief, Roly."

"They will. They'll have no choice. O, I don't suppose they'll send me to Dartmoor. But I'm bound to be arrested and tried—even if it's only a nominal sentence. It'll be a hard luck case and the rest of it but, prison or not, I'm done for. Poor old Glassy! If only I could get a smack at the Whisperer—I'm talking like a fool! I'll have to go and tell Glassy in a minute—and surrender. I——"

He broke off as the telephone rang.

"It's for you, I think," she said. "Someone rang up 10 minutes ago. I told them I was expecting you. I knew you'd come here."

He lifted the receiver.

"Blatch speaking. Who are you?"

"It doesn't matter. I'm speaking for the Whisperer."

"Good lord, I——"

"Listen, boy, and blow off steam later. You're in trouble now over pinching that stuff and the Whisperer will help you. If you'd like to join up with us——"

"Go to the devil!"

"Take a couple of hours to think it over. If you'd like to talk, go into the telephone box at the corner of Theobald's road and Bedford row at 4 o'clock exactly and wait for a ring. Good-by."

The coming of spring brings great activity to the lake front. Not only does shipping increase, but passenger boats start running, pleasure craft are taken out of dry dock and put in condition, and most important of all to us cooks, the fishing boats start their trips out into the lake.

Fishing in the great lakes isn't as picturesque as fishing on the ocean, particularly as it was in the old days when the entire fleet was made up of sailing vessels, long and thin, designed to make port in record time to bring top prices for the cargo. That Gloucester fleet must have been a sight! But whether they're esthetic or not those gasoline propelled craft bring in some mighty fine fish from our lakes.

Mostly what they catch are yellow perch, whitefish, blue pike [which are the young of the wall eyed pike]. The perch and the pike are much alike in flavor, being dry and sweet, but the whitefish is a far more flavorful proposition. There is more oil in the composition of it, and so he is much richer than the smaller fish. A whitefish, planked on a well seasoned piece of oak, surrounded by rosettes of mashed potato, slivers of carrots, piles of peas, and whatever other vegetables offer themselves, might well be called a two eyed steak, which is what I understand Irishmen ask for when they order a certain kind of fish.

A friend of mine went out with a fishing boat once, and I was interested to compare his report with the procedure of salt water fishermen. It seems that pound nets are set in shallow water, sort of traps into which the fish swim. A net is stretched on heavy poles that are set into the lake bed. A leader net reaches out like an under water fence, for perhaps 700 feet, and the fish swim along this till they come to an enclosure from which a funnel shaped net leads into the "pot." This is a sort of pouch that can be drawn up and emptied into the bottom of the boat. The fish, slippery and wriggling, are sorted out, the pot is replaced and fastened down, and the boat proceeds to the next pound net. There are high hopes among the crew for lots of whitefish, and as the sorter proceeds with his work, eyes regard the heap of whitefish anxiously, because these bring several times the price of the smaller, commoner fish.

Fish are unloaded from the boats at fish docks with all possible dispatch. Some are shipped out at once, or, if there is no demand, they are put on ice and reserved in warehouses till they are wanted. Some are filleted. Men sit at long tables to perform this operation, and they can clean a fish, scale him, and divide him into boneless slices in less time than it takes to tell it. By the way, these fillets are increasing in popularity, and justly, too, particularly in the case of those small, delicately flavored fish that used to be slighted for the reason that their bones were too numerous.

The day has passed when we had to depend on the lake for our fish supply, but fish from our lakes will always have a place on our menus. There is something definitely appealing in the idea that they have come, irridescent and fresh, from our own front yard.

SOUR CREAM MUFFINS.

Sweet milk.
¾ cup flour.
1 egg.
¼ teaspoon soda.
½ cup sugar.
1 teaspoon baking powder.
Grated nutmeg.
Crushed candied orange peel.

To the sour cream add enough milk to make ½ cup of liquid. Beat the egg thoroughly, add to cream. Sift the dry ingredients together, add the nutmeg and peel, combine with wet mixture and stir till smooth. Bake in muffin tins in a 450 degree oven for fifteen minutes.

Taffeta Silk Slips Are Big News in Styles

Close Fits for Fashionable Sheer Frocks.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

YOU probably have heard so much about wool frocks that new news about them will have to be mighty fresh and interesting, even exciting, to make you take any sudden shopping excursions to verify the information!

But the woolly words of wisdom are these . . . your smartest spring and summer street frocks will be of wool . . . thin, thin, sheer wool . . . so made that their demure simplicity will simply shriek of tailored swank.

Most of the dresses will have the skirt sections cut on the bias, nevertheless the silhouette will be straight and slender . . . all the newest sheer wool frocks guarantee a nice long string bean effect even though you haven't counted calories for weeks.

But . . . the big news and incidentally the newest noise is the gorgeous swish of taffeta that you will hear as these smart woolens pass to and fro . . . if you know your swishes you will have guessed it . . . taffeta silk slips that fit as closely and as snugly as the dresses.

Nice, Noisy Things Have Just Arrived.

These nice, new, noisy understudies for spring chic have arrived just in time . . . chronic worriers about town that fret over unusual displays of life and limb without benefit of proper undercoverings can now worry over something else . . . for what shopper can resist the provocative rustle of silk!

Since black and blue are the colors for fashionable street and daytime wear, the outlook will be dark until you have discovered the bright lights for smart color accent . . . a lot of new clips and bracelets that can splash brilliantly at neck and wristlines . . . you can indulge all your best barbarism with bracelets that are as gawdy in hue as any tropical flower garden . . . and you'll wear just as many as you can crowd over your arm, but the fashion catch is this . . . only decorate one arm and forget the rest of your anatomy for with clanking bracelets, anything else in the way of costume jewelry is anti-climatic!

Stunning Clips of Real Stone.

Some stunning and most unusual clips are those fashioned of real stones set in heavy gold plate and priced so ridiculously low that even the seasoned shopper will gasp.

You will find oxblood carved coral . . . imperial jade, also carved . . . carnelian carved, cabochon chalcedony, and chrysoprase and onyx intricately designed and set by master craftsmen in colorfully beautiful combinations that formerly were only available on individual pieces of great price. If you like to match things . . . rings of similar settings are supplied.

If clips and bracelets are not in your sartorial scheme this spring . . . surely the new braided seed bead necklaces in all bright colors will do smart neckline duty on all your dark frocks . . . and you go in for quantity with these new necklaces, wearing as many as four assorted colors and never less than two.

These braided colored neck sets come in the new longer length, so necessary to break the high necklines on the smartest frocks that we are all wearing this year of grace and slenderness!

Woman Weighs Pros and Cons of Life with Bore

Maybe a Home Is Worth a Lot of Yawns.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"E. G." is 33. The big romance of her life ended two years ago when the married man who occupied her heart for seven years restored himself to his wife and family. "E. G." met this married man during a period in which he was living apart from his family. They found before long that they cared deeply.

There was a small boy of 7 and a girl of 5 who had prior claims and E. G. was the one really who made their father see this. She was responsible for his return to his family. But memory remains—and time is slipping, the girl admits. And there has come into her life latterly one whose every action is one of adoration. Tragically, though, this man's kindnesses leave E. G. cold.

His visits are hours of boredom. He lacks education. He has never tried to substitute for his early lack of schooling with study or reading. His conversation is dull. Soft talk, his only conversational standby, gets deadly monotonous by the end of an evening. Yet, this man has his points. He is an earner and a good one. He is moral. He is quite presentable. And he loves E. G. and wants to marry her.

She weighs the project cold bloodedly, and figures perhaps it will be her last chance. She wants marriage, a home, the security of a reliable mate. And she promises that if she goes into the union she'll play her part farily and squarely. In exchange for his affection she will try never to let him suspect that he came into her life "too late for that great big affection a woman can give but once in a lifetime."

There you have a problem. Whether it is better to marry a man who adores and bores you to death but who can guarantee you the security that is something for a mature woman to consider, or whether it were better to go on and map out another course for the long, lone years.

Only the involved one herself can know her capacity for seeing a difficult companionship through. Only she can tell whether the security of a home means what the making of that home will come to mean to her, whether day after day, evening after evening of companionship with a man whose conversation is boring to a modern, educated woman, wouldn't drive her to worse discontent than single life could possibly offer.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Horton of Evanston announce the marriage of their daughter, Lucile, to Mitchell Barrett Howe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Howe of Oak Park on April 9 at St. Luke's Episcopal church in Evanston. The couple left after the ceremony for a motor trip to North Carolina.

Daytime Rest May Substitute for Child's Nap

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

We'll try today to answer two questions. Here is one: "What I have not been able to do is to get my children to sleep more than they do. My 4 year old does not sleep as long as the charts say she should and does not nap, although she rests every afternoon. She eats splendidly and plays outdoors all day and is very well.

"The baby is fine, but sleeps less than he should. They are both happy and active. What shall I do?"

Answer—Let well enough alone and congratulate yourself on being a successful mother.

Children vary a great deal in the amount of sleep they require. Everything points to the conclusion that your little girl and the baby have as much sleep as they need. As for the nap, a large proportion of children will not sleep in the afternoon, no matter how favorable the conditions and scientific the management. This was proved in a special test and by home reports from mothers.

The afternoon rest period is adequate even if no sleeping is done. I should say you have nothing to worry about.

Here is the second question:

"My year and a half old baby, who is a darling, will not play alone. We used to live in an apartment where she was close to us every minute. Now we have moved and I want her to play alone outdoors. But she cries and is unhappy over being by herself. She has no playmates. I tried to be hard hearted and left her out, but she was too wretched. What shall I do?"

Answer—Children who have been constantly with grown ups and are not used to being alone naturally find it hard to learn to play by themselves. They have to be gradually weaned away. It can't be done all at once.

On the whole, a gradual process is to be recommended, nothing that partakes of discipline or forcing.

Now Easy to Soothe Baby's Red, Raw Skin

Mildly-medicated, Compound Powder Brings Quick Relief to Affected Parts

Lurking in the chubby skin-folds of an infant's body, uric acid is a constant menace—torturing tender tissues, pricking sensitive flesh, causing raw, inflamed surfaces.

Don't let your baby suffer this way! Leading doctors, nurses and hospitals everywhere recommend Z. B. T. Baby Talcum to foil the merciless attack of Urea Irritation. They know how soothing and healing this powder is—how it neutralizes dangerous acids, absorbs moisture and prevents infection.

Whereas ordinary talcum powders dust off almost as soon as applied, Z. B. T. contains a special ingredient which adheres so closely to the skin as to make it almost completely moisture-proof. Thus a delicate, protective coating is formed against acids, irritation and chafing. Yet, the powder does not "cake," and allows the free, normal flow of perspiration.

Protect your own skin from acid irritations! When perspiration causes painful chafing and itching, reach for the big, gray Z. B. T. can. Use it freely as a dusting powder—after shaving—and for "burning feet."

Your druggist or chain store sells Z. B. T. in three sizes—10c, 25c and 50c. Resent substitutes! Get a can of Z. B. T. today and test it yourself. Or send us your name and address, with 4 cents to cover postage, for a full-size "Junior" can. Z. B. T. Products Co., Dept. CTJ, Bronx, N. Y.

Chicago Commission on Washington Fete to Meet Tomorrow

The Chicago Washington bicentennial commission will meet in the city hall council chambers tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock to outline further plans for the army and navy inaugural ball to be held on April 30 at the Stevens hotel. Mayor Cermak and M. S. Szymczak, honorary chairman and vice chairman, are expected to attend the meeting of the commission as well as representatives of forty-two patriotic, military and cultural organizations which are sponsoring the ball. The proceeds of the activities in honor of Washington and sponsored by the commission will go to the Cook county relief fund. Col. T. A. Siqueland is chairman of the commission, and of the ball.

FLU -- GRIPPE
make handkerchief washing dangerous

KLEENEX
Disposable Tissues

WHO can think of washing a handkerchief used during a cold, grippe, or flu, without a shudder?

And this job is not only repulsive. It's dangerous! Thousands of germs must be handled. They contaminate other clothing—spread germs wherever they touch.

It is quite unnecessary that you should expose yourself to this danger, or ask others to do so.

Use Kleenex and destroy

Therefore, you use it and destroy it. No self-infection. No spreading germs every time you use a handkerchief. No washing.

Kleenex is sold at all drug, dry goods and department stores.

Events on the Stage

"The World Between," a play by Fritz Blocki, Chicago theatrical reviewer, is passing through its first ordeal of the footlights this week in the little theater of De Paul university at 64 East Lake street. The performance is given by capable amateurs who, unlike most little theater folk, feel the stirrings of professional energy in their blood; and the production was directed by David Itkin, whose skill in this department was first manifested in Chicago by the staging of "The Golem" for the Goodman repertory company.

This play is a distant relative of "Outward Bound." Its characters are six ghosts and two live aviators, male and female, who presently become dead aviators and thus increase the supernatural assemblage on an ancient derelict in the Sargasso sea. The ghosts, who are a vivid collection of characters, ranging from a pirate captain to a circus clown, have their own spiritual quarrels to adjust, and are reluctant witnesses to the love making and slow starvation of the mortals who have dropped into their nautical roost. After the aviators have perished the senior ghosts convene for a long argument on the immortality of the soul, the atonement of sins, the ordeals of purgatory, and other mystical matters.

Mr. Blocki has attacked a philosophical theme in the vein of romantic melodrama. The result is unusual and not without passages of theatrical effectiveness. In its present form, however, "The World Between" does not seem to be a prospect for the professional theater. The Charles Frohman estate had the manuscript under consideration for staging last season.

The performance will be repeated next Saturday night, and also on April 19, 21, 23, 26, 28, and 30. A professional matinée will be given Friday, April 22, with personalities of the Chicago playbills in attendance as invited guests.

The name of Mrs. Fiske has been added to the calendar. Next Monday has been designated as Minnie Maddern Fiske day by the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, in whose work she took an active part for many years.

"Mourning Becomes Electra" will end its New York run next Saturday night. The company will make a tour of eastern cities, starting in Boston next Monday . . . . Shaw's "Too True to Be Good" has won more favor on Broadway than his "Apple Cart." C. C.

The Old Story

Paying a woman's penalty—time after time

In the year of 1932 there should be no monthly martyrs to pain. Some women still think they must suffer—they haven't heard of Midol—or can't believe that it has solved their problem.

• • •

Did you know that five to seven minutes after swallowing a tiny tablet you can be yourself—can be comfortable—can go about without feeling a single further twinge of muscular pain?

Your regular periods need not be painful—they are not painful to those who know of Midol. These wonderful tablets make Nature's process a mere incident. No pain, not even discomfort when you have learned to depend on Midol, as women who used to have the hardest time have found. It is not a narcotic, does not interfere with the process, but does stop the pain; relieves headaches, too; neuralgia, etc. Every drugstore has Midol.

They came to LOOT—They stayed to LOVE!

SHE WAS BAD—hard boiled, cynical—and sinking lower and lower.

Like wolves they swooped down on the village—to pillage, rob and destroy! Sneering at decency, scoffing at law, until they met face to face a mighty force their twisted minds could not understand! They couldn't get it, but it got them!

THE "FROG" with twisted body and twisted mind.

Hard, defiant, brutal—he sneered at love and decency.

HE WAS A WOLF—"Money will buy me any miracles I want."

OVERWHELMING ACCEPTANCE OF Westinghouse

Dual-automatic Refrigerators

NOW BRINGS LOWEST PRICES IN HISTORY!

Now thousands who have refused to risk their refrigeration dollars on "bargain" makes and "secondary lines" can buy with confidence . . . at amazing price reductions! This is the most sweeping announcement in refrigeration history! Read details below . . . then see these sensational values for yourself . . . TODAY!

ALL new Westinghouse Dual-automatic Refrigerators now substantially reduced in price! Not just one or two, but every model in the big Westinghouse line! Not only the small-home types but the full-size models that are in greatest demand! As usual Westinghouse pioneers—this time in producing genuine *hermetically-sealed refrigeration of known quality at the lowest prices ever offered!

Make no decision about an electric refrigerator until you have seen what Westinghouse now offers! All first-quality, single-standard models, built by Westinghouse to hair-line specifications. All with perfected hermetically-sealed* freezing mechanism . . . in the top . . . out of sight! All with sanitary porcelain frosters, an exclusive Westinghouse feature! And all protected with the patented Built-in Watchman thermostat, and fast-freezing Selective Temperature Control!

Come in! Let us show you! Let us prove how quickly a Westinghouse will pay for itself out of cash savings. New liberal terms accompany these liberal price reductions . . . arranged to suit your convenience. Don't gamble with a lifetime investment! You'll never be satisfied with less than a Westinghouse. Buy yours now . . . at a substantial saving . . . and be sure!

ONLY THE WESTINGHOUSE IS DUAL-AUTOMATIC

Only Westinghouse provides in every model a modern *hermetically-sealed unit, protected by the patented Built-in Watchman thermostat. This amazing device automatically safeguards the mechanism, switching the current "off" when unusual conditions arise and "on" when normal service is resumed. Every Westinghouse Refrigerator is built to run for years without service or attention.

✱ Leading Refrigeration Engineers say:—"In our opinion, no electric refrigerator can be considered truly modern which does not provide an hermetically-sealed type of cooling mechanism."

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Manager Lew Fonseca of the White Sox last night was busy embroidering a brand new wall motto, entitled "Success," as a result of the second consecutive victory of the season over the St. Louis Browns. And well he might, for yesterday afternoon his boys again performed in sterling fashion to effect a 7 to 3 victory, after suffering much agony in the early innings.

The contest had several interesting features aside from the victory. Not the least of these was the 1932 unveiling of J. Smead Jolley as an outfielder.

And what an unveiling it was, for Smead was made very happy when given back his finger glove, and responded nobly. Goose Goslin made a circus catch off the left field scoreboard to rob the big boy of a triple his first time at bat, but J. Smead came right back with a single, a double, and a single in his three remaining times at bat. And every one of the clouts figured heavily in the scoring.

Gets Help and Helps Himself.

Tommy Thomas pitched no such game as Jones did in the opener, generally speaking, but he got sparkling support to pull him out of several jams, and his six strikeouts were executed at the proper time for hide salvaging purposes. Tommy was touched for 12 hits, including a triple and two doubles, but he was steady enough to spread them out to the extent that not more than two came in any one inning. The Brownies got at least one hit in each of the first eight innings, but in the ninth Tommy decided it was time to go home to supper, so he retired F. Schulte, Burns, and the terrible Goose in order.

Carey Selph, our new third baseman, who was a batting star in the opener, was a fielding star yesterday, and in the eighth also got busy with his bat. Carey executed a great bit of work on the heavy end of an unusual double play which halted a Brownie riot in the third inning, and he started a routine double play in the following inning, which helped like everything. Carey accepted five chances perfectly, and each of them came when the heat was on.

Handy Gents to Have Around.

Blue continued to live up to expectations during the second day's business. His double was the dominant factor on the first attack of Coffman and he walked twice, scoring after the second walk. Bill Cissell also carried on with a pair of singles, one of which drove in the Sox last two runs.

Goslin, as usual, was the Browns' star. Like Selph, he switched from batting excellence to fielding brilliance yesterday. After going to the scoreboard to rob Jolley of a potential triple in the second inning, he raced in a mile a minute to pick Blue's drive off the grasstops.

The Browns were absolutely the only ones who had any fun for themselves

Costs Rabbit $5 to Speak to Wife, and if He Doesn't——

New York, April 13.—(AP)—Little Rabbit Maranville is a sociable soul, and there is nothing he values quite so highly as friendship. Now he's afraid he's going to lose not only the friends, but the friendly enemies he has developed in 20 years of infielding around the National league circuit.

"It's that new rule the league put in—no talking to friends in the stands, no talking to rival ball players, no anything friendly and pleasant any more," he said mournfully today as he perched in a hotel lobby chair.

"Just think of it: If I walk over to the stands and say hello to my wife, I get a $5 fine slapped on me. And can you imagine what would happen to me if I didn't?"

THE GUMPS—A DANGEROUS RIVAL

How I Got My Start in Baseball

BY TED LYONS.
[As told to Edward Burns.]

Every time I read my "life story" I get a different slant on it. But here, as I remember them, are the facts:

TED LYONS.

When I was in high school and later at Baylor university in Waco, Tex., some institutions of learning weren't so fussy as they are now about a kid earning an honest dollar in semi-pro games. As a consequence my scholastic ball playing led me into professional playing almost before I got to algebra and Cicero.

I started playing ball in earnest, however, in the spring of 1920, my first year at Baylor, although I still had an idea that I wanted to be a lawyer.

There was no freshman rule in the Southwest conference, and when I won 10 games while losing 2 in the conference my first season, Harry Davis, scout for the Athletics, visited me and said that Connie Mack was interested in my getting a fine education and wanted to finance my law course at Baylor.

Macks Lost Interest When Ted Lost Game.

I didn't tell Harry that I had been playing semi-pro ball, and intimated that I was afraid if I accepted Mr. Mack's kind offer it might impair my amateur standing. [The A's in those days were a pretty sad team, you'll remember.]

In 1921 I won 7 and lost 5 in the conference, and the A's lost interest in the character of my education, but they again became concerned about my ability to buy books and lead pencils when in 1922 I won 10 and lost 1, to help give Baylor its first conference championship.

I still declined to sign with the A's, and that summer still professed to worry about my amateur status, though our whole team moved into Jacksonville, Tex., and won the semi-pro championship of the state.

In 1923 our bunch was back at Baylor and again won the Southwest conference title. Incidentally those two years are the only ones in the last 20 years in which the University of Texas Longhorns have not won the title.

Schalk Picks Ted After Campus Visit.

Though my scholastic career was nearing an end and I had decided definitely that I was going into baseball as a business, I hadn't thought about who might sign me until one day Cracker Schalk showed up at our field. Frank Bridges, then our coach, asked Cracker to warm up several of our pitchers, myself among them.

I didn't think I showed Cracker much stuff, but several days later, when the Sox were playing in San Antonio, I went down and signed a contract.

So far I haven't had the pleasure of playing for a first division team. But I still have hopes of getting up in the top flight. Maybe this is the year. But whether it is or not, I'd rather be a pitcher than a barrister. So that's that.

HEYDLER URGES LATER OPENING; WEIL OBJECTS

Cincinnati, O., April 13.—(AP)—President John A. Heydler of the National league came out for later opening of the baseball season today and ran into immediate opposition.

Bewailing weather conditions that cause postponements of openers, Heydler announced he would propose that the opening hereafter be delayed "at least two weeks."

But Sidney Weil, president of the Cincinnati Reds, quickly voiced protest, declaring that the fans want their baseball, weather or no weather, and that opening later would require closing later, bringing conflict with football, and throwing the world's series into the weather man's ice box.

EVERY PUNCH BY SCHMELING'S ONE FOR UNCLE SAM

He May Beat Sharkey, but Not Income Taxes.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 13.—Having no troubles of my own I am in a position to sympathize with the rich at this time, and the poor little rich boy who commands more of my sympathy than any other is the young German prize fighter who holds an official but not very popular warrant as heavyweight champion of the world.

Max Schmeling has an engagement to fight Jack Sharkey in New York next summer, possibly in June, although the apparent intention of the Garden corporation to build a new out-door arena for this fight and the distraction which will be set up by the two presidential nominating conventions in Chicago probably will necessitate a postponement.

Breaking Ground Is Easy.

It is improbable that the Garden firm will be able to build this plant and sweep up by June if, indeed, it is the serious intention of the Garden firm to build this plant at all. I realize, of course, that ground has been broken with formal political rites for the construction of the place, but I also bear in mind that the Garden corporation has been engaged in a tenant-and-landlord squabble with the owners of the New York baseball parks, with much money at stake.

It costs only $50 a day to hire a steam shovel to scoop up a few hods of top soil at a ceremonial ground breaking, and it does not cost anything at all to produce the mayor of the place at such a party if it can be shown to the mayor of the place that some deserving Democrat would be materially favored by his coöperation.

Enter Mr. Jimmy Johnston.

It happens—and maybe it does not just happen but was brought about—that a little preliminary prize fighter of the Terry McGovern era, a social friend of the mayor of the town, is now the matchmaker of the Garden firm and, so, is interested in the success of its undertakings. This little friend of the mayor is named Jimmy Johnston. He is an Englishman from Liverpool, where the liver bird, an extinct if not entirely imaginary fowl larger than the Andean condor, still extends its wings in bronze from the great tenth story tower of the Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance company's mammoth skyscraper.

Mr. Johnston is the mayor's confidante and friend, and whatever any one may think of the mayor's having no more urgent public business in these times than to turn out and take part in anything so frivolous as the breaking of ground for a new and unconfirmed prize fight arena, nevertheless that is what happened.

And, even if the Garden firm is serious about all this and is not merely exploiting a socio-political or politico-social asset of its employé, Mr. Johnston, to intimidate its landlords, the baseball firms, there is another reason why the prize fight is likely to be postponed. The idea of that is this: One form of insanity usually dominates all other forms in a given victim and national conventions in this

WHY PITCHERS GIVE UP

The pitcher's always wrong when Lu Blue, White Sox first baseman, is at bat. Against right handers, Lu bats left handed, but against southpaws he shifts to the other side of the plate. He got three hits, including two doubles, in the opener and yesterday further aggravated the Browns by smacking a double, walking twice, and scoring two runs.

AMATEURS' ALBUM By Charles Bartlett

JACK WESTLAND.

This slim young man from Sunset Ridge has been no stranger to big time competition for some years but it was in the national amateur tournament at Beverly last year that he really made himself known. He made his entrance by leading the field at the end of the first day of the qualifying trials, but on the second day fell behind and barely squeezed into the match play bracket.

Experts from other parts decided that the slender blond with his inevitable gray felt hat and blue and gray ensemble was another one of those one day flashes who pop up on the national amateur horizon every year, but folks who have watched him play in the Chicago district thought otherwise. He began to vindicate their confidence by winning both battles on the first day of the match play tournament, and then continued his machine like game to the final match, where Francis Ouimet proved too much for him.

Jack heads the Chicago District Golf association's handicap honor roll for 1932. He is one of the two scratch men on the list [Johnny Lehman is the other], and is also chairman of the association's handicap committee.

Prior to the national amateur of last year, his best performance was in the French amateur tournament of 1929, which he entered unannounced and then went on to win the championship. He won the Washington state amateur crown eight years ago, and was runner up to Fred Lamprecht of Tulane in the national intercollegiate tournament of 1926. He is considered one of the steadiest players in the central states, and has held the C. D. G. A. championship three years in succession, no small achievement when the well balanced nature of his competition is considered.

DEPRESSION? NO, IT'S IMPRESSION AMONG BOXERS

Boys Get the Idea; Now They All Want to Fight.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The depression, in some ways, has been a spur to the boxing business. There may not be as much money coming through the gates, but the boxers themselves, many of whom have seriously strained their credit here and there, are more docile when work is offered.

Chicago's next two professional shows—the Kilbourne-Shade fight at White City a week from tonight and the Levinsky-Walker fight at the Stadium April 29—are proof. Dave Shade probably couldn't have been lured into the ring with the straight-punching, hard-hitting Jack Kilbourne a couple of seasons ago. But right now when scratch is scarce, Mique Malloy's offer of $1,000 was enough to bring Dapper Dave to terms.

Both Are Spenders.

Then there's Walker's case. Or perhaps Jack Kearns should be included. Together they form the ring's greatest pair of spenders. Kearns has made and spent several fortunes, the first of which dates back to his association with Jack Dempsey. Walker also has been in the important money.

More recently, probably because of embarrassment caused by matrimonial settlements, so it's said, Kearns has had Walker on the money trail regardless of opponents. The report is that Walker, originally, was to receive 35 per cent of the net receipts at the Stadium on the 29th. Mrs. Lena Levy, who handles the king's finances, was offered 25 per cent, which brought a frightful yell from Maxwell street. The compromise reported to have been effected gives each of the principals 30 per cent.

Walker [and Kearns] are one up, however. They are said to have drawn $10,000 in advance from the Stadium.

Those who know Levinsky only as a colorful character, who has developed a homer while you might not go out to see Woody English make a miraculous stop and throw to first base.

In one instance, you know there will be four or five such opportunities—everytime Babe comes to bat. In the other, it may or may not occur according to whether or not the player receives such opportunities. The positive sense of anticipation is more alluring than the negative.

JUST BASEBALL.

BABE RUTH started right out to earn that $75,000 salary which Col. Ruppert of the New York Yankees pays him as a compromise between the $80,000 which the Bambino thought he was worth and the $70,000 from which the colonel originally was willing to part. Babe, whose mission in life is to hit home runs rather than to exhibit flashy fielding, was in the mood for two on opening day. Apparently he still will be the turnstile magnet for the Yankees.

BABE RUTH.

Our former Cub hero, Hack Wilson, did not fare so well in his new Brooklyn uniform. His batting percentage was nil but his fielding exploits furnished material for the versatile Mr. Pegler in his sophisticated and inimitable presentation of Hack's lack of aquatic finesse.

These two players bring out a previous Wake contention that colorful players add to a team's drawing power. When it's a story either if a player does or does not accomplish that generally expected of him, it's something welcome to baseball scribes looking for features.

So, as we gazed at the White Sox in their opening performance, we wondered whether any such human interest material was there. Him Selph came along in a hero rôle with his timely hitting, but one game is too soon to form a definite conclusion on that point.

It is necessary, of course, from the spectators' viewpoint, that colorful players be batsmen. No matter how necessary fielding defense be to team success or for the player to stay on the payroll, it is passive rather than active. By that we mean, you may go to a game hoping to see Babe Ruth

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., April 13.—Old fashioned baseball in which speed was a dominant factor served the Cubs to advantage this afternoon before 3,000 Rhineland home brewers who couldn't obtain tickets for opening day. Two of the Cubs' runs were the direct outcome of efforts by men who can leg it in a hurry and these two tallies were invaluable in a 3 to 2 whipping administered to Dan Howley's Reds.

The one thing needed besides speed was furnished by Pat Malone's arm. His takeoff was so unimpressive that the shock troops in the bull pen had to get busy. But he suddenly righted himself and breezed through safely in a battle which, among other things, had the Cubs staging some refreshing protests against the verdicts of the too complacent umpires. All of Malone's real troubles were concentrated in one inning, when the Reds scored their two runs and took a temporary lead.

Mr. Gudat Makes Debut.

It is advisable to mention that some of the speed which made the afternoon a success came from Marvin Gudat, the draftee from Columbus, O. The opening day ceremonies convinced Manager Hornsby that Riggs Stephenson needed relief in left field. Gudat was asked to give it, and he did. For one thing, he raced from first to third on a hit, and this incident provided the winning run in the eighth inning. He also delivered two singles. And he was of further importance when he got his hands on a treacherous fly which prevented the Reds from scoring three runs instead of two during Malone's fourth inning flurry.

Malone started his day's work much after the fashion of a fellow who was in a hurry to eat. He retired the first two Reds to face him in the opening inning and then proceeded to get himself into trouble. Babe Herman spanked a double down the right field line, went to third on a wild pitch, and stood there while Malone walked Grantham and Heath. Hack relieved this situation by charging in for a slow roller on which he threw out Lombardi at first base. Malone followed this wabbly start with two perfectly pitched innings.

The Start Was Trying.

You can easily imagine the Cubs' embarrassment during the first three innings. They didn't put one man on base and only one ball was driven as far as the outfield. This continuity of outs wasn't broken until two were deposed in the fourth inning. Cuyler then coaxed a walk from Owen Carroll, the ex-Tiger, who went the route. Kiki immediately stole second and the theft proved invaluable. It put him in a position to score on Barton's line

INDIANS BEAT TIGERS, 6-5, IN 11 INNING GAME

Cold Weather Cuts Crowd at Detroit to 12,000.

Detroit, April 13.—(AP)—Cleveland and Detroit played an 11 inning baseball game in frigid weather here today. Cleveland winning 6 to 5 before 12,000 spectators, the smallest American league opening day crowd here in 15 years.

Wesley Ferrell went the route for the Indians, being touched for 14 hits, but tightening in the pinches. One of the Tiger hits was a home run by Roy Johnson to start the first inning.

Vic Sorrell started for Detroit and was reached for eight hits in as many innings before he was removed for a pinch batsman, who was none other than Dale Alexander, supplanted first baseman. He filed out. Hogsett finished for the Tigers, yielding three hits, two of them singles by Porter and Averill, in the 11th, which, coupled with a sacrifice by Hodapp, produced the winning run. Chilled fingers resulted in six errors, five of them on the Tigers.

SENATORS WIN, 7 TO 6.

Boston, Mass., April 13.—[Special.]—The Washington Senators won their second straight game from the Boston Red Sox today, 7 to 6, when Heinie Manush smashed a home run in the ninth inning with two men on bases. It was Boston's American league opening and a crowd of 5,000 saw Manush hit Jack Russell's offering for the homer.

Riflemen Test Skill Sunday in 3 Matches

BY BOB BECKER.

Expert riflemen of Chicago will unlimber their guns Sunday afternoon at Fort Sheridan in a preliminary to the tenth annual Sportsmen's show which opens next Tuesday in the Sherman hotel.

Dozens of sharpshooters have entered both the rifle and pistol matches which will be shot off under the auspices of the Illinois State Rifle association, which is coöperating with the National Rifle association and the Izaak Walton league.

Three matches are on the program for Sunday. Match No. 1 will be the Walton league sporting rifle match—two sighters and 20 shots at 200 yards. Match No. 2 is listed as the league's small bore rifle event calling for 10 shots each at 50 and 100 yards.

Match No. 3 will be for expert pistol shots each contestant getting 20 shots at 25 yards. All of these matches are open to the public.

Lasts Until Saturday.

On Tuesday, the opening day of the annual Sportsman's show, the rifle range in the Sherman hotel will be in operation and open to the public. Individual and team matches will be shot off from Wednesday until Saturday, the last day of the Sportsman's show.

Daniel Moore, president of the Illinois State Rifle association, announced yesterday that the majority of Chicagoland's outstanding rifle and pistol shots will compete for the gold, silver and bronze medals which will go to place winners.

Movies on Program.

Rifle and pistol shooting will be just one of many features for the outdoor fans who attend the Sportsman's show. One attraction is an indoor pool where fly and bait casters will compete in distance and accuracy events with both fly and bait casting rods.

There will be Sioux Indians from South Dakota, displays of live fish, motion pictures on the outdoors, and scores of displays of fishing tackle, tents, guns and similar equipment.

Loyola Academy Swim Team Beats Whiting, 45-21

Loyola academy's swimming team defeated Whiting High school of Whiting, Ind., 45 to 21, in a dual meet in the Loyola pool yesterday. Capt. Larry Corrigan led the victors, winning the 50 yard free style event and leading the relay squad to victory in two events.

Harrison Wins Opener from Marshall, 16-3

Harrison Tech, defending west section champion, served notice on its rival members in the Chicago Public High School league that it is going to make another appearance in the semi-finals this year. With Steve Remias and Ray Kucera leading the attack, Harrison scored a 16 to 3 victory over Marshall in the league opener at Mills stadium yesterday.

The sectional titleholders pounded Art Settle, veteran Marshall hurler, to score nine runs in the third inning. In the fourth, Remias, with the bases filled, doubled and later came home to give Harrison a 3 to 2 lead. Lesniak hurled for Harrison and allowed only five hits.

Crane Wins, 3-1.

Crane, considered as one of the strong contenders for the west division championship, also triumphed, a rally in the sixth inning producing a 3 to 1 victory over McKinley at McKinley park. McKinley led, 1 to 0, until the sixth when Crane scored three runs. Nemecek pitched for Crane, while Dalberti hurled for McKinley and each allowed only four hits.

Englewood and Tilden were the victors in the central section opening contests, the former overwhelming Phillips, 25 to 7, while Tilden, which won the title last year, defeated Hyde Park, 15 to 3. Tilden took an early lead, scoring eight runs in the second and three more in the third.

Schurz Beats Senn, 5 to 3.

In the north section, Schurz triumphed over Senn, 5 to 3, at Winnemac park, while a two run rally in the last inning gave Lake View a 6 to 5 victory over Roosevelt at Welles park. Senn collected only three hits off Berg, star Schurz pitcher.

The hitting of Earl Keth and Bob Payne gave Calumet its first victory in the south division. Keth and Payne each got three hits as Calumet defeated Parker, 11 to 5, at Hamilton park. Parker used two pitchers, Ayres and Wenneberg, and they yielded 12 hits.

Lane Tech scored another practice victory, defeating Evanston, 7 to 2, on the latter's field. The Chicago Public High School league champions, who drew a bye in yesterday's opening schedule, will start their league season against Senn tomorrow afternoon.

Good News 'n' Bad: Root's Hand O. K., but Grimes Is Sick

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., April 13.—Charley Root felt no ill effects today from the blow received on his bare hand when he tried to stab a liner off Lombardi's bat in the ninth inning yesterday. There was no pain or swelling in the fingers this morning; so plans to have them X-rayed were abandoned.

Hornsby had planned to let Burleigh Grimes make his debut as a Cub in today's game, but the big fellow turned up this morning with aches and pains, indicating a possible attack of flu. Hornsby ordered him to remain indoors for a day or two.

Although handicapped by a chipped bone in the first finger of his throwing hand, Woody English takes his daily workout. Thus he'll be in condition to resume shortstopping as soon as the fracture mends. It will be at least three weeks before he returns and the Cubs can ill afford to be without the help of so valuable a member.

President William Veeck returned to Chicago tonight after a talk with Sidney Weil, the Reds' executive. It is presumed that the possibilities of getting an outfielder from the Rhineland corps was discussed. Information is that if the Cubs get anybody it will be Crabtree, Douthit, or Roettger, and neither Babe Herman nor Chick Hafey. Hornsby says he wants a star or nobody. He already has enough of the other kind.

Among the few present today was John Heydler, National league president. The slim attendance at some of the openers yesterday convinced him that the majors will have to consider starting the flag campaign about two weeks later than now customary.

Hack almost engineered a run for the Cubs in the fifth. Grimm led off with a single and the next two fellows were retired. Hack slammed a single to right on a hit and run play, Grimm taking third. Nothing happened because Billy Herman rolled to Gilbert.

The Reds didn't give the Cubs a chance to enjoy their lead. As soon as Malone resumed work in the home fourth, he was shocked by Grantham's double into the right center. Three strikes put an end to Heath, but Lombardi's bat proved a bit more potent. He clubbed a single over third and Grantham scored easily. A wild pitch put Lombardi on second and he scored on Crabtree's three base drive over Cuyler's head. Hemsley tossed out Morrissey on a tap in front of the plate and Gudat avoided further distress by staging a circus catch of Carroll's fly close to the left field line.

Grantham Carried Out.

It required a mishap to Grantham to show the Cubs the way to a tying run in the sixth inning. Cuyler opened with a single to right and was forced on Barton's roller to Gilbert. Gudat aimed a grounder toward right and Grantham made a beautiful stop back on the grass, but in trying to turn to make a throw, his left ankle was sprained and it was necessary to carry him off the field. Gudat profited to the extent of a hit. Hemsley forced Gudat at second and High, who succeeded Grantham, pegged wild in attempting a double play. The error gave Barton time to score.

The eighth inning didn't start as if it would produce the winning run. Barton led off with three strikes. Gudat singled to left. Hemsley pushed a hump backed single into short right center and Gudat raced to third. High made a glove handed pickup of a steam heated grounder by Grimm, who broke one of Ump Donnelly's ear drums with certain language when called out. The decision at least enabled Gudat to slip in from third. A moment later the inning ended on Donnelly's judgment that Morrissey had thrown out Jurges from deep center.

Malone Halts Rally.

The only two hits off Malone after the fourth inning came together in the eighth. Gilbert singled to left with one out. The mighty Babe Herman fanned on a curve ball. High shot a hit into right. Malone completed this uprising by serving a third strike to Heath. Pat also had the satisfaction of doing the same to Red Lucas, who was summoned to bat for Morrissey after two were out in the ninth. It was Red's pinch double which helped to nose out the Cubs yesterday.

Peel Soccer Officials to Meet Tonight

BY OFFSIDE.

The Peel cup commission will hold a special meeting tonight to discuss the replaying of the Linnea and Buda game which was held last Sunday. The officials also will consider a protest filed by the Bricklayers, who were defeated by the Spartas after the referee had ruled three players off the field.

The Spartas are now in first place in the National Professional Soccer league, having won six games. The Maccabee-All Stars, by scoring a victory last week, are tied with the Bricklayers for second place with three victories and two defeats.

Soccer fans in Chicago and other American cities for the next two weeks will turn their eyes toward Scotland and England, where the final games will be played. Scotland was defeated at Wembley last week. It was the first time since 1895 that a Scotland team lost away from home.

The Chicago Swedes, winners of the first division championship in the International league for two consecutive years, now appear headed for a third title. In the second division, the Chicago Wanderers and the Germans are in a battle for the championship.

There will be a full schedule of games in the International league and National Professional league this Sunday.

BROWNS THROW 'EM, JOLLEY HITS 'EM; SOX WIN, 7-3

Smead's Two Singles and Double Aid Thomas.

in the first three innings, in so far as offensive didos were concerned. In the first two innings the Sox were out in order and in the third, the cheer of Cissell's leadoff single was nullified by two strikeouts and a forceout.

After Schulte fanned to start the game Burns singled and Goslin got his first walk. The runners moved up while Selph was throwing out Kress and died when Thomas threw out Ferrell. In the second inning Levey doubled with two down and died when Coffman fanned.

The third saw a rout averted by Selph's brilliant defensive work. As it was the Brownies got two runs. Schulte opened with a single to right and went to second on a passed ball. Burns filed to Anderson, putting F. Schulte on third, and then Goslin walked again. Kress tripled to the left field corner, F. Schulte and Goslin scoring. Ferrell smashed a red hot grounder toward third. Selph came up with it, dived to tag Kress, then righted himself and made the throw to Blue in time to double Ferrell and retire the side.

What a Defense, Folks!

Another double play again halted things for the Brownies in the fourth. Melillo singled to center and reached second while Selph was throwing out Jenkins. Anderson came in fast on Levey's single and held Melillo away from the home plate. Coffman then hit into a double play, Selph to Hayes to Blue.

The Sox took a 3 to 2 lead in their end of th fourth. Hayes opened with a single, the second hit off Coffman, but was forced by Watwood. Jolley singled to right, putting Watwood on third and then Blue crashed a double to right, Watwood scoring and Jolley stopping at third. Selph fanned, but Cissell's grounder got past Kress. Jolley and Blue scored on the error and Cissell reached second.

Jolley Smacks a Double.

The Sox again took the lead in their end of the sixth and for a time seemed in a fair way to score a million. Watwood led off with a single and scored on Jolley's double to left. Blue walked, but Selph forced Jolley, Kress unassisted. Cissell then hit into a double play, Kress to Melillo to Burns.

In the seventh the Brownies were most menacing at the outset. F. Schulte tried to get out of the way of one of Thomas' pitches and the ball hit his bat, popping into short left for a single. Burns beat out a bunt and Schulte stopped at second. Goslin sacrificed, Selph to Blue. Then Kress was called out on strikes and Cissell threw out Ferrell.

B-r-r! Only 5,000 Turn Out to See Sox in 2d Game

The crowd at the White Sox-St. Louis game yesterday was estimated at 5,000. It was considerably warmer than at the opener, but still too chilly for baseball purposes.

Bump Hadley or Vic Frasier today against Sam Gray.

Goose Goslin also is a troublesome gent at bat, even when he isn't stroking the ball. He popped to Grube the first time up in the opener and his next five trips to the plate the Sox were unable to get him out. This string included passes his first two times up yesterday.

J. Smead Jolley caught a fly in left and did it with much greater ease than he captured foul flies while seeking to learn the catching profession. Kress' triple in the third hit him on one of his corns, however.

The Brownies will be here again tomorrow. Then the unfriendly Cleveland Indians come Saturday to open a four day series. The Sox take to the road next Tuesday night.

Tommy Thomas batted .471 in the exhibition season and taunted the distressed sluggers with the statement that "anybody ought to be able to hit." Yesterday he fanned three times and popped a foul to the catcher.

CARDS GET 5 IN NINTH TO WHIP PIRATES, 9 TO 8

Frisch's Double Drives In Winning Runs.

St. Louis, Mo., April 13.—[Special.]—The champion St. Louis Cardinals made it two straight over the Pittsburgh Pirates today when Frankie Frisch doubled in the ninth inning to score Adams and Watkins with the tying and winning runs. The score was 9 to 8.

Pittsburgh took an 8 to 4 lead by pounding in three runs in the first half of the ninth but the Cards came right back with five. Doubles also featured the attack of the losers, Lloyd Waner contributing three and Piet two.

St. Louis called in two pinch hitters to turn the tide. Both clubs were unsteady in the field and kept the pitchers in trouble. Score:

BUT, MR. YOST, YOU FORGOT TO TELL THEM ABOUT "83"

And Senators Know All About Taxes (?)

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 13.—Fielding H. Yost of football fame walked into the senate finance committee hearing on the new tax bill this afternoon and all the senators sat up and took notice.

FIELDING YOST.

"That's Hurry Up Yost," the committee stenographer whispered excitedly to Senator Keyes [Rep. N. H.]. Senator Hawes turned to Senator Metcalf [Rep., R. I.] and told him the news. The millionaire senator Metcalf straightened up to the full height of his 5 feet 5 inches and gazed across the table at the large man in the brown suit.

Senator Connally, the Texas Democrat, who is over 6 feet and wears a sombrero, hunched up his chair so he'd be nearer the former football star. Jovial Jim Watson, a large man from basketball loving Indiana, smiled lovingly on Hurry Up. Dave Reed, a Princeton man, was instantly all interest.

He Didn't Mention Old "'83."

Yost, who is now an athletic director at the University of Michigan, had come before the committee to protest against any tax on admission to school athletic events, especially football games.

"Now, you know," he drawled softly, "that's all a lot of poppycock about the big gates at games. Why, they're only about 8 or 10 really big gates in an entire season. Out at Michigan and we have a big stadium and one of the best gates in the country, our attendance fell off last year about 40 per cent."

Across the face of each of the senators came a mellow, sentimental expression as he seemed to be recalling his own college football days.

"And another thing," the witness went on, "there's a lot of talk about the big salaries the coaches get. I don't believe there's more than five in this country today receiving $10,000 a year or more. Do you gentlemen realize that the average salary for a coach is less than $3,000 a year? And usually he does a lot of teaching as well as coaching."

Forgot Their Autograph Albums.

Yost paused a moment, then he added with considerable feeling:

"And it's a mighty uncertain job, too. A coach has got to deliver. And you know, gentlemen, there can be only one winner in a game."

The senators had a good time. And when Mr. Yost had finished his talk—it wasn't a formal speech—several members of the committee made spontaneous moves to get up and go over and talk to the football man, but Acting Chairman Watson leaned forward as if to get up, then sat back and said solemnly, "Call the next witness."

WABASH PITCHER FANS 13 TO BEAT PURDUE, 4 TO 3

Crawfordsville, Ind., April 13.—[Special.]—Wabash beat Purdue this afternoon, 4 to 3, after losing three straight early season games to the Boilermakers.

Levinsky jumped from a $100 fighter in Chicago's outlying clubs into a $11,000 purse when he stopped Leo Lomski more than two years ago. That bout and subsequent battles were under the management of Al Miller.

Since the volatile Mrs. Levy has cashed the King's checks he is said to have grossed $100,000. His fifty per cent has been all profit, and according to Mrs. Levy, most of it has gone into a trust fund. There should be another $20,000 for the brother-sister combination after April 29.

Jack Kilbourne, who has brought the smile back to Mique Malloy's face, hasn't always been a Kilbourne. Jimmy Carres of South Chicago, who handles the middleweight, christened him Kilbourne. Kilbourne was born Herman Bundren back in Northwood, Ia., 24 years ago. As Bundren, he migrated to Enid, Okla., spent several years on the Pacific coast before visiting Australia. Down under, he whipped not only the Australian middleweight champion, but the light-heavyweight and heavyweight.

Has Won Four Here.

Kilbourne has fought four times in Chicago. He defeated Roy Williams and Harry Fuller and then stopped Ray Trambile and Haakon Hansen. So far Chicago doesn't know whether the lanky six footer can take it or not. He can punch, there's no doubt about that. And his defense, so far, has been excellent.

George Blake, who manages Fidel LaBarba and also is one of the first line referees [he officiated the Schmeling-Stribling world championship fight at Cleveland last July] is authority that Kilbourne can stand up to a two fisted attack.

Wheaton Tennis Team Defeats Center, 6 to 1

Danville, Ky., April 13.—The Wheaton college tennis team today defeated Centre college of Danville, Ky., six matches to one. This was the second match on Wheaton's southern tour.

BIRDIES? YES! BONUS? NO!

Walter Hagen, who has won every major open tournament of importance at least once, is still among the rear guard when it comes to cashing in at the money tournaments. Harry Cooper of Glen Oak revealed this recently in telling the story of how Hagen tied for second at the Biltmore meet at Coral Gables, Fla., this winter and thereby earned himself $1,125. Hagen told Cooper that it was the largest check he from playing in a money meet. In contrast to this, Cooper adds that he himself numbers a check for $3,500, a couple for $2,000, and several for $1,000 among his own souvenirs.

WALTER HAGEN.

Pay Tribute to Weber.

A number of Chicago golfers, led by Harry E. Radix, vice president of the Chicago District Golf association, yesterday attended funeral services in La Grange for Dewey Weber, a leading player in the district for more than a decade, who died as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident. He won the C. D. G. A. championship in 1920, when it was still decided on a medal play basis. He was manager at the old Edgewood club, and for seven years professional at Acacia.

Changes at Olympia Fields.

Fred Kruger, course superintendent at Olympia Fields, who is annually confronted with one of the biggest maintenance problems in the golf world, reports that all of the south side club's four courses are in excellent condition. The only changes made are to be found on No. 1, where new greens have been set on the second, 10th and 15th holes.

Mills to Open Sunday Against Chicago Giants

Opening day will be celebrated Sunday at Mills' stadium when the Mills meet the Chicago Giants. Among new faces in the Mills lineup will be Gordon O'Shaughnessy and Jack Conklin, young pitchers, who have earned berths on the staff with the veterans Doug McWeeney and Forrest Paddock.

BLANKENSHIP WITH FLORALS.

Ted Blankenship, former White Sox pitcher, will make his debut as a semi-pro next Sunday when he pitches for the Duffy Florals against the Colored All Stars at Shewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets.

Howdy, Say 80 Badger Grid Men to Spears

Madison, Wis., April 13.—[Special.]—A group of eighty men, out of which the University of Wisconsin's 1932 football squad will be picked next fall, reported to Dr. Clarence J. Spears, new Wisconsin coach, on Camp Randall practice field this afternoon in the first of their spring training drills.

Facing a hard schedule, with Marquette university's veteran team invading Camp Randall stadium for the opener, Oct. 1, the squad—one of the largest ever to report for spring practice at Wisconsin—lost no time in going through the setting-up exercises of which the first workout consisted.

Among the 80 men were 17 holdovers from last fall's squad. In addition were two letter men from previous squads. The remainder of the group was made up of varsity reserves and members of last fall's freshman and "B" teams.

Confronted with the biggest losses in the line, but with practically all of last year's regular back field men returning, Coach Spears will have average Wisconsin material from which to build his first team.

JANE FRYE WINS CENTRAL A. A. U. DIVING CROWN

BY BETTY ECKERSALL.

Jane Frye, 16 year old swimmer of the Illinois Women's Athletic club, won the low board diving for junior women, in the Central A. A. U. men's and women's swimming and diving championship meet last night at the Medinah Athletic club. This is Miss Frye's first year in competition. She outpointed her teammate, Evelyn Bracken, who took second place, 103.8 to 79.6. Margie Kanter of the Jewish People's institute was third with 77.05 points.

Don Horn, unattached, was the winner in the 220 yard breast stroke for senior men. He was pressed by Don Glonset of the University of Chicago until the last two laps when, picking up speed and yardage on the turns, he touched in a five yard winner. A Northwestern university representative, F. Lennox, was third.

Elizabeth Henry of the Illinois Women's Athletic club won the 100 yard swim for junior women by ten yards. Loraine Sisk of Blackhawk park furnished contention for the first 50 yards but wilted under the pace. Marian Stanton, a teammate of Miss Henry, finished third.

100 YARD SWIM FOR JUNIOR WOMEN—Won by Elizabeth Henry, I. W. A. C.; Loraine Sisk, Blackhawk Park, second; Marian Stanton, I. W. A. C., third. Time, 1:09.5.

LOW BOARD DIVING FOR JUNIOR WOMEN—Won by Jane Frye, I. W. A. C.; Evelyn Bracken, I. W. A. C., second; Margie Kanter, Jewish People's institute, third.

220 YARD BREAST STROKE FOR SENIOR MEN—Won by Don Horn, unattached; Don Glonset, Chicago university, second; F. Lennox, Northwestern university, third. Time, 2:54.7.

500 YARD SWIM FOR JUNIOR MEN—Won by R. Debenham, unattached; H. C. Kamienski, unattached, second; J. Miller, unattached, third. Time, 6:29.8.

LOW BOARD DIVING FOR SENIOR MEN—Won by Al Green, Lake Shore Athletic club, 130.5 points; Ken Willard, Northwestern university, second; Bud Marron, Chicago university, third.

Now Buys a NASH

Talk about VALUE—here's the BIGGEST car on the market for the money.

Its wheelbase is a full 116 inches. Seats are wider, doors wider, seat backs higher. More room. More comfort. More car.

It has more power. And more speed. It has the new X-Dual frame—the first advancement beyond the X-frame. It is the strongest type of frame ever engineered. Super-rigid and super-rugged.

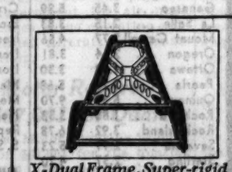

It has Bohnalite aluminum alloy pistons and connecting rods. ONLY Nash has them both. Bohnalite is 62% lighter than cast iron. This lightness reduces the weight of reciprocating parts—gives the motor faster pick-up and adds greatly to motor life.

It has the new Slip-Stream body design.

Everything you want in a motor car this new Nash has.

X-Dual Frame, Super-rigid

Full-Range Ride Control

Slip-Stream Body
A new body of unusual beauty. V-radiator and Beavertail back reduce air resistance, thus adding miles to top speed.

Driving Seat Adjustment

JOCKEY JONES TO BID FOR NEW CHICAGO HONORS

Denemark Signs Star of 1931 Season.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Remember Bobby Jones, the bronze complexioned kid from way down in the Indian country of lower California, who rode more winners than any other jockey on Chicago tracks last year?

Of course all you regular racegoers do, for it became sort of a custom last year to play "Jones's mount" when in doubt as to which horse might win a race.

Jones is coming back to Chicago to try for another jockey championship. He will be here shortly and first call on his services has been taken by Emil Denemark.

He'll Be Kept Busy.

He will be pretty busy on the Denemark thoroughbreds, for 24 of them are in training at the Denemark farm west of Chicago. A few will race at Aurora. Every horse in the establishment will go into action at Washington Park and will carry on throughout the Chicago campaign.

Jones has been riding at Agua Caliente and Tanforan during the winter. He didn't score nearly so many victories as he did in Chicago last summer.

Jones Knows His Colts.

But he was most successful in guiding 2 year olds home in front. Any time a jockey can win on a 2 year old he is a pretty good saddle artist. For it is more difficult to make the youngsters run straight and true than any other sort of horse.

A late bulletin from Paris indicates that our Mr. William [Palmer House] Ryan is very much in earnest about winning the Grand Prix with his colt Amas d'Or.

And he wants to turn the Grand Prix into a regular American picnic. For if Earl Sande, our most idolized American jockey, demonstrates at Jamaica at the meeting opening on Saturday that he is back in form, Ryan will seek to employ him to ride Amas d'Or in the Grand Prix. Amas d'Or is trained by Jimmy Winkfield of Lexington, Ky.

There seems to be plenty of thrills left in horse racing. There must be or a fellow who has been around the tracks as long as Ryan would not attempt to put over such an American coup in Paris.

The Jockey club of New York has made a drastic move toward stamping out the running of "ringers."

A photograph with full description of every man employed in a racing stable will be demanded. Then an identification card will be issued instead of the usual stable badge.

In Chicago the rules will be just as strict, it was hinted yesterday by officials of the various racing associations. At some tracks here, according to reports, a complete life history of everybody connected with a stable will be demanded before the horses are permitted to be led into their stalls.

Burgoo, late of the Col. E. R. Bradley stable, has joined the horse colony at Exposition park, Aurora. The 4 year old chestnut, a North Star III. colt, was sold by Col. Bradley last year and is now owned by Johnny Manale. Instead of following the route of other Bradley castoffs, Burgoo proved one of the few exceptions and turned in a number of winning efforts. He is a distant relative of Burgoo King, one of Col. Bradley's Kentucky Derby hopes.

No More Piles

You Can End Your Awful Misery Quick Without Cutting or Salves

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give permanent relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause—and not one minute before. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts.

Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Walgreen's invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?

Equipoise Is Back; Breaks Bowie Record

Bowie, Md., April 13.—[Special.]—Showing his old time courage, and flashing high speed in his first race since the Preakness of 1931, C. V. Whitney's Equipoise, juvenile champion of 1930, preparing to measure strides with Twenty Grand and Mate for the handicap crown of 1932, electrified a throng of 12,000 here today in the Au Revoir handicap at five furlongs, winning by a half length, coming from behind and hanging up a new track record of :59 2-5 on a not too fast strip.

Nevada Stock farm's Hygro, leader to the eighth pole, was second, and the Brandon stable's Derby candidate, Brandon Mint, finished third, another half length back, beating Al Jolson's fast filly, On Tap.

Equipoise is to make his second start in the Hartford handicap, $10,000 added, at Havre de Grace, Saturday.

Looking better than ever before in his life and with Sonny Workman up—the horse and rider were always pals—Equipoise broke fifth and moved to the front with his old burst of speed. He paid $4.80. He broke the track record by 1 3-5 seconds.

E. R. Bradley, here from Florida on his way to the eastern tracks, witnessed the triumph of his sturdy B'ar Hunter, son of Black Servant, as the gelding trimmed Jouett Shouse's Royal Ruffin and Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Lightning Bolt in the Baltimore handicap, $5,000 added, and earned the winner's share of $3,350.,

Two and a half lengths back, Royal Ruffin was second, and a length and a half further away, the favorite, Lightning Bolt, was third.

The winner paid $8. The Bradley jockey, Jimmy Smith, piloted B'ar Hunter, and moved up ahead of Mills and second to Robinson as the leading jockey, with ten victories, Robertson having eleven. The time was 1:48.

100 Drivers Invited to Race in Roby Opening May 8

B. Ward Beam, operator of the Roby speedway, announced yesterday that entry blanks for the first 1932 race on May 8 have been sent to more than 100 auto racing drivers. Several who are entered in the 500 mile race are expected to make formal entry this week.

Schmeling May Beat Sharkey, but Not Old Man Income Tax

country always supersede and cancel for the time being all other familiar types of national lunacy.

Who Would Write Fight?

Thus, it would be very bad business for the Garden firm and for Schmeling, the poor little rich boy, to run this heavyweight championship prize fight in June. All the trained seals of the newspapers and syndicates who usually lavish their not too perfectly priceless genius on the heavyweight championship fights will be in Chicago all June lavishing that genius on the two grand quadrennial hurlyburlies of the two great national parties preliminary to that which Woodrow Wilson flattered with the name of "our solemn referendum."

Well, I do seem to have strayed a bit, but I thought it would be just as well to set that part of it straight before proceeding to the subject of the new income taxes which will cut deep into the earnings of the official heavyweight champion, Max Schmeling, and everyone else in the sport business whose income goes into the big brackets.

It is my belief that the Schmeling-Sharkey prize fight will not command more than $300,000 gross receipts, plus tax, and that Schmeling, whatever his terms of hire may be, will not receive more than $150,000. Not only are the times unpropitious, but these two prizefighters in a previous engagement left their patrons with a sense of frustration and grouch.

Who'll Grab What?

But let us suppose that Schmeling's share of the proceeds comes to $150,000. He then will have to pay off his managers—the customary rate is 33 1-3 per cent— which will leave him only $100,000 and he will be subject to other expense, such as lawyers' fees, breakage of furniture and loving remembrances to momentary friends, to the extent of about $15,000. And furthermore, so I am advised by an authority on income taxes, he will have to pay the U. S. government at least $27,000 as income taxes at twice the rate which an American citizen would have to meet, and as much as possibly $35,000 under the new income tax schedules, yet to be promulgated. And still furthermore, when he gets home to Germany, he will have to pay his own government a tax on his income.

Thus, my authority suggests, for every tap on the chin which he takes for himself, Schmeling will have to take one or more for the governments of the U. S. and Germany, although neither of these governments stands committed to help him suffer if these taps on the chin should cause him pain.

Turfmen Not Hard Hit.

As to the owners of the racing stables there seems to be little demand on one's sympathy. It has already been decided in the case of Widener, appellant, versus the United States Department of Internal Revenue, that a man who owns a stable of racing horses, if he wins a $60,000 purse, may charge his winings not against the maintenance and preparation of the winning steed alone, but against the upkeep of his entire racing establishment. Inasmuch as most racing establishments return net losses to their owners, the government is not likely to receive any share of the large purses except they be won by one horse or two horse stables with small expense accounts and incompetent lawyers.

Jack Dempsey's manager, Leonard Sacks, has stated that Dempsey collected $800,000 net in his exhibition tour of 1931-'32. Dividing the receipts evenly between 1931-'32 and assessing half of the amount under the probable tax rate for 1932, and making a number of theoretical allowances, my expert still insists that on the whole $800,000, Dempsey will have to pay the federal government at least $250,000 and various state governments probably $50,000 more.

This is a terrible situation, to be sure, but while my heart aches for Dempsey it fair bleeds for the unfortunate Schmeling, who might be able to earn all of $20 a week at common toil in his own country if he could find any toil to perform over there.

Follow These Rules:

1. Each day for 48 consecutive days (except Sunday) the Chicago Daily Tribune will print a United States Crossword Puzzle. The name of one of the 48 States in the United States will be in each puzzle. You are invited to solve the puzzle and name the State.

2. The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in Cash Prizes to persons who send in the nearest correctly solved complete sets of puzzles in accordance with these rules. Note: This means that you do not necessarily have to solve each of the 48 puzzles correctly to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest.

3. This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

4. Puzzles are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do NOT send in each puzzle separately. Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set of 48. Then send them to "Crosswords," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Puzzle No. 48 has been printed.

5. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Post Office Department. Make your entry simple and neat. Neatness will count.

6. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the puzzles and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

7. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

STEEL REVIEW FORESEES GAIN IN LATE 1932

Looks for Orders at Better Prices.

BY O. A. MATHER.

These are days when any evidence of improvement in business and industry, no matter how slight, is relished. It is true in the steel industry, whose leaders still look forward to better times, despite the current negative developments. This attitude is epitomized in the midweek steel trade reviews appearing yesterday. There also was a ray of light in the weekly statistics on electric power consumption.

"A few bright spots are apparent in the steel trade," the Iron Age says, "notwithstanding a further decline in ingot production to 21 per cent from 23 per cent in the last two weeks. While still awaiting the release of important tonnage from automobile manufacturers, the steel industry is able to observe such scattered indications of improvement as slightly larger orders for rails and track supplies for spring maintenance work by railroads, a gain in inquiries for structural steel which are the heaviest for any week this year, a stepping up of automobile production schedules, and an inquiry for pipe for a foreign pipe line, the orders for which are fairly certain to come to American mills.

"These developments, together with the stability of the higher price level for most steel products that become effective at the beginning of the quarter, encourage the steel industry to believe that a belated seasonal rise in business of at least moderate proportions is reasonably certain.

Still Await Ford Orders.

"The Ford Motor company has inquiries for sheets, strip, bars and wire but has not yet placed the tonnage that will be necessary to produce 300,000 cars for which it has orders. The company and its partsmakers will need upward of 250,000 tons of steel to fill its present commitments. Other automobile manufacturers are increasing production. The Chevrolet company has ordered sufficient steel for 40,000 to 50,000 cars that are to be built at its Detroit and Flint plants. Plymouth output this month will be more than double that of March."

A less optimistic picture was painted by Tom M. Girdler, president of the Republic Steel corporation, at the annual stockholders' meeting. He said that the steel business now is the worst it has been in the thirty years he has been connected with the industry.

"Present operations of our company are around 25 per cent of capacity," he continued. "At 40 per cent of capacity, I believe we can make a profit with present price levels. We have made several cost records through economies even at levels below 30 per cent of operating capacity."

Power Production Better.

Power production figures of the country for last week were slightly more favorable than in the preceding week and all major geographical sections participated in the moderate improvement.

Total output for the country as a whole in the week ended April 9 showed a decrease of 11.1 per cent in comparison with production in the corresponding period of 1931. In the preceding week, output of 1,430,208,000 kilowatt hours was 11.9 per cent below that of a year ago, the largest decrease recorded to date.

Although the Atlantic seaboard as a whole reflected some comparative improvement last week, New England, taken alone, showed a larger drop, the decrease for that section amounting to 8.5 per cent, against a decline of 6.6 in the week of April 2.

Until recently the figures for the New England section have been more favorable than for any other part of the country.

The Chicago district, taken alone, reported a drop of 8.8 per cent last week against a decline of 12.6 per cent in the previous week.

May Cut Pay Again.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 13.—Another 10 per cent reduction in wages is being considered by the principal companies in the steel industry. It will be put into effect soon, unless there is a substantial improvement in business. Reduction of compensation of salaried employés, from the highest to the lowest, will accompany or precede the cut in the wages of labor. Indications are that an early announcement will be made by some of the larger companies. It was said, however, that the producers will defer action as long as possible.

Aylesworth Chosen Head of Radio-Keith-Orpheum

New York, April 13.—(AP)—Merlin H. Aylesworth was today elected president of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation at a meeting of the board of directors following the annual meeting of stockholders. He will continue as president of the National Broadcasting company.

Aylesworth's election followed upon the acceptance of the resignation of Hiram S. Brown, who will continue as a director and will act in an advisory capacity to Aylesworth. Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric company, and Andrew W. Robertson, chairman of the board of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, were elected members of the board and of the executive committee of R. K. O.

American Chicle Profits Hold Up in First Quarter

American Chicle company reports a net profit of $434,811 for the quarter ended March 31, equal to 89 cents a share on the capital stock outstanding. This compares with a profit of $485,268 in the first quarter of 1931, equal to 97 cents a share.

Reserve Bank Takes Steps to Aid Business

Washington, D. C., April 13.—(AP)—The federal reserve system has thrown its prestige and resources behind a new movement to restore business from the grip of economic adversity. It has instructed its member banks that they will be expected to increase their use of the broadened credit facilities provided by recent legislation. It has decided to stimulate its own purchase of government securities in point of both volume and rate.

GEO. L. HARRISON. [A.P. photo.]

George L. Harrison, governor of the New York Federal Reserve bank, testifying today before the house banking committee, said the decision on government security buying was reached at a meeting of the reserve board yesterday. His statement had a prompt reaction in the New York money market. Coincident with it came the unusually large reduction of ⅜ of 1 per cent in bankers' acceptance yield rates. This was viewed as an attempt to increase the market supply of such paper by attracting offers from bank portfolios. These acceptances are looked upon as a form of highly liquid commercial credit.

Resentment Aroused.

Resentment has been aroused in both congressional and administration circles by reports that strong banks throughout the country have refrained from rediscounting under the provisions of the Glass-Steagall bill, but instead have continued their policy of remaining as liquid as possible. The effort toward complete liquidity, it was said in a high official quarter, has caused banks to call well secured loans instead of extending them.

This course has been particularly irritating to federal banking authorities in view of the Reconstruction Finance corporation's policy of extending assistance to banks in difficulties because of depressed security prices. The view was expressed that with the corporation taking care of smaller banks, the large and strong banks should stop calling perfectly good loans and launch instead a wave of credit.

Harrison told the house committee that since the passage of the Glass-Steagall bill, the banks had bought $245,000,000 in government securities at the rate of about $25,000,000 a week. He then added:

"We have had a meeting and the program will be greatly stimulated both as to volume and as to rate."

Those most familiar with the reserve system viewed today's announcement as the beginning of a new effort to turn the tide of deflation. By a strong open market policy, it was said, the system could enable member banks to repay their borrowings from the federal banks, now amounting to about $635,000,000, at a more rapid rate, thus making funds now tied up in such borrowings available for investment or loans to customers.

SUBSCRIBES $150,000,000

The treasury today subscribed the remaining $150,000,000 of the $500,000,000 capital stock of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The corporation will now either have to provide money from repayments of loans already made or issue debentures. The law provides that the corporation can, if necessary, issue up to $1,500,000,000 of obligations which the treasury may buy or which may be sold directly to the public.

The board of directors of the corporation has not decided whether it will be necessary to issue debentures, but in all probability the repayments of loans will not take care of further loans to be made. On April 1 between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000 had been repaid on loans made since the establishment of the corporation in February.

BANK AID PROJECT

A legislative project of far-reaching possibilities in guarding banking stability by insuring deposits through a government-regulated billion dollar pool, today bore indorsement of the house banking committee. Not only federal reserve members would be included but such state banks as wished to participate. The fund would be collected and administered by a special government board, empowered to liquidate closed institutions.

Up to half a billion dollars would be drawn in loans from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the remainder would be obtained from the federal reserve banks' surplus, $150,000,000; the franchise tax paid into the treasury by reserve banks, $167,000,000; assessment on reserve members, $100,000,000; double assessments on state banks participating, $100,000,000. Authority for an annual assessment of $100,000,000 on participating institutions also would be given the board.

Under this legislation a minimum requirement would be established for obtaining national bank charters at $50,000 capital and a paid in surplus of ten per cent. At the same time stockholders of national banks created in future would be relieved of double liability.

BANKERS INTERESTED

New York, April 13.—(AP)—News that the federal reserve system was planning more active expansion of banking credit through larger purchases of United States government securities received close attention in Wall street today, particularly in circles which had been advocating such a policy as a means of stopping deflation.

How far the central banking system intends to go in this direction was not disclosed, but recent reports in the financial district have said that the authorities might decide to

MAY ASK COURT TO HELP REVAMP MIDDLE WEST

Bankers Consider 5 Year Receivership.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Receivership for the Middle West Utilities company, the two and one-half billion dollar holding company, seemed to be a strong probability last night following further conferences between the bankers and Samuel Insull, the builder of the vast utility enterprise.

Bankers said last night there was little likelihood that the company would be able to make arrangements for meeting its pressing financial problems, foremost of which is a $10,000,000 note maturity which falls due June 1. Neither does it appear that the company would be able to meet similar funded maturities in the next few years, it was stated. The probable outcome is said to be the appointment of a receiver for the company for a period of at least five years.

Funded Debt 40 Millions.

The company's funded debt consists of $40,000,000 of serial notes maturing annually in $10,000,000 installments from 1932 to 1935. In addition, there are bank loans totaling approximately $27,000,000. To add to the burden, there are the imperative financial problems of several of the Middle West's subsidiary holding companies. Many of them are in dire need of cash.

Receivership for a corporation the size of Middle West has never been known in industrial history. The far-flung operations of the concern extend into thirty states and range all the way from managing bus lines in Pennsylvania and pipe lines in Kansas to investments in the textile industry in New England and the generation and distribution of electrical power to a widely scattered population in nearly 5,000 separate communities.

99,000 Stockholders.

Involved are stockholders in the parent concern numbering nearly 99,000 persons who own 15,700,000 shares of common stock and 607,000 shares of preferred stock which are outstanding. Securities outstanding against the company and its subsidiaries at the end of 1931 were carried on the books of the company at $1,249,546,522. The total floating indebtedness of the system is in excess of $600,000,000.

It is to protect the interest of the stockholders as well as an attempt to prevent a complete disintegration of the company's properties that the receivership will be necessary, according to the opinion expressed by bankers last night.

That at the end of five years of operation under a receiver, the Middle West Utilities will be able to recapitalize on a sound basis was the hope expressed last night. The necessity for the present move, it was pointed out, are the abnormal conditions prevailing in the capital market, thus preventing the company from refinancing. It is assumed that the present money market situation will be corrected in the course of time.

Stock 12½c a Share.

La Salle street's appraisal of how the common stockholders will fare in the reorganization and probable receivership was clearly reflected yesterday when the stock broke to 12½ cents a share, the lowest price at which shares are quoted on the Chicago exchange. Transactions in the issue reached 51,500 shares. The closing price of 25 cents represented slight improvement from the day's low quotation.

Notes of the company maturing next June fell to $11.25 for each $100 par value in the trading on the New York curb. That compared with the previous day's price of $18.75 there. The 1933 series notes sold down to $5. The preferred stock was quoted at $2.50 a share.

The company's securities have been selling at receivership prices for several days, indicating that the financial community had become reconciled to such a development. Hope had persisted, however, that a thorough going reorganization involving radical revamping of the capital structure would save the company from receivership.

Others' Shares Affected.

Heavy selling also developed yesterday in the shares of the big Insull operating companies which are not involved in any way in Middle West's financial plight. La Salle street witnessed the spectacle of Peoples Gas and Commonwealth Edison selling in the low fifties. Until a few weeks ago the present dividend rate on these shares were considered assured. Yesterday, however, with Edison quoted as low as 53⅜ and Peoples Gas at 51¾, the $8 annual dividend rate on these shares were considered much less certain.

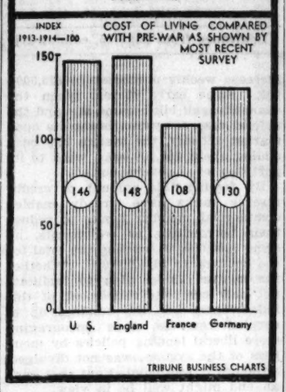

The selling in Edison was attributed to necessitious liquidation, the bulk of which came from an eastern source. Transactions in the stock reached 8,650 shares.

Rumors that the banks were liquidating the collateral held against loans to the two Insull investment trusts were considered unfounded. The leading New York and Chicago banks through this collateral hold virtual working control in the big Insull operating companies and the very size of the holdings prevent any liquidation in the present demoralized market.

Morgan, Turner & Co. Still Biggest Santa Fe Holders

New York, April 13.—(AP)—Morgan, Turner & Co., nominee for the Corporate Trust Shares and other interests, continues to hold the top place in the list of Santa Fé railroad stockholders, with 41,173 shares, compared with 28,552 shares at the end of 1930. The Rockefeller foundation held 21,944 shares and Barnes & Co. 17,942 shares, both holdings being substantially unchanged from 1930.

FRAUDULENT ITALIAN BONDS APPEAR IN IVAR KREUGER ASSETS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, April 13.—Sensational rumors circulated following Ivar Kreuger's suicide alleged that among the Kreuger and Toll assets there were found many forged foreign government bonds. The rumors were denied at the time but now there is no doubt that they were true.

Before his death the Swedish match king informed the board of the company that he had negotiated a loan to a foreign government in exchange for a match monopoly. The details, he declared, could not be divulged because of possible political complications.

Now it is stated that the amount involved was $125,000,000 and that Kreuger informed the board the loan was being made to the Italian government. Although no agreement actually was reached, Italian treasury bonds were printed in Stockholm to the order of Kreuger himself and were entered as assets on the books of Kreuger and Toll.

An official conference opened at Stockholm today of American, English, and Swedish interests. The conference is investigating the position of the L. M. Ericsson Telephone company and the Swedish Match company.

Swedish interests are trying to reach an agreement with the American and English interests, especially with the International Telephone company and the Morgan group, in regard to the Ericsson Telephone company.

The British Match and International Match companies are discussing with the committee their position with the Swedish Match company. Swedish interests are desirous that nothing shall be done on either side as regards the Swedish Match and Ericsson Telephone companies before the investigating committee has finished its work and the position is made clear.

At the completion of the present work a new conference will be called to decide whether the companies will remain in Sweden or be transferred either to America or England.

Carlton Talks Wire Merger in W.U. Report

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 13.—A merger of the Western Union Telegraph company and the Postal Telegraph and Cable corporation, under the control of the International Telephone and Telegraph corporation, became an imminent possibility today.

Newcomb Carlton, president of the Western Union, told stockholders at their annual meeting that they must be prepared for a change when business revived. Such a merger would give International corporation total assets of nearly $1,000,000,000.

"Whether Western Union is destined to stand alone as a corporation as it has for the last seventy-six years, I cannot tell, nor whether it will be part of a larger organization," he said, adding that the entire matter was still "in the mind."

In communication circles it was indicated that the telegraph companies were contemplating a union to combat the inroads made on the telegraph business by the air mail and the long distance telephone. Mr. Carlton referred to these means of communication as having reduced the telegraph business.

Work to Meet Competition.

On Nov. 21 last Postal Telegraph and Western Union entered into traffic exchange agreements for the formation of a nation-wide interconnected printer system to compete with the Bell system's telegypwriter exchange service. This was the first time in half a century of competition that any kind of coöperation between the two companies had existed.

While no actual negotiations for a merger of telegraph companies now exist, there has been discussion of the advisability of a unification of the telegraph business, and ways and means have also been considered.

A plan suggested in communications quarters provides for the delivery to Western Union Telegraph company of International Telephone and Telegraph's holdings in Postal Telegraph and Cable corporation in exchange for shares of Western Union. This transaction, it was explained, would give International a dominant interest in the combined telegraph properties.

Can't Forecast Recovery.

"We do not know what form business will take when recovery begins. We may be doing business in another way," Mr. Carlton said. "There will be incorporated in business organizations, however, a knowledge of economy never before possessed."

The desirability of bringing R. C. A. communications into a unified Western Union-Postal Telegraph and Cable system still is advanced by communications experts, but has not been considered at this juncture, inasmuch as the White act of 1927 prevents any union between radio and a wire or cable company.

Commenting on first quarter results, Mr. Carlton said that the company earned about $200,000 in the first three months, which covered interest charges and operating outlay including maintenance. The company hopes to make a better showing during the remainder of the year, he declared, but that will depend entirely upon general business conditions.

Because of the current unsatisfactory volume of business the company could close a large number of its 26,000 offices throughout the country, he asserted, but it is essential to nationwide service to keep those offices open.

Western Union had total assets of $378,846,000 at the end of 1931 and assets of Postal Telegraph and Cable amounted to $134,890,000, making a combined total of $513,736,000. The combined assets of Western Union and International Telephone and Telegraph at the end of 1931 were $994,036,000.

More Air Passengers.

United Air Lines carried 31 per cent more revenue passengers, 16 per cent more mail and flew 11 per cent more miles in March than in February, President P. G. Johnson announced today. With additional services started April 1 on the Pacific coast and in the middle west, United Air Lines increased its scheduled flying to approximately 1,250,000 miles monthly.

Reduction of its rates to rail plus Pullman has resulted in additional revenues, more than offsetting the loss due to a lower rate of fare. The company proposes to maintain rates at the present level and has added trimotored passenger equipment to attract additional passenger business to offset the decreased per mile payment from the government for air mail. United Air Lines is the operating subsidiary of United Aircraft and Transport corporation.

Peerless Motor Reports Loss of $67,001 for Quarter

The Peerless Motor company reports a net loss of $67,001 for the quarter ended March 31, after depreciation and other charges. This compares with a net loss of $43,082 in the previous quarter and a net loss of $114,221 in the March quarter of 1931.

URGES POOL OF $10,000,000 TO GUARD BONDS

Boysen Raps Mortgage Rackets.

BY AL CHASE.

A pool of ten million dollars to help pry old Pa Dearborn out of the real estate bond foreclosure mudhole; a careful investigation into the big foreclosure fee racket being successfully worked by some of our large law firms and the insistence of economical foreclosures by judges were urged last night by Louis K. Boysen, president of the Chicago Mortgage Bankers' association, in an address before that body at the Hamilton club.

Mr. Boysen, who is vice president of the First Union Trust and Savings bank, also discussed Chicago's discouraging tax muddle and predicted that the city will be absolutely without funds before that's straightened out. And in this connection he made the sinister hint that such a situation "may necessitate our citizens seeking the protection of martial law."

In his comments on the local mortgage bond situation Mr. Boysen urged bondholders to hold on to their securities and to coöperate with those who are really trying to solve their problems.

Suggests $1,000,000 Pool.

"It's unfortunate that at the present time no funds seem available to refinance distress property even for nominal amounts," he said. "If loans could be negotiated on masters' certificates of sale, many of the properties could go to sale, clean up the charges and pay off the amount due nondepositing bondholders, and the depositing bondholders could then look forward to some income on their investment.

"These masters' certificates of sale would in many cases be excellent security for loans during the redemption period. A pool of $10,000,000 to be used for this purpose would be of great help.

"I'm glad to note that the Chicago Bar association is now actively engaged in investigating the foreclosure situation in Cook county. We recommend for their careful attention a study of the fees charged in numerous cases. In some of the larger foreclosures involving real estate bond issues, law firms have been known to charge foreclosure fees in excess of $100,000. The legal procedure of foreclosure is almost automatic and there is very little more work in foreclosing a $3,000,000 bond issue than one of $30,000, and consequently there should be no wide discrepancy in fees.

Too Many Orders.

"Another favorite system of increasing charges is the great number of unnecessary orders, such as getting a court order for the receiver to buy five tons of coal or do three dollars' worth of carpenter work. In some foreclosure cases these orders accumulate by the hundreds, each involving additional legal expenses.

"The proceedings before the masters and before the judges should be simplified and thereby become less of a burden on the property. Judges can best serve the bondholders by carefully scrutinizing the principal expenditures and insisting on economical foreclosures."

Mr. Boysen stated that a number of unnecessary foreclosures have resulted from the racketeer owner of one bond, purchased for the purpose of creating a nuisance value, refusing to join in an effort to reorganize the property. He also called attention to the property owner who defaults for the purpose of frightening bondholders into sacrificing their bonds or trading for something of less value.

In Mr. Boysen's comments on Chicago's tax muddle he declared that the extravagant army of tax eating servants, whose reckless obligations must now be paid for by us, should be mustered out. We're to blame, he said, and the quicker they're ousted and our house set in order the sooner we'll be on the road to recovery."

After listing the various attempts to remedy the situation he declared that there is only one way out of the tax dilemma and that is to change the constitution of Illinois and wipe out certain provisions, among them the uniformity clause, placed in it over a century ago to cover conditions entirely different than those of today.

Seeking Stock Mart Villains in Bears' Lair

BY SCRUTATOR.

About the first of this month, just when the various agencies organized to combat depression were beginning to hit on all cylinders, the stock market began a decline that didn't flatten off until about six billion dollars had been clipped from security values. This has prompted a senate investigation of short selling on the New York stock exchange.

Some figure have been furnished by Richard Whitney, president of the exchange, disclosing the extent of the short interest in various stocks. They don't prove much of anything. The supposed object of the inquiry is to find out what caused the decline. There is danger of confusing cause and effect. It is entirely possible that short selling is merely a symptom.

Bear Generally Despised.

The bear is justly despised as an individual who profits by the misfortunes of others. But to assume that bears are responsible for any great part of the long series of declines in security values since October, 1929, is attaching undue importance to their operations.

In the future, 1931 and 1932 probably will be remembered as the years of the great kidding. For two years every one has been kidding himself that values are there; that only the market quotations are down. The general opinion has been that there's nothing to do but sit tight and wait for the business cycle to revolve on its own axis.

This almost mystic faith in the inevitableness of the return of better times has caused the mounting cost of government to be regarded, at least until very recently, with equanimity.

The reasoning has been that if good times are just around the corner the tax load is a heavy burden only temporarily.

On the Villains' Trail.

Then when congress is about to add another billion to the nation's tax bill and falling security prices immediately demonstrate what this will do to business, along comes the proposal for another bear hunt.

Mr. Whitney in Washington attributes the recent heavy liquidation to many developments, among them the withdrawals of gold from the United States, the proposed tax on stock exchange trading and the Kreuger disclosures.

The underlying cause, however, is the attempt to compensate for government extravagance by imposing a billion more in taxes at a time when the national income has been reduced to half its 1929 level.

Stocks are worth less when the earning power of the companies they represent is weakened by increased taxes. Stocks also are worth less when ownership is rendered less attractive by action of congress in increasing the proportion of the dividend income which must be paid in taxes. The same applies to bonds.

Bears Not All Powerful.

Bears are a destructive force and deserve punishment, but bears aren't responsible for the fact that railway carloadings in the first quarter of this year were only 6,795,872, compared with 8,644,258 in the like period of 1931 and 10,493,429 in the first quarter of 1930.

Short selling is an excellent topic of discussion for politicians looking for a nice red herring.

One man recently elected to public office in a conversation the other day expressed his views on economy in this way:

"Certainly, I know that the sensible thing to do is economize. Taxes are too high and people can't pay them. But I can't advocate economy. I owe my election to a large number of people who worked for me, and they worked because they were promised jobs. If I advocate a program of economy that eliminates these jobs, I double cross the people who made me, and that's suicide. The intiative, therefore, has to come from some other source, and the agitation for economy if it's to succeed has to be so persistent that fellows like me will have a good excuse for yielding to it."

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 13.—Weakness in high priced shares, with indications of "sacrifice" liquidation, featured sales on the stock market today.

Sharp declines in stocks which generally have held relatively firm gave further testimony to the effect that some individuals are finding it necessary to bolster up their accounts. Collateral behind "sour" loans, it appeared, was being dumped in the market to satisfy the need in certain quarters for ready funds.

This special brand of selling seemed to account for abrupt setbacks in numerous stocks. Peoples Gas, an Insull company, took a nose dive for 10¼ points. International Business Machine dropped 4½. Drug, Inc., lost 2⅞; Coca Cola, 5; Lambert, 2⅜; Johns Manville, 2⅛; Standard Oil of New Jersey, 1⅝.

Reasons for Declines.

Wall street gossip had specific reasons to assign for the selling of some of these, including dividend uncertainties and actual or prospective unfavorable first quarter earnings reports. Johns Manville was depressed by a first quarter report showing a loss of $900,000 for the period.

Aside from apparent liquidation in a group of stocks, the rank and file of active leaders continued to move a narrow range. Slashing of bill rates did not seem to create much enthusiasm on the buying side, but some of the leaders, reported in more favorable position as a short trading, held up well during the session. American Telephone and Telegraph showed a net change of only ⅝ of a point, while U. S. Steel closed off only ¾. J. I. Case and Du Pont also held firm.

How Other Shares Acted.

In Allied Chemical, General Motors, National Biscuit, American Tobacco "B," North American and Sears Roebuck losses averaged half a point. Woolworth was steady on maintenance of the dividend, although no adverse action had been expected.

Norfolk & Western suffered a late break of 8½ points, Union Pacific lost 2 net, which meant violation of the 50 mark, and Atchison was off 1. Otherwise little of interest happened to the rails.

Two rallies broke into the decline. Just after the opening, pivotal prices firmed 1 to 3 points before meeting enough resistance to cancel those gains. Early afternoon saw another and feebler upturn. Probably of more importance than the price changes was evidence that recent waves of liquidation had subsided into a trickle, for only 1,100,000 shares changed hands, the smalest volume in a month.

COMPLETE THE REFINANCING OF 2600 LAKE VIEW

Cash and Securities Go to Bondholders.

If you have a defaulted real estate bond and haven't been able to get the desired information regarding it from the bondholders' protective committee or from other sources, The Tribune may be of assistance to you. Write to "The Tribune Real Estate Bond Service, Chicago Tribune." Don't ask for information regarding more than one issue at a time. Give name of underwriter and full title of the bond. Inquiries must be accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope for personal reply.

Completion of the reorganization of the 2600 Lake View building by the committee for the protection of the holders of bonds sold through the American Bond and Mortgage company has been effected, it was announced yesterday. Depositing bondholders are receiving for each $100 bond held $20 in cash and voting trust certificates for $90 in two classes of preferred stock, representing their proportionate share in the new ownership of the property.

CHARLES S. TUTTLE.

Ownership of the property has been vested in a new company, 2600 Lake View Avenue Building corporation, in which the preferred stock will be held by the former depositing bondholders and the common stock by the stockholders in the corporation which formerly owned the building. The former owners were included in the new company in consideration of their relinquishment of the right to redeem the property from foreclosure, which greatly facilitated the reorganization.

The officers of the building corporation are: President, Craig B. Hazelwood, chairman of the bondholders' protective committee and vice president of the First National bank of Chicago; vice president, Charles S. Tuttle, vice president of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company; secretary and treasurer, Dayton Keith. Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lautmann, Levinson & Morse are the attorneys.

Bough for $400,000.

In effecting the reorganization, the bondholders' committee acquired the property at foreclosure sale on Feb. 6 for $400,000. Refinancing was arranged through the negotiation of a $400,000 loan at 5½ per cent for fifteen years, beginning March 1, 1932.

The holding, at the northwest corner of Lake View avenue and Deming place, consists of a nine story structure of 103 apartments ranging in size from one to eleven rooms each. It was formerly a semi-coöperative project.

To insure satisfactory management of the building under a unified plan of administration and to provide for liquidation in the event satisfactory disposition can be arranged, the bondholders' committee has placed the control of the preferred stock in a voting trust. Under this plan, three voting trustees are authorized to act in the interests of the preferred stockholders. These trustees include Mr. Hazelwood, Mr. Keith and Charles W. Weston, vice president of the Manufacturers' Trust company of New York.

Plan Sinking Fund.

Voting trust certificates, representing the depositing bondholders' equity in the property, are being issued for stock in the new company in the proportion that each depositor's bonds bear to the total deposited bonds. Each depositor of a $100 bond will receive, in addition to $20 cash, voting trust certificates representing nine shares of class A 5 per cent cumulative preferred stock and nine shares of class B 5 per cent non-cumulative preferred stock. The preferred stock has a par value of $5 a share.

Net profits of the building corporation, after the payment of interest on the mortgage, provision of the amortization of the loan and establishment of necessary reserves, will be used first for the payment of class A dividends and then dividends on class B stock. The remaining net surplus will then be placed in a sinking fund to retire, first, non-cumulative preferred stock, and, second, cumulative preferred stock.

The original bond issue, underwritten by the American Bond and Mortgage company in June, 1927, aggregated $1,200,000. At the time of the first default in principal payment on Dec. 1, 1930, the outstanding bonds had been reduced to $1,122,500. Of this amount, $1,049,500, or 93.5 per cent of the outstanding issue, was on deposit when the reorganization plan became effective.

RESERVE BANK TAKES NEW STEP TO AID BUSINESS

Members Told to Expand Credit Facilities.

increase weekly purchases to $75,000,000. Since early March, when the Glass-Steagall bill became law and the federal reserve system began its open market activity, the system has been adding about $25,000,000 a week to its portfolio of "governments."

By freeing this amount of credit, reserve banks have already enabled commercial member banks to reduce their borrowings, or rediscounts, by some $200,000,000, cutting the total for the country to $635,000,000. Whether the central banks plan to facilitate not only complete retirement of this indebtedness but the building up of surplus reserves, thus encouraging more liberal lending policies by members of the system, was not divulged, although it was pointed out that such an end might well be in view.

Easy Money Policy Checked.

The federal reserve's easy money policy in recent months has twice been interrupted by outgoing gold movements or unfavorable developments abroad. Last autumn the system's efforts were checked by financial disturbances on an international scale which had their repercussions in the "gold run" of America. There was a similar but milder movement early this year when Europe turned bearish on the dollar.

At present, however, foreign balances are greatly reduced, although considerable uneasiness has been caused abroad by our budget deficit, resulting in some additional gold shipments. The Steagall-Glass bill provides machinery for preventing emergencies by replenishing the free gold supply.

Bankers believed a reduction in the New York Reserve bank's rediscount rate at tomorrow's meeting was probable on the theory that it would be a logical step in the desired direction. Dealers in bankers' acceptances this afternoon took the unusual step of cutting yield rates by ⅛ of 1 per cent, bringing short term bills down to a bid price of 1¼. The effect was to increase prices and the purpose was to induce banks, holding about $300,000,000 in acceptances, to part with some of their securities, which they could do at a profit.

Better action characterized the hog trade yesterday. Prices were shoved ahead a little. The bulk of selling was on a fully 5@10c higher level compared with the average market the previous session.

The extreme top at $4.25 was paid freely, while only stock exceeding 250 lbs in weight had to go below the $4.00 line. The general average moved up 5c to $3.95. Buyers proceeded cautiously when yesterday's rally revived talk of another comeback and smaller houses were unusually wary in face of encouraging reports from the wholesale market for fresh pork. Packers say only a limited supply of pork can be moved at the advanced rate. "Should it be possible to attain sufficient volume on the wholesale trade on the current price basis to warrant more aggressiveness on the packers' part, hog prices soon would work back up to $5.00 and possibly higher," one of the local houses contends.

Fresh Meat Trade Better.

The fresh meat trade is practically the only reassuring feature at present and packers are trying not to crowd it. Eastern demand is still very light, though yesterday's late buying by order buyers exceeded expectations and some ran short at the finish when sellers commenced taking stock off the market in an effort to drive the price range higher. Some buyers expecting the bulge to flatten out before the close carried a few orders over unfilled. Large local packers are determined not to raise the $4.00 quotation for top grades. They bought sparingly yesterday, mostly in medium grades, to hold costs down. Few of the 6,000 estimated in sellers' hands at the finish were being offered for sale.

Light hogs averaging 170@210 lbs were bid $4.50 on the futures trade yesterday, but no offers to sell were made. September heavy grades were offered as low as $5.25 and buyers were only 25c away from that figure at the close. May hogs were offered at $5.00@5.25 and bid $4.50.

Cattle Market Quiet.

The cattle market was a quiet affair that showed an inclination to drift lower soon after a few early shipping orders had been filled. Toward the close the selling side had all it could do to hold off a sharp break. The range of prices spread out a little, with the top working up 5c to $8.40, equal to the highest sale since March 22. Weakness in the cattle market spread to all classes, but the few lots of outstanding heavy beeves that sold at the top prices.

Prime 1,530 lb Wyoming steers that had been fattened in Iowa went to Swift at the extreme top of the market. This is the first time this weight has been at the peak in recent months.

Several loads of yearlings averaging less than 1,000 lbs reached $8.25. The bulk of steers sold at $5.65@7.50, only a small share of ill-bred stock going below the $5.00 line. Reports from the wholesale beef trade continued favorable.

Cold storage holdings of beef were unusually low on April 1 this year, the total in the United States at 46,405,000 lbs, comparing with 61,111,000 lbs a year ago and with a five year average of 73,177,000 lbs. The out of storage movement which started in February continued through last month. A good many yearling heifers arrived yesterday, and buyers brought prices down 25c with little effort on their part, but chiseling costs in other classes of butcher stock was more difficult. At the finish most purchases in the cow division figured steady. Bulls were slow but about steady. Calves ruled stronger.

Lambs Hold Steady.

The usual deadlock in the lamb market resulted yesterday when buyers tried to drive prices down 25@50c at the start. Bulk of offerings went into the late afternoon rounds with buyers and sellers in grips, but finally got over the scales a few minutes before the close at Tuesday's quotations. Packers bought good grades at $7.25@7.35, with city butchers and shippers buying at $7.50. The peak was quoted at $7.60 at the finish, against the same price at the close of Tuesday's market. A scattering of native spring lambs sold at $8.00@9.00. Buyers were determined to slash quotations at the opening yesterday, but an advance estimate of 38,000 for today at five markets, against 50,800 last Thursday weakened their position on afternoon rounds.

UNITED LIGHT OMITS DIVIDENDS ON A. & B. STOCK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 13.—Dividends on United Light and Power company class A and class B common stock were omitted today. The company previously had paid 25 cents a share quarterly on each issue. A statement from the company said:

"In order to protect the interest of all security holders of the company the directors have decided to omit the dividend on the class A and class B common stock due at this time."

Action on the dividend was postponed for one month at the preceding meeting of the board. United Light and Power company is one of the nation's large utility companies serving through subsidiary operating companies more than 900 communities in thirteen states.

Net Profit $7,498,136.

Net profit in the twelve months to Feb. 29 was $7,498,136, equal after preferred dividends to $1.12 a share on the combined class A and Class B shares, compared with $9,995,585, or $1.85 a share, on the combined shares in the preceding twelve months.

The New England Equity corporation declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the common stock, placing the issue on a $2 annual basis, against $2.50 previously.

The board of directors of the Woolworth company held their regular April meeting today. The meeting is always one of the most important of the year because it is attended by district managers from all over the country to discuss the trade outlook. Fifteen of the managers were present today.

Take Up 20 Cent Lines.

Their conference was especially important this year because they took up the question of extending the sale of new 20 cent lines of merchandise to additional stores. The company some time ago decided to test the feasibility of offering the higher priced line of merchandise in 100 stores, chiefly located in the west and southwest.

The directors today declared the regular dividend of 60 cents a share on the capital stock. It is payable on June 1 to stock of record April 18. Ordinarily, the record date would not be so close to the date of declaration, but it was necessary to advance it this year in order to close the books for the annual meeting scheduled for May 18.

GOLD EXPORTS SHRINK; HOLLAND TAKES U. S. $494,800 DURING DAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 13.—Gold exports to Europe were confined today to the shipment of $494,800 to Holland against which $2,000,000 gold was received by import from Canada. An unimportant increase of $35,000 in earmarked gold was reported by the Federal Reserve bank, indicating that foreign central banks are still turning their dollar balances into gold, although on no large scale.

LONDON WOOL MARKET.

LONDON, April 13.—(AP)—The good selection offered at the wool auction today was bought freely by the home trade. There were frequent withdrawals of slipes and scoured merinos owing to sellers' high limits. Of the 9,544 bales of wool offered 6,570 were sold.

PROTECTIVE PLAN FOR LAND BANK AT ST. LOUIS, MO.

Formation of a protective committee for holders of farm loan bonds issued by the St. Louis Joint Stock Land bank was announced yesterday. The move was taken because of the danger of a default in interest by that bank with a view of effecting a reorganization, it was announced. The move, it was stated, is designed to avoid a receivership.

The bonds involved also include those issued by the Central Illinois Joint Stock Land bank of Greenville, Ill., and the Southeast Missouri Joint Stock Land bank which were merged with the St. Louis bank several years ago. At the time of the merger the St. Louis banks assumed bonds of the other banks.

Mark Martin, president of the St. Louis bank, said the formation of the committee was a friendly move. The members of the committee are: E. D. Nims, chairman executive committee Missouri State Life Insurance company, St. Louis, Mo.; Frank C. Ball, president Ball Brothers company, Muncie, Ind.; Judge Davis Biggs, vice president St. Louis Union Trust company, St. Louis, Mo.; George F. Hardie, vice president Continental Illinois company, Chicago; Reeve Schley, vice president the Chase National bank of New York; G. A. Tomlinson, president Tomlinson company, Cleveland, O., and Arthur W. Brady, attorney at law, Anderson, Ind.

IRVING TRUST MADE RECEIVER FOR INT'L MATCH

New York, April 13.—(AP)—Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey today appointed the Irving Trust company equity receiver for the International Match corporation, one of the interests of the late Ivar Kreuger.

COTTON FINISH NEAR INSIDE

Cotton markets were strong during the greater part of the morning, with moderate advances secured, but weakened in the late trading in sympathy with the late break in stocks and an easier tone in the wheat market. Higher Liverpool cables with the close 3 points better than the previous day had their influence offset by the break in sterling exchange. Weather conditions are generally favorable for crop development.

The American Cotton Crop Service in its weekly review said weather and price trend during the next six weeks are expected to have more than the usual effect upon acreage outlook and that reports received during the last 30 days have taken a decided change, because of farmers' obtaining government loan funds to enable them to put in a fairly good acreage.

Closing trades were always the lowest of the day with futures in Chicago unchanged to 5 points net lower while other markets were unchanged to 2 points net lower. Spots were unchanged with New York, New Orleans and Galveston 6.25c and Houston 6.20c. Prices follow:

William Wrigley Jr. Company.

Will you kindly advise me what you think of Wrigley common stock?—Thank you.—C. E. P.

Wm. Wrigley Jr., company manufactures several brands of chewing gum, most important of which are "Spearmint," "Doublemint," "Juicy Fruit" and "P. K's." Its plants are in Chicago, Toronto, Frankfurt, Sydney and London. Daily manufacturing capacity is 8,900,000 packages. Distribution is effected through about 900,000 retailers.

Improved plant efficiency, lower prices for sugar and chicle, and increased sales helped the company to report increased earnings each year, with the exception of 1926, from 1920 through 1930.

Net income for 1931 was $10,148,000, or $5.07 per share, against net of $12,296,000, or $6.15 per share for 1930. Net for 1929 was $11,609,000, against $11,069,000 for 1928 and $9,767,000 for 1927.

On March 24, 1932, a press dispatch stated that in the first two months of the current year sales of the parent company, which accounts for most of the business, were slightly ahead of sales for the corresponding 1931 period.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $42,917,000 and current liabilities were $4,005,000. Cash and marketable securities were more than $26,000,000, and notes payable were $460,000. Working capital was $38,912,000 against $39,086,000 the year before.

The company had no funded debt. Capitalization consisted solely of 2,000,000 shares of no par stock.

Surplus was $34,663,000, and goodwill, patents, etc., were valued at $6,067,000.

Dividends have been paid regularly on the common since 1913. The current annual basis is $4 per share. Monthly payments through July 1, 1932, have already been declared.

The company's stable record of earnings, its outstanding position in its field, and its strong current position entitle the capital stock to a rather high rating.

West Ohio Gas.

Your comments on West Ohio Gas 6s, due 1954, will be appreciated.—O. G.

West Ohio Gas company, part of the Midland United system, supplies gas to Lima, O., and vicinity. Operating revenues in 1931 were $705,000, against $725,000 in 1930, and $748,000 in 1929. Fixed charges were earned 2.22 times in 1931, 2.30 times in 1930 and 2.47 times in 1929.

The $1,300,000 first 6s, due 1954, constitute the company's only funded debt. They are a business man's risk.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—Raw silk futures closed weak; sales, 470 bales. May, $1.32@1.34; July, $1.32@1.34; September, $1.33@1.35. Open market quotations [60 day basis]: Shanghai steam, extra B, $2.00; Canton double extra A, 14-16s, $1.80; Japanese crack double extra, $1.57.

FOREIGN BOND DEFAULTS TO BE AIRED IN CAPITAL

Washington, D. C., April 13.—(AP)—The state department declined today to divulge the names of the financial experts who have been invited to attend a conference at the department on Friday concerning foreign bonds which are in default. The department has made it clear it will not take any official step for the collection of defaulted foreign bonds, but is eager that full information be gained from experts so that advice can be given to bond holders as to how they may best proceed to protect their interests.

Charlton Ogburn, New York lawyer, after a conference at the White House today said he had told President Hoover there were a great number "of foreign bonds now in jeopardy."

Ogburn said he had advocated the creation of some form of association for the protection of holders of these bonds. He declined to elaborate, however, saying he believed it would not be proper in the face of the pending conference at the state department.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil today closed barely steady at 3@6 points net decline on sales of 10 contracts or 1,500 brls. Steadiness of cotton was ignored, the late reaction in grains and the disappointing lard market, together with the heaviness of hogs, and crude oil unsettling sentiment. Crude oil was quoted at 2½c bid in Texas and 2⅝c in the southeast and the valley. Bleachable spot and May closed 3.50c; July, 3.62c; September, 3.75c; October, 3.80c. There were no sales in the prime summer yellow contract, with closing prices as follows: Spot, 3.50c; May, 3.40c; July, 3.50c; September, 3.60c; October, 3.65c.

TEXAS OUTLOOK FOR RAIN CUTS PRICE OF WHEAT

Nearly 2c Cut from Top of Tuesday.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Weather conditions are the dominating influence in the wheat market and other factors have little effect in determining the trend of prices. The development of an area of low barometer in Texas which a number or traders regarded as holding out prospects of rain in the southwest led to sufficient selling to more than offset a continued flood of actual damage reports, and caused a break of nearly 2c from the high point on Tuesday.

While one set of local professionals made determined efforts to prevent a decline, another was active on the selling side, on the belief that in addition to the prospective rains the technical position of the wheat market had been materially weakened by the recent bulge. Rapid price changes were in evidence throughout the day, but toward the last increased pressure developed and the close was at the bottom. Net losses were 1½@1⅝c with May 59⅝@59½c, old July 62¼@62⅝c, and old September 64½@64⅝c.

Less Outside Buying.

Outside buying power apparently had exhausted itself, as there was not the snap to the buying which has characterized the wheat market of late. At no time were prices as high as the finish of the previous day. Weakness in Liverpool added to the uncertainty of the bulls and induced considerable profit taking.

The May delivery in the English market which has been holding at a premium of 1c or more over Chicago for a number of days dropped to 59⅝c at the last, or a discount of ⅝c under the local market. Foreigners were said to be somewhat skeptical over the bullish crop comments from the winter wheat belt.

Taken as a whole there was no change in the character of the unfavorable crop comments from the west and southwest. A Kansas grain man who recently estimated the prospective wheat crop in Kansas at 100,000,000 bu, or practically the same as the government April returns, lowered his figure to 80,000,000 bu during the day. No rain was shown on the weather map over night and the forecast indicated part cloudy to unsettled conditions.

Less was heard during the day regarding the late spring in the American and Canadian northwest, as seeding was reported as having started both sides of the international line. With favorable weather it is expected to be general by the end of next week.

Foreign Demand Better.

Exporters were reported as persistent buyers of wheat futures at Winnipeg, and the Canadian market held up better than Chicago, closing 1⅛@1½c lower with May at 63⅝c in Canadian funds. The buying of wheat there was reflected later in reports of 750,000 bu having been sold for export at both coasts. Manitobas were said to be selling at slightly less than American hard winters, the advance in the latter having put them out of line with buyers' views abroad. Canadian farmers were reported as having been good sellers of cash wheat in the last few days.

Buying of corn against sales of wheat in the way of back spreading gave the former market a relatively firm undertone early, but the late break in wheat brought in increased pressure and the close was at net losses of ¼@⅝c. May finished at 34½c, July 37⅝c, and September 40⅛@40¼c. Country offerings to arrive showed improvement, with purchases of 54,000 bu made by local handlers. Planting of corn has progressed northward into extreme southern Missouri.

Fear Damage to Oats.

Fears of drought damage to the new oats crop in Texas was expressed yesterday. In some of the advanced sections of that state the plant has reached the heading stage and unless rains come shortly a light yield is expected. The market was little affected, however, and closed ⅜@½c lower with May at 23⅞c, July 24¼c, and September 24⅞@25c.

Outside trade in rye was light and little attention was paid to the official Canadian report showing stocks in all positions around 9,000,000 bu less than a year ago. Scattered selling on the weakness in wheat caused a decline of ⅞c for the day with May finishing at 46⅛c, July 48⅝c, and September 49⅝c.

RECORD LOW ON BUTTER

Butter futures fell to new low levels on the Chicago mercantile exchange yesterday. Closing prices were off ⅛@⅜c for the day. Egg futures also slumped in active trade, closing ¼c lower. November butter struck 18½c, April 17⅝c, May 16⅞c and June 17⅛c for the new record lows, the May price being the lowest ever recorded in any butter delivery on the exchange boards. Bearish viewpoints as to the near future brought out heavy new selling in November. While new buying was active, the price failed to rally from the lows. Storage reports were very slightly better than last year but opinions generally are that production in the near future will show a heavy pickup. The somewhat less bullish tone to the monthly egg storage report than expected, brought out active selling, new buying failing to check the dip. Sales: butter, 126 cars; eggs, 121 cars. Deliveries: eggs, 2 cars. Prices follow:

ASSERTS TRADE BALANCE FAVORS FRANCE OVER U. S.

PARIS, April 13.—(AP)—Charles Loeb, president of the American chamber of commerce in France, said today that, contrary to popular opinion, the balance of trade between France and the United States is really in favor of France, if the expenditures of American residents and tourists are taken into account.

In 1931, he said, French exports of merchandise to the United States were less by 90 million dollars than American exports to France, but by conservative estimates American residents and tourists spent at least 96 million dollars in France in that year. Also French exports of manufactured products to the United States were 10 million dollars more than American exports to France. Most of the American exports are raw material.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Fresh eggs were offered freely with prices steady to ¼c lower. Receipts, 18,319 cases. Butter was steady to ¼c lower with the market showing an easy undertone. Receipts, 8,077 tubs. Potatoes showed little change in prices. Receipts 76 cars with 274 cars old and 14 cars new on team track. Live hens were 1c lower while Rock broilers, old roosters and stags were 1c higher. Receipts, 3 cars and 35 trucks.

LARD PRICES WEAKEN

Scattered selling of lard futures with commission house buying limited, combined with the erratic action of the wheat market, made an easy feeling in provisions at the close with lard 2½ to 5 cents net lower and bellies off 5 cents. Cash trade was fair. The fact that butter is selling the lowest of the season may affect lard. Liverpool lard was 3d higher. Export clearances were 231,915 lbs lard. Hogs were more plentiful than a week and a year ago, yet the market was higher. Prices follow:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was unchanged today. The remaining 31,500 bags of Philippines nearby were absorbed by local and outport refiners at 2.60c, which cleared the market of all nearby supplies, and while there were said to be further buyers at this level, holders were asking slight advantages. In addition there were sales of 18,000 bags of Philippines for May arrival at 2.65c and 18,000 bags for May shipment at 2.66c, all to operators. There was little variation in futures, but the undertone held steady, due probably to the better tone of the spot market, with final prices unchanged to 5 points net higher. Approximate sales were 17,350 tons. Prices follow:

MEN—UNUSUAL.

We will employ three men for important and remunerative sales positions offering a permanent connection and ideal opportunity.

We are not interested in men seeking a job only; we want the serious minded, intelligent and ambitious young man over 21 years of age who realizes that it is worth while working for a substantial future and who can during this period of apprenticeship satisfy himself with an income of approximately $30.00 per week. Successful men with us have completed this apprenticeship within eight weeks at the most.

We prefer married men who take their responsibilities seriously, living on North Side or in Lake county.

There will be many men who will reply to this advertisement, but you are assured the courtesy of a personal and private interview. Apply Thursday morning, 9:30 to 1:30, at 215 McGraham Bldg., 1046 Wilson-av.

MAN—AT ONCE—PERMANENT.

This position calls for a married man over 25 years of age, who is steady and reliable. It pays well, but we expect results.

Only those who have been accustomed to earning $35.00 a week or better and are permanently settled in South Side or vicinity need apply.

Apply in person, 9:30 to 12 Thursday morning. Also 1:30 to 4:30 at Suite 430 Hyde Park-Kenwood Bank Bldg., 53d and Lake Park-av.

MEN—SIX WEST SIDE MEN LOOKING for an opportunity to make money, who can get along on $34.00 per week to start, who are willing to work and learn our business, will find a permanent connection selling our newest invention. We finance you and pay you in full each week. It costs nothing to investigate. Apply Thursday morning, 9 to 12:30, at 5967 Madison-st., 11-14 Austin Madison Building.

Also can use one man in Joliet and one in Aurora.

Commonwealth Customers—Pay LESS—for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signatures of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

NO FEES. You get full amount of the loan and up to 25 months to repay. Interest at the Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.

Why pay more than HOUSEHOLD'S LOW RATE?

The nationally known HOUSEHOLD LOAN PLAN offers cash loans of $300 or less to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

OVER 150 USED CARS MUST BE SACRIFICED
MUST MAKE ROOM FOR MORE "TRADE-INS" DUE TO INCREASED NEW CAR BUSINESS.
5 DAYS' DRIVING TRIAL.

NASH BROUGHAM. 1929 that looks and runs as though it were direct from the factory. Every detail is excellent. Lavish equipment. Reduced to $295.

CADILLAC SEDAN. 1927 model 314 that will satisfy the most exacting buyer. The original owner oiled and greased it every 500 miles, so now it's topnotch throughout. Reduced to $295.

FORD SPORT PHAETON. 1931 that was actually driven less than 90 days. No one could distinguish it from a brand new car. Has every essential extra. Reduced to $325.

DE SOTO 8 SEDAN. 1930 that was only driven a few thousand miles. The finish glistens like a new dollar and the interior of the car is immaculate. Spirited performance. Reduced to $445.

LA SALLE PHAETON. Some shrewd buyer will make a big saving in this La Salle. It's a real beauty and runs like clockwork. Has wire wheels, side mounts, etc. Reduced to $485.

HUPMOBILE COUPE. Late Century 8 with wire wheels, side mounts, rumble seat, etc. It looks and runs better than many cars priced twice as high. Reduced to $495.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN. 1929 President 8, that has new car appearance and will give you new car performance. Will not remain long at our reduced price of $395.

PIERCE-ARROW SEDAN. Model 81 that was owned in conjunction with two other high priced cars. Result was, this Pierce was in the garage most of the time. Today it's still like new in every respect. Reduced to $495.

STUDEBAKER CABRIOLET. 1929 Pres. 8 with wire wheels, side mounts, rumble seat, etc. It was owned by an official of this company and checked over by the head mechanic daily. Considered from every angle, this carbriolet is like new. Reduced to $495.

GRAHAM-PAIGE SEDAN. 1931 with wire wheels, side mounts, etc. Only gone a few thousand miles. Here is a quality car at an unusually low reduced price, $645.

FRANKLIN SEDAN. Late model on the long wheelbase. We can unhesitatingly say this Franklin looks like new and runs like new. Has all necessary extras. Reduced to $750.

Liberal terms. Open eves. Cal. 6492.
